Summer of '73, class of '77

by WANDALYN RICE

They arrive on their bikes, walking in groups or in cars chauffeured by Mom or Dad; they are short and tall and in various stages of maturity; they are shy and nervous or they are loose, part of a no-sweat world where things come easy.

They were born 14 years ago in 1959 and today, as they start high school as freshmen, they become part of the class of '77 — the newest generation of adolescents to go to school and walk into young adulthood.

Today is the first day for them as some 27,000 high school students go back to school throughout the Northwest suburbs. And if you are a freshman, it is the same for you today as it always has been for every freshman who ever got lost or confused that first day.

High school is an imposing and frightening place. You can see it in a freshman's eyes.

ON ORIENTATION day when the class of '77 comes together for the first time to meet their principal and classmates, the kids go through the rituals of learning the facts of high school life.

Last week, Elk Grove High School gave its class of '77 a chance to take a look at the school during freshman orientation. The purpose was to ease the transition into high school, but it was also a chance for an observer to watch the unique combination of excitement and anxiety that belongs to a newcomer to secondary education.

As a small crowd gathered before the program started, boys gathered around a map of the school and girls hovered in a corner, shyly eyeing the senior boys who had come to represent student council.

The group became progressively louder with girls shouting and jumping up and down in their excitement. After a pause to hear speeches from principals and other dignitaries, the group broke up to tour their new school.

DO YOU REMEMBER how big a high school looks to a freshman? Do you remember the endless corridors, the confusing room numbers, the crowds of unfamiliar faces, the panic inside you when the size of the place struck you? It's still the same. Five girls stood helplessly in front of room 106 and told passers-by they were convinced there was no room 102, no matter what the schedule said.

The few parents on hand seemed more worried than the students about some details. "Do you know where your locker is?" a mother asked her son. "I think it's orange," the boy said and gestured toward rows and rows of orange lockers.

The few seniors present shook their heads at the freshmen.

"I can't believe I was ever like this," one said as four younger boys dashed past, playing tag.

FOR MOST OF the freshmen, though, the loud talk and laughter covered a feeling that if this was the beginning of something, it was also an end. Over in one corner a blonde girl stood with her friends, looking quiet and thoughtful.

Earlier the girl had arrived, clutching her class schedule and accompanied by her father. The father had quickly noted that few parents were present and turned to his daughter. "Do you want me to leave, honey?" he said. "I think you'd be more comfortable if I left."

LOOKING AHEAD TO 1977... the new class of freshmen has arrived.

Mobile home tax brings out wrath of Whippletree trailer residents

by LYNN ASINOF

Residents of Whippletree Village, a mobile home park in northern Wheeling, are unhappy with the new state tax law on mobile homes and are hoping for strong opposition.

The new law provides that mobile home owners must pay a privilege tax of 15 cents per square foot each year. The tax is designed to approximate the proportion of real estate taxes paid by homeowners.

Since mobile homeowners do not pay real estate taxes, school district officials have charged that trailer parks place a burden on the schools by producing many children and little revenue.

However, Whippletree residents interviewed last Friday said the new tax would not equalize taxes, but would double them for mobile home owners.

"I THINK WE'RE paying twice," said Margaret Casey, 144 Charlot Rd. She said she already paid a large sales tax on her mobile home, and noted that the owners of Whippletree pay taxes on the trailer park land.

Leonard L. Gruhke, 232 Whippletree Rd., agreed that the tax was unfair. "How can you tax mobile homes," he said. "I don't think it's right. We paid enough sales tax when we bought. And we're paying rent on the plot. That's something else you've got to consider."

According to Frank Molley, 240 Coach Rd., $36 of his $90 monthly payment goes for taxes. "Do you pay $36 a month apartment tax?" he said. "What's right is right. People who are retired, where are they going to get the money to pay these clowns?"

Molley said the new tax would be a considerable burden on him financially, saying he bought a mobile home because he could not afford an apartment.

WHILE SOME residents said they would band together to fight the new tax, others were resigned to the matter. "I don't think it's going to make any difference how we feel," said one resident. "I think we're going to have to pay it anyway."

When asked if the size of the mobile home was a fair method of taxing, the resident said he felt it was as fair as any type of tax on trailers. Somebody that has a larger trailer should pay a little more, he said.

Stanley Gmiderek, 8 Whippletree Rd., said he thought the idea of equalizing taxes was unfounded. "They're squawking that the people living here with children aren't paying taxes," he said. "Well, I have no children."

Gmiderek said he sold his home because he wanted to get away from soaring taxes. He said the mobile home provided him with a comfortable way to live on his retirement income. "And here it is booming in on us," he said.

SEVERAL WHIPPLETREE residents said they hoped the mobile home industry would exert substantial pressure to get rid of the new tax. Others suggested using the new tax to replace the current sales tax on mobile homes.

Gruhke said a more equitable way of raising revenue from mobile homes might be to institute a licensing system. He said this system is used in Florida where each trailer must exhibit a special tag purchased from the government.

With trailers at Whippletree ranging up to 1,700 square feet, owners of the larger mobile homes could pay as much as $235 a year under the new tax law. With about 460 sites in the Whippletree park, tax money generated by the new law could be as much as $100,000.

BRUHN SUGGESTED the village might look into restoring the old railroad crossing on Wheeling Road. He also said the village could begin installing ramp type sidewalks to facilitate bike riding. In places where curbs are already installed, Bruhn said the village could merely put asphalt to provide a slope.

According to Phillips, there is a great deal of planning needed for the bicycle paths. He said most of the current work will probably not have an immediate effect.

"It would probably be next spring, if at all," he said. "There would have to be a lot of planning and a lot of development."

Single-track bicycle program proposed

The Wheeling Youth Commission is working with various village bodies to develop a single bicycle program.

Commission member Dave Phillips said there are currently several agencies involved with bicycle safety and recreation programs. "I think everybody is doing different things," he said. "If everybody can more or less work together, I think we'll be a lot more effective that way."

PHILLIPS said that while there are many different types of bicycle programs, the most important need in the community is awareness of bicycle safety. "We feel there is a definite need for an increased awareness that there are a lot of kids that are riding improperly, and often some accidents in Wheeling," he said.

THE YOUTH commission has contacted the village board, the Dist. 21 school board and the police department to discuss coordination of bicycle programs. Some suggestions for bicycle programs include a ticketing program for bike riding traffic offenses and a more lively safety program in the schools.

The Wheeling police are currently investigating the possibility of instituting such a ticketing program. Some communities, like Buffalo Grove, have started ticketing bike riders for such offenses as failing to obey traffic signals.

IN SOME TOWNS, the ticketing of bike riders is merely a method of warning cyclists of the dangers of improper riding. In other towns, cyclists receiving tickets are brought before an informal court for a lecture on bicycle safety.

The youth commission is also advocating the creation of bicycle paths throughout the village to provide safe routes for cyclists. Phillips noted that the Wheeling Park District is working with other communities to develop an interconnecting system of bicycle paths through federal and state grants.

Meanwhile, the youth commission has suggested that the village might begin setting up special bicycle routes on existing streets. Phillips is working with village officials to prepare such a route. He

Rodeo tickets still available

Tickets are still available for the Diamond "S" Rodeo in Wheeling Sept. 13. The Wheeling Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the rodeo, which will include steer wrestling, trick riding and roping, bucking horse and bull riding, calf roping and bulldog handling, and bull races. The Diamond "S" Rodeo, which also will include audience participation, is believed to be the only self-contained exhibition rodeo on tour in this county.

The two 90-minute performances will be at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. at the corner of Dundee Road and Twelfth Street.

Advance tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, 170 E. Dundee Rd., and at Chandler's Book Store, 277 E. Dundee Rd. Prices are $2.40 for adults, $1.25 for children and $7 for family tickets which include four children and two adults. Tickets at the gate will cost $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. No family tickets will be sold at the gate. For further information call 537-7400.

Jack Gilligan, a fighter for his own special turf

by LINDA PUNCH

Jack Gilligan doesn't look like a fighter.

A short, mild-mannered man, he seems out of place in the council rooms of Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Wheeling. Yet he has been a major force in the fight for Prospect Heights' incorporation.

The 42-year-old father of five moved to Prospect Heights nine years ago from Sunnyvale, Calif., a "typical bay region area of high density homes."

"The first time I saw Prospect Heights, I thought it was beautiful, really just beautiful," Gilligan said.

Impressed with the "open space and the way people kept up their houses," Gilligan eventually found a house at 36 Lynbrook Dr. Since that time, he has fought to maintain the country atmosphere that attracted him to the community.

Gilligan, a chemical engineer, had his first involvement with Prospect Heights affairs in 1967, following a "major flood."

"I got mad and decided to do something — I volunteered to do what I could," he said. "We organized the McDonald Creek Improvement Committee and I've been working on it ever since."

THROUGH HIS work with flood problems, Gilligan gradually came to the conclusion there "is no good way to solve our problems without a municipality."

"The incorporation movement started as a way to solve our flooding problem. As I worked, I started to look at the total aspect of municipalities putting the crunch on unincorporated areas," he said.

Gilligan credits the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA), of which he is now president, with making him aware of the problems of unincorporated areas.

"The basic idea of incorporation is that we don't want to have our open space ruined by people trampling it down," he said. "I'm not trying to be an alarmist, but you can look at Chicago and see what they've done to themselves. We don't want that to happen out here."

Gilligan frequently attends meetings of the boards and commissions of neighboring villages, especially when Prospect Heights residents may be affected.

"There are always zoning problems — at least one every three months. We're winning on most of them," he said. "We can't lose things too often or people will just walk all over us."

ONE OBSERVER who watched Gilligan in action at a recent Wheeling plan commission meeting notes that "he really does his homework."

"He looks like a meek guy who just popped in — he's not what you'd call a strong figure," the woman said. "When he gets up to speak, though, you can really tell he knows what he's talking about."

Noting that Gilligan was "not terribly comfortable" in his public appearance, she added that he would "probably prefer to let them know quietly, if he could."

Gilligan is apparently a great believer in citizens' power.

"Corruption isn't going to happen if people are informed and alert," he said.

"When people do something that affects me badly, I'll fight."

Gilligan is also an advocate of "keeping attuned to what the people want."

"I think the good politician is the guy who understands the people he represents. The guy who remains aloof is not a good representative or leader," he said. "We've (PHIA) had a great deal of influence because the people are behind us. When we go down to Springfield, the representatives listen to us."

While Prospect Heights residents have provided the basis of support for the incorporation movement, Gilligan has been the driving force. Mount Prospect village resident Marie Caylor, active in many village functions, said he's "done more for the striving for incorporation than anybody."

"He's very dedicated to the job of getting Prospect Heights incorporated. I'm sure the community would have dropped incorporation a long time ago, if it hadn't been for Jack," she said.

Gilligan seems to have little patience for "fence sitters" on the incorporation question.

"It's hard for people to understand what is going on. All they have to do is open their eyes," he said. "You can't really qualify the effect of a development like Old Orchard will have on the community."

"PEOPLE SAY we've got to sell incorporation on the basis of it being economically feasible. I agree," he added. "But many intangible things are involved that you can't assign a cost to in terms of money."

Although his name crops up frequently as a possible mayoral candidate if Prospect Heights incorporates, Gilligan denies any aspirations for the position.

"I wouldn't want to be mayor, but I'll probably be forced to do it," he said. "People say 'yeah, you deserve it' but I don't believe that. You don't hand it to somebody because they deserve it."

While he claims no political interest, Gilligan continues to fight for the city of Prospect Heights as envisioned by the PHIA.

"It's not worth going through all of this without assuring that the people in office carry out the plans," he said.

Allergy could be around the corner

The signs of hay fever are easy to spot these days — the watery, itchy eyes, the runny noses.

But while your friends may be carrying around handkerchiefs, you may consider yourself one of the lucky ones. Hay fever never bothers you at all, you've never even had one small symptom.

Don't be too quick to think you've been saved. You may have at least one allergy and don't even know it. You may be one of the estimated 100 million allergic Americans who has a mild or unrecognized allergy symptom or who simply hasn't encountered that special malaise you can call your own.

What you are allergic to may lurk in another section of the country waiting to spoil your coming vacation; it may be a new chemical or pharmaceutical ready to be marketed.

HAY FEVER AND asthma rank third in prevalence among all chronic diseases and constitute the most common cause of disability among school children.

Persons with allergies cost employers 18 million days of sick pay annually. Allergy victims spend $235 million a year for medicines, desensitizing injections and throat sprays. Yet few people with allergies are getting maximum benefits from recent medical knowledge about the cause of allergies and new ways to identify and treat them, according to the Family Economics Bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co.

Allergies can be caused by dust, chemical vapors, animal hairs, smoke and pollution, feathers, spores, cosmetics, foods, beverages, medicines (even common aspirin), fabrics, plants, metals, woods, plastics, soaps and detergents, enzymes, vaccines, insect bites and snake venoms, bacteria, fungi, molds and viruses.

For those whose allergies are serious, the sting of a wasp or an injection of penicillin could be fatal in minutes. For others, whose allergies are mild or unrecognized, a "sinus" headache results when the real problem may be an allergy to tobacco smoke.

THERE IS RELIEF available. In 1960 a husband-wife research team isolated a substance in the blood called immunoglobulin E (IgE), the body's defense against disease. IgE has the ability to recognize and neutralize germs and bacteria. This reaction is the basis of all immunization and the basis of all allergies.

When the invader is a substance the body has developed an allergy too, called an allergen, the immune reaction is altered and the annoying symptoms of allergy result.

There are numerous forms of IgE, each specific for different allergens. In allergy victims, IgE becomes concentrated in abnormal amounts in cells of the nose, bronchial tubes, intestines or skin. On later exposures, when the allergen meets its corresponding IgE antibody, the two combine and cause the release of histamine in sensitive tissues.

A series of skin prick tests can identify allergies. A new technique, being perfected in the U. S. and Sweden, can find allergies by using a blood sample. The new technique is expected to be widely available to medical centers within the next five years, and make the skin prick tests obsolete.

THERE ARE ALSO drugs to treat allergies including adrenalin, steroids and anti-histamines. A new treatment for asthma and related allergies, widely used in England, is to inhale a powder form of the drug disodium cromoglycate. It blocks the release of histamines without interfering with the body's immune system. There is disagreement about its clinical value, however, and because the drug is expensive it is unlikely to become a widely-used remedy.

Another breakthrough for allergy sufferers came with the recent discovery that tiny mites are the main source of allergen in house dust — the most common cause of allergy aside from ragweed pollen.

If it is impossible to avoid the source of your allergy, and if treatment with drugs is not effective, desensitization therapy is the only alternative. The treatment consists of periodic injections of the allergen with the goal of increasing tolerance to the point where amounts encountered in daily life cause little or no reaction. Concentration of allergen in the injections is gradually increased, and it sometimes takes years to build up enough tolerance.

Outdoor pool changes hours

Beginning today, new hours will be in effect at the Wheeling Community outdoor pool.

The pool will be open from 1 to 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays and from 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays until Sept. 15.

The park district is extending the season at the outdoor pool because Neptune's Indoor Pool is closed for about two weeks while workmen install ceramic tile on the pool deck, shower and locker rooms and in the hallways.

A new heater has been put in at Community Pool to enable residents to continue to swim there the next two weeks even if the temperatures turn chilly.

Park officials are hoping to complete the work at Neptune's Pool by the time the outdoor pool closes.

Following the Community Pool closing, the park district will conduct its annual fishing derby and fry. The pool will be stocked with fish for residents to catch and cook for a small fee.

Deadline today for park candidates

Today is the deadline for submitting applications for the vacant commissioner's seat on the Wheeling Park Board.

So far, five persons have expressed an interest in the position. Applications, in the form of a letter to the board, will be accepted at the park district office, 222 S. Wolf Rd., until 5 p.m.

The vacancy on the board was created when former Park Board Pres. Gus Nizzi resigned two months ago to accept a position in the Neenah, Wis., school system.

Applications for Nizzi's seat have been received from Frank Schnaltmann, 81 George Rd.; John Bailey, 949 Wilshire Dr.; Michael Weiner, 34 E. Jeffery Ave., and Mrs. Dorothy Crane, 358 Walnut Ave.

The board will review the applications and interview candidates at Thursday's regularly scheduled meeting. Interviews are scheduled at 15-minute intervals beginning at 7:15 p.m. with the business meeting to follow.

The commissioners will vote to appoint the fifth member of the board after the interviews only if the entire board is present. If one of the commissioners is absent, the appointment will be delayed until he or she has had a chance to review the taped interviews.

DP shooting victim termed 'fair' condition

A Des Plaines shooting victim has been removed from intensive care and was listed in fair condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital.

Peter Klein, 29, 910 Beau Dr., spent a "comfortable weekend" and is improving, according to a hospital spokesman.

Klein was shot eight times by his roommate, Antal Schmidt, 29, Tuesday night, according to Des Plaines police. One of the bullets punctured Klein's right lung.

Schmidt was taken to Cook County Jail Wednesday on $25,000 bond to await a Sept. 6 court appearance in Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

According to police the shooting occurred about 8:30 p.m. when Klein returned from work. The roommates had argued earlier over the use of a Jaguar sports car which they shared.

THESE YOUNGSTERS were among many who enjoyed Sunday's annual Buffalo Grove Days parade. After the parade they were able to enjoy rides and games near the village hall. The day's fun was topped off with a fireworks display.

Take 'adult' magazines off display: commission

Wheeling storekeepers will soon be asked to display their "adult" magazines out of the reach of youngsters.

Members of the youth commission are starting a letter campaign to make shopkeepers aware of the problem of young people leafing through such magazines.

The commission initiated the project after the village board decided to abandon a proposed obscenity ordinance which would prohibit the sale of such magazines to persons under 17 years of age.

The trustees decided not to enact the ordinance because of problems that might result from enforcing it. Several noted problems in defining obscenity, saying the village might be overstepping its authority in passing the ordinance.

IN ABANDONING the ordinance, the board endorsed a voluntary approach to the problem of adult magazines. When the youth commissions suggested taking over the program, the board wholeheartedly endorsed their efforts.

The letter drafted by the youth commission asks that shopkeepers "display this material where it would not be accessible stimulation to a youngster's curiosity."

"The young mind, with its insatiable curiosity, eagerly devours everything within range," the letter states. "So not to preach, put out of reach."

Commissioners are expected to follow up the letter with a personal visit to the various shops in the village which sell "adult" magazines.

High school's first day

that she wanted to answer both yes and no. "Yes, Dad," she wanted to say, "Leave so I can tackle this adventure on my own." "No, Dad," she wanted to say at the same time. "I'm scared and I want you here just like you were when I was a little girl."

Finally, her father made his own decision. He smiled at his daughter, turned and walked out of the building without looking back.

Now, an hour and a half later, the girl was standing, talking to her friends and looking still a little uneasy. But this was high school. And she was on her own.

Class of '77—what's ahead?

What's ahead for the class of '77?

According to most experts, the freshmen who enter high school today will emerge at the end of the 70s with greater prospects for a job — but that the job market will be dramatically different and oriented towards service rather than production industries.

And above all, the freshmen of today should be prepared to join an increasing band of Americans who are basically rootless as they wander across the country.

The most prominent occupation today is clerical work — not production line factory work — and 67 per cent of our work force is either buying, selling or performing some service.

The trend toward a mobile society is increasing rapidly. Over the past three years 100 million persons have changed addresses and most of the moving has been confined to three areas of the country where the jobs are: California, Florida and Texas.

OTHER TRENDS:

—There will be a greatly increased demand for people with annual skills compared to academic skills.

—A high school education will not be enough to compete on tomorrow's job market, although manual skills compared to academic subjects may not be as valuable as advanced training in some vocational skill.

—The job market will open up dramatically for women. By 1980 half of all the employees will be women, compared to 40 per cent today. In fact, the average girl in high school now will spend more than 25 years of her remaining lifetime as a worker.

Pro se court: try it here

The "little man" whether in the Northwest suburbs or in the city of Chicago, has found a friend in Civic Center Courtroom 1307 — and that friend, we feel, should be encouraged to visit the suburbs.

The "friend" is something called pro se court, a court room which is designed to help out the man or woman with a claim of $300 or less.

In the past, dealing with a claim of this size could have been a nightmarish experience. A lawyer — and we all know what lawyers generally cost — would be necessary. A long, protracted wait for a day in court could be expected. Even then, there would have been little guarantee of satisfaction.

However, four years ago the Illinois Supreme Court ruled that a pro se court was needed. Thus, the bottleneck of ordinary Circuit Court sessions was reduced for the "little guy."

As reported by Herald Metropolitan Affairs Editor Al Messerschmidt, the court has a variety of advantages over the normal judicial process:

—No lawyer is required, as both parties plead their own case before the judge.

—Cases start at 3 p.m., saving complainants time away from work.

—Judge Emanuel Rissen, who volunteered to serve in the pro se court, is a compassionate negotiator who seems to have a unique ability to work out problems between people.

Although the court's located in Chicago's Civic Center, statistics show that about 20 per cent of the court cases (835) come from the suburbs. These numbers are enough to indicate that the court's been of value to Chicagoans and suburbanites alike.

It also demonstrates that the court meets a suburban need, and it makes good sense to suggest that the court be held on a rotating basis in the suburbs.

Sessions could coincide with traffic court, for example. Judge Rissen or another Circuit Court judge could hold pro se court sessions on a regular schedule, perhaps hitting each of the major suburban courts on a once a month basis.

This suggestion is not intended to diminish the success of pro se court in Chicago, as the court has met a very basic need — personalized, humanized and speedy justice. We hope someday it'll come to the suburbs, too.

Who DID Nixon tell?

by STEVE GERSTEL

WASHINGTON — In his speech two weeks ago to the Veterans of Foreign Wars, President Nixon said that "appropriate congressional leaders" were informed of the secret bombing of Cambodia which went on for 14 months.

The pertinent quote from the speech was: "The fact of the bombing was disclosed . . . to appropriate congressional leaders, those in the military affairs committee like Eddie Hebert."

Nixon's version of who was told does not square with a Pentagon report to Rep. Edward F. Hebert, D-La., the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, and placed in the Congressional Record Aug. 2.

The report said three senators and three members of the House were "advised of these operations" although not "briefed on a continuing basis throughout the operation."

Those cited as being advised were the late Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., then chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee; Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., then and now the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, and the late Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Those who knew in the House, according to the Pentagon report, were the late Rep. Mendel L. Rivers, D-S.C., then chairman of the House Armed Services Committee; Rep. Leslie C. Arends, R-Ill., House Republican whip and ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee; and House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan.

Hebert, who put the Pentagon report in the Record with a few preceding remarks, took no exception to the listing of those who knew nor to his omission from the prestigious lineup.

Whether Rivers, at some point, confided to his deputy Hebert or whether Nixon threw in Hebert's name because he was speaking in New Orleans, Hebert's home district, is open to conjecture.

The Pentagon list does not support Nixon's assertion that "appropriate congressional leaders, those in the military affairs committee" were the ones informed.

Stennis, Rivers and Arends were at that time, in 1969, on Armed Services Committees. So was Russell, who had relinquished the top post to become chairman of Appropriations.

But neither Dirksen nor Ford served on the Armed Services Committee.

II, as Nixon claims, the criteria was membership on Armed Services, why was former Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, the ranking GOP member in the Senate, left off the Pentagon list?

Why, for that matter, was Rep. George Mahon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee and also chairman of its defense subcommittee, not advised?

If however, the criteria was leaders in the Senate and House, how come the Pentagon briefed only Republicans — Dirksen, Ford and Arends?

Why not Speaker John McCormack, House Democratic Leader Carl Albert, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield, House Democratic whip Hale Boggs and Senate Democratic Whip Edward M. Kennedy?

For that matter, how about Arends' counterpart in the Senate at that time, then Senate republican whip, Hugh Scott, who later succeeded Dirksen?

The answer probably is that those six were carefully chosen because they were loyal adherents of Nixon's Indochina policy and could be trusted to keep a secret. (UPI)

Explains high food prices

Have you figured out yet what is causing the high food prices?

—Last year, the U.S. made a deal to ship Russia one-fourth of our wheat crop, plus other grains. The General Accounting Office officially charged on July 9 that this Soviet grain deal caused "higher prices for bread and flour-based products, increased prices for beef, pork, poultry, eggs and dairy products, resulting from higher costs for feed grains."

—The Soviet grain deal also resulted in higher costs and shortages of other items because of the "severe disruption of transportation facilities."

—Our Government spent $300,000,000 of the taxpayers' money in export subsidies in order to enable the Soviets to buy U.S. wheat at the bargain price of $1.63 per bushel, whereas the price Americans have to pay rose rapidly to $3.00 per bushel.

—In addition, our Government used another $500,000,000 of the taxpayers' money to give the Russians a loan so they didn't have to pay cash for the wheat! Yet, the Soviet Union is the second largest gold-producing nation in the world!

—As the price of meat goes up and up, some Government officials say, "Eat fish instead." But the price of fish is even higher because the U.S. has permitted Russian fishing ships to take 50 per cent of the fish off our Atlantic coast. Other countries prevent "overfishing" of their continental shelf by foreigners; our State Department does not.

Don't blame the farmers or the grocers for the high cost of food! Put the blame where it belongs — on the shipments to Russia!

'Floods threaten'

The threat of flooding along Salt Creek in Elk Grove Village has increased as the village has grown. Each year more homes, apartments and factories have been built using up the land which was formerly used to absorb the water. In addition, the runoff has been directed via storm sewers, streets and ditches to the creek. The water has gone over the banks into the flood plain along the creek a little higher each year during and immediately after a big rain storm.

This year, the County has drastically upset the balance. They have allowed their contractors on the Arlington and Devon sewer job to dump hundreds of yards of fill in the flood plain along the creek. This same flood plain that held enough water last year to accommodate salt boats is now filled with dirt from the County's sewer project.

Governor Walker has been dragging his feet on the Busse Woods flood retention project which is upstream from Elk Grove Village. With the state providing us with water upstream and the county filling in the flood plain downstream, Elk Grove High School, Lions Park, the Elk Grove Library, the Elk Grove Youth Center and the residents along Salt Creek, such as myself, can be assured of an interesting spring.

Back ownership

A little noticed bill, S. 268, which passed the U.S. Senate recently, would alter a fundamental concept of our Constitution — private ownership of land. Under the guise of "Land Use Policy and Planning Assistance" the Senate voted to undermine the concept of private ownership of land by dragging the U.S. into planning of a "more efficient system of land use."

This is an important step toward the communist and socialist goals of controlling the means of production and distribution. Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, declared, "Now we are being told that private citizens are too stupid and too greedy to be allowed to decide how to use their own land. I intend to oppose this legislation which, in my opinion, is part of a collectivist ideology which turns the clock back hundreds of years and will eventually return this nation to a feudal system of land use."

This bill should be vigorously opposed. U.S. citizens must retain the historic privilege of private ownership of property. S. 268 passed the Senate and is now before the House.

Write your representative, urging him to oppose this bill. Remember, your influence counts. Use it.

Why should we pay taxes to give Russia our food on credit while our meat and bread prices skyrocket, and we must pay cash?

What can we do?
—Demand an immediate, full-scale Congressional investigation of the entire problem of food — and the cost to the U.S. taxpayers and consumers of our shipments to Russia.

—Write your own Senators and Congressmen and insist that our Government stop all shipments to Russia and other Communist countries until this investigation is completed. Go to Washington and talk with any and all Legislators to enlist their support.

—Write Senator Henry Jackson, who started an investigation on July 20 into last year's Soviet grain deal. Tell him you support his investigation and hope he will broaden it to make sure that U.S. taxpayers and consumers don't get taken for a ride again!

Fair bugs her

I am writing to tell of the shoddy practice that was used to hire the young people for the Future of America Fair. Our daughters aged 18 and 15 were given the telephone number and name of a Ms. Jane. They phoned on Tuesday before the fair. Gave the hours they wanted to work and were told to come in on Wednesday to sign the exemption card and give their Social Security number.

Our 18-year-old arrived 10 a.m. Wednesday morning, she along with other girls were given a guided tour, showed what stand they were to work, to punch the time clock, and where to get their uniforms. They were also told they would get paid for four hours that day, and were to return at 10 a.m. Friday morning. Our 15-year-old and three other friends went over Wednesday afternoon, they were to be fill-ins at stands, and given their sheet of working hours for the entire fair.

All five girls reported 10 a.m. Friday morning to a Ms. Sophia, she informed them all jobs were filled and they had over hired. Our five were not the only ones lead to believe they had a job, but they met many of their friends who had been given the same misinformation.

These young people came to the conclusion that adults are liars and can't be trusted. If they had been told right at the start that the jobs were on a first-come basis, their disappointment would not have been felt so deeply. If this had been the case a few parents would not have cancelled their vacation plans, or our daughter would not have turned down baby sitting jobs for the Labor Day weekend. With the way the whole mess was handled parents of these youngsters have been turned off toward spending some time at the fair. I just hope adults grow up and play it square with our young people. Realizing the New York group has to show a profit, I do think it would benefit them to try for better relations among its future patrons.

Why Nixon keeps tapes

Listening to President Nixon explain why he didn't want to release the White House tapes I understood how he felt because one time I planted a microphone at one of my mother's parties. I didn't exactly destroy any confidentiality but the potential for rank embarrassment was so great that Mom had to spill a pot of coffee — right into my recording equipment — to avoid it.

Maybe that's what's holding the President back — recalling what some of his guests said about other of his guests.

Maybe Martha Mitchell breezed in one day, looking for John and the loaf of bread she asked him to bring home, just as Henry Kissinger was leaving. And as the door closed behind Kissinger she said, "Dick, what the hell do you suppose all those glamour girls see in Hank? He leaves me cold, cold, cold. Thank God, he's not in the State Department, he'd establish an Affairs of State division. Get it? AFFAIRS of state — him and his women? Why aren't you laughing, Dick, you worried Hank might be listening outside the door?"

Or maybe Martha found John and the loaf of bread having a conference with Charles Percy and the President, and when Percy left Martha said, "He's cute, why don't we groom him for the 1976 Presidency?" And John said, "Shut up, Martha." And Martha said, "Don't tell me to shut up," and hit him with the loaf of bread. Then John and Martha said, "Don't look so distressed Mr. President, this is just a little family spat, nobody will ever hear about it."

Or maybe Kissinger and Sam Ervin were waiting for the President and like ordinary men got to talking about women, and Kissinger commented that Pat Nixon was a very attractive woman. Which caused the Senator to say, "Ah, ah, remember what the Bible says, boy, about coveting — not thy neighbor's handmaiden nor anything else, but most of all, boy, not thy President's wife." And when the meeting was over he was the first to leave, giving Kissinger a wink and saying, "Remember, boy, yield not to temptation," as he closed the door behind him.

Whereupon Kissinger said, "Dammit, Richard, I can't stand that pious old wind-bag. He gives me such a pain that I think I'll go visit Martha Mitchell — she gives me a pain too but Sam gives me such a big one that I have to taper off with her so I don't get the bends. What's the matter, Richard, you worried that Sam and Martha might be listening outside the door?"

Maybe when plans were first announced of the visit to Washington by Soviet Chairman Leonid Brezhnev, Nixon himself forgot about the microphone in his office and burst out with, "Ye gods, we'll have to keep Martha away from him, she might hit him with a loaf of bread and destroy everything that Henry and I have been working for."

Maybe. But I don't think we'll ever know; the President probably has a pot of coffee he can spill too.

Paddock leagues await 1973-74 debuts

Pins start falling Saturday in Classics

Women open at Hoffman; 14th season

Question: Which Paddock Women's Classic bowler will have the largest fan club during the upcoming winter's Traveling League play?

She's captain Janet Broderick of the Sullivan Pontiac team based out of Beverly Lanes in Arlington Heights. Mrs. Broderick is the mother of four boys and two girls.

That gives her a one-fan edge over Ethel Juenger of Franklin Weber and Ten Pin Bowl who has three sons and two daughters.

The 40-woman Paddock Classic Traveling League rolls into its 14th season at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at Hoffman Lanes.

Back intact is defending champion L-Tran Engineering of Thunderbird Lanes. Captain Lorrie J. Koch, last year's league leader, will be joined again by Vi Douglas, Toshi Inahara, Isobel M. Kosi and Marlis Pleckhardt.

L-Tran won a six-game championship playoff, four games to two, last April to defeat Striking Lanes and hot bowler Bette Brille for the Classic title.

Bette, who's back again this season, led all scorers in the championship series with a 1,143 six-game total. She rolled games of 228-193-116 at Thunderbird and 168-191-152 at Striking.

But L-Tran's fine overall bowling, with all five team members bunched around 1,100 pins, gave the winners a 5,519-to-5,197 pin total advantage and erased any chance Striking Lanes had to reach a seventh game.

Championship series totals for L-Tran were Toshi Inahara 566-555 — 1,121, Lorrie Koch 579-541 — 1,120, Isobel Kosi 530-506 — 1,110, Marlis Pleckhardt 536-545 — 1,063 and Vi Douglas 524-554 — 1,078.

Lorrie Koch is the top award winner on L-Tran's team. She won the 1972 Albuquerque (N.M.) Open and took a gold medal two years ago in the Open division of the Womens International Bowling Congress all-events play.

Probably the most decorated bowler this winter will be Bobbie Kostelny bowling for Doyle's Sport Shop out of Des Plaines Lanes. Mrs. Kostelny's honors include Illinois singles, doubles and all-events championships, 14 titles in California prior to 1960, five sanctioned series above 700 with a high 744, 11 Chicago All-Star teams since 1960 and three Chicago doubles titles.

Mrs. Kostelny has been a finalist nine times in the National All-Star Tourney. She placed second in 1963. That same year, she was runner-up in the World Invitational Match Game Championships where she's been a finalist five times.

Numerous other honors including 1963 Chicago Bowler-of-the-Year have been accumulated during her fine career.

Outlet was needed for high-average bowlers

Men's competition began in 1957; women joined Paddock ranks in '60

Bowlers come in all shapes, sizes, and ages.

They also come with a variety of averages.

It's never any problem for bowlers with the so-so averages to find leagues, but it's not quite that easy for the guy or gal who carries the big totals.

It's not much fun for the high-average bowler to match his skills against somebody who has trouble stringing strikes or even covering spares.

The high-average bowler thrives on the competition of performers in his own class, someone who can match him frame for frame in a pin-falling confrontation.

It was in 1957 that four men recognized the need for a regular outlet in the Northwest suburban area for the bowler who was several pins above the average alley-crasher. There were no nearby leagues for the suburban men who thrived on high averages and high competition.

On May 11, 1957, a Saturday morning, a league was born, the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

The league was the inspiration primarily of four men. Al Walter, Tom Kouras and Ward Siewert — all proficient suburban bowlers — teamed with Bob Paddock of Paddock Publications to form the division.

It became, quite quickly, the elite of the bowling leagues in the suburban area, for that is exactly what it was intended to be.

An idea flickered, was quickly illuminated, and the league made its entrance. The Paddock newspapers promoted it, gave it widespread publicity, and helped make its takeoff a smooth and soaring one.

What followed was a consistent dedication to quality bowling, a dedication that has reaped its own rewards. Improvement in the caliber of the competition and the bowling each year.

The first year — the 1957-58 PCTL season — the league founders set a 910 average as the qualification for a team. And the average kept climbing...

New teams entered the league sparingly in those early days. The PCTL — whose first franchise alleys were Hi-Way Recreation in Palatine, Des Plaines Bowling Lanes, Beverly Lanes of Arlington Heights, Gunnells of Mount Prospect, Jeffery in Wheeling and Ten Pin in Barrington — didn't expand until 1960.

Then Country Lanes in Lake Zurich and Bowlway in Elgin picked up franchises, while the Des Plaines franchise went to River Rand Bowl. Shifts have been continuing through the years but the caliber of bowling continues as high as ever.

The loop has always been conducted on a traveling basis to give the bowlers a wide exposure and eliminate any great home alley advantage.

When the women demanded equal bowling time, what else could Paddock Publications do but obey?

Thus, in 1960, the girls launched open-weekly showcase of outstanding bowling talent.

Why not stop in some Saturday night and watch the pins fall?

Men's 17th year begins at Meadows

Timber!

The familiar sound of falling lumber will be amplified Saturday night when the eight-team Paddock Classic Men's Traveling League launches its 17th season at Rolling Meadows Bowl.

The lumberjacks — 40 of the top scratch bowlers in and around the Northwest suburban area — all boast averages of 185 or better. They'll embark on a 32-week schedule that includes stops at Ten Pin Bowl, Hoffman Lanes, Des Plaines Lanes, Beverly Lanes and Rolling Meadows Bowl.

The 1972-73 defending champion Des Plaines Ace Hardware quintet of Don Christensen, Barry Stjernberg, Mike Wagner, Tom Kouras and Wally Loft-house are returning intact, but the caliber of their competition will make repeating a difficult assignment.

Stjernberg was the champs' top average kegler with a 195.75 average, but it still left him only fourth in the final individual standings. Christensen's 192.50, Kouras' 190.35, Wagner's 187.34 and Loft-house's 185.55 averages came in important supporting roles.

Des Plaines Ace Hardware accumulated 143 points by averaging 952 as a team per game. Their high game was a league-leading 1,095 and high series, 3,181.

Only Morton (new Sullivan) Pontiac's 3,190 high series prevented the titlists from sweeping both team categories.

Individually, last year's winners were void of representation in either high average, high game or high series departments. Bob Glaser, the only member in league history to roll a perfect 300 game, was easily the men's scoring champion with a robust average of 263.1 for 90 games.

Fred Hansen blasted the top game of the season when he cranked a 286 toward earning the runner-up average at 198.57. Gene Kirkham, Rolling Meadows Bowl's new proprietor, pocketed the high series trophy with a booming 712 over his home lanes. Kirkham averaged 195.57 for fourth in the final standings.

Christensen has become the "grandfather" of the Paddock Classic Traveling League by virtue of tossing from the circuit's initial year in 1957 to the present.

During those 15 seasons, Christensen has bowled in 1,506 games, racked up 285,107 pins and averaged a consistent 189. His high game over that span has

Defending men's champ

READY TO LAUNCH defense Saturday of its 1972-73 Paddock Classic Traveling League championship is this Des Plaines Ace Hardware outfit

Mount Prospect midgets open Sunday

The annual autumnal madness returns to Lions Park this Sunday, Sept. 9, as the Mount Prospect Midget Football Association begins its 17th season of competition between 30 teams in three divisions. There will again be six squads in the Senior class and 12 each in the Junior and Bantam levels.

The six system directors this season will be Vic Rose (Bears), Pete Petran (Cardinals), Kurt Telchert (Colts), Frank Holan (Giants), Tony Arredia (Lions), and Ken O'Callaghan (Packers). Brothers Norb Chmura (Bears) and Frank Chmura (Lions) will return as veteran coaches, and Vic Rose (Vikings), Mike Alesia (Wildcats) and Bob Broeren (Browns), will assume new head coaching duties.

Mort Sennett and Howie Van Schalk will be a tandem head coach act with the Cardinals. Bob Carroll (Redskins), Pete Petran (49ers) and Jim Smith (Badgers) will be solid returning coaches with Dick Miller (Buckeyes) making his debut.

Frank Holan (Steelers) is the only head coach coming back in the Giant system. Taking over new jobs are Ron Argast (Giants), Scott Dixon (Falcons), Ed Wallace (Hawkeyes) and Tom Kruss (Tigers).
The Colt system has had a complete turnover in head coaches with Don Anderson (Colts), Jack Frugo (Cowboys), Chris Childers (Rams), Larry Fumagalli (Wolverines) and Pete Nickle (Hoodlums).

In contrast, the Packer system is intact with last year's line-up of Ken O'Callaghan (Packers), Tony Falduto (Chiefs), Ed Fandel (Eagles), Bob Chudik (Gophers), and Tom O'Brill (Spartans).
The Lions will have head coach Cliff Modre in his first year with the Senior division and Tony Arredia will be back with the Jets. Rookie pilots will be John Engol (Bollermakers), Jerry Lee (Raiders), and Bob Popovich (Bruins).

The Association officers this year are: Dennis Kennedy, President; Tony Falduto, Vice President; Connie Kondrat, Treasurer; Dick Hiller, Secretary; Bill Rehnert, Head Referee; Connie Maestranzi, Commissioner; Leo Doyle and Dave Marofski, Assistant Commissioners. Dick Weaver will return as Publicity Director.

The opening day schedule is as follows:

- SENIOR DIVISION
12:30 - Giants vs Bears
2:00 - Lions vs Packers
3:30 - Cards vs Colts
- JUNIOR DIVISION
12:30 - Steelers vs Cowboys

Rick Weaver—happy in Miami

LAST WEEK in this space, I expressed the opinion that Rick Weaver was the best talk-sports show host I could remember in Chicago (he was around in the late '60s) and lamented that in my mind we haven't had another show like his since.

Thinking about whatever happened to Weaver aroused my curiosity. With the assumption that the same was true of others in the area, he was tracked down at his current place of employment, WIOD radio in Miami, Fla. where he is now very successful and popular as a play-by-play man for the Dolphins.

I had made certain guesses about Rick and wanted to find out if they were true. I had surmised that perhaps Chicago's sports scene in general might have seemed to carry a losing, inferiority complex, that maybe Weaver had gotten too much heat from sensitive fans for his hard-hitting, controversial style, that he may have been forced out of his job at WBBM radio, and that maybe he found fans in other cities more fun to be associated with. (He also worked in San Francisco between Chicago and Miami).

So I gave Weaver a chance to sound off in criticism of Chicago — and for the most part he passed up the chance. He proved me wrong on most counts, praisplayers are pampered, paid too much and not hungry enough. I couldn't say for sure, but they've been folding so there's something wrong."

Q: Are you happier in Miami than here?

A: "Oh, yes. I've already been able to broadcast two Super Bowls and of course last year's Dolphins did something no other pro team has ever done. I came here from San Francisco (in 1971) because I could see the Dolphins had a great young team. I turned down an offer from the New York Giants this year, which would have been more money, because I don't want to leave my setup here."

Q: Which do you enjoy doing more, play-by-play or a talk show?

A: "Play-by-play. No question about it. That's how I got started in radio. The talk shows have just been incidental because I have the gift of gab and like to argue. But in play-by-play there's always something different happening. You never know what will come next. And I get a big kick out of crowds and all the excitement of describing big plays."

Q: Do you think Miami would tolerate criticism of the Dolphins, as you say Chicago does, if the Dolphins ever started losing?

A: "I think they would lose interest fast. Sure, the whole state has gone crazy about the Dolphins now because they went 17-0 and are World Champions. But that would happen anywhere with a team like this."

"Many Miami people are transient, from other states. They don't have the allegiance Chicago has, because there 90 per cent of the people are native Chicagoans, there all their lives. Here, you have to have a super attraction to get people away from their boats and other outdoor activities. This isn't the case in Chicago — naturally, because of the climate. California was different from Chicago too — more like here. But if the Dolphins start to lose again it will be just like a few years ago, when they drew 25-30,000 a game."

Q: Why did you leave Chicago?

A: "The CBS network (which owns WBBM) started a policy here and in other cities of dropping play-by-play sports, even though the Black Hawk games we were doing had higher ratings than any other program in town. They went to all news, and oddly enough didn't include sports. I could have stayed just to do my daily talk show, but I wanted to stay in play-by-play."

Q: Briefly, what have you done since leaving?

A: "I started two guys in the radio field — Brent Musberger and Richie Ashburn. (Ed. note: Musberger now does sports nightly on TV 2 news for WBBM and play-by-play of Bears exhibition games). Ashburn is now a broadcaster for the Philadelphia Phillies."

"In San Francisco I was Sports Director of ABC radio and had a controversial show on television. I did California Seals hockey, a Giants pre-game show, Raiders and 49ers games, and U. of California football and basketball."

"The Dolphins offered me the job I have now in 1969, but they were losers and the money wasn't there so I turned it down. Two years later, everything was different and when they offered again I accepted. I had just seen the Dolphins beat bleep out of the 49ers in an exhibition game."

"I've recorded two albums here and co-authored a book with Howard Cosell, Miracle in Miami. I started the tradition fans now have a waving white handkerchiefs when the Dolphins score. I've won every sports-casting award in Florida and turned down that New York job."

Now if the Bears will just win the Super Bowl, maybe Rick Weaver will come back.

STAN MIKITA

Stan Mikita plans visit to Palatine

Stan Mikita of the Chicago Black Hawks will make a three-hour appearance beginning at 4 p.m. on Friday at Suburban Sport Specialties, 43 W. Slade in downtown Palatine.

The autograph session will be held in conjunction with showing of new equipment bearing Mikita's name. One new piece is a hockey bag selling for $7.50 from Ajay Enterprises in Delavan, Wis. Suburban Sport will also present two Black Hawk jerseys bearing Mikita's No. 21. Home and road jerseys will be given away.

Wildcats to hold intra-squad tilt

The annual Wildcat intra-squad football game will be played Friday, at Wheeling High School beginning at 6 p.m.

Halftime entertainment will be provided by the award winning Wheeling Wildcat marching band. Admission will be $1 for adults and $.50 for children.

Concessions will be operated by members of the Athletic Booster Club. Proceeds to be used for athletic related projects which are not included in the annual school budget.

C.P. Floors holds lead in dramatic golf windup

Incredible. What a finish! It couldn't have been closer even if it had been pre-planned by some giant computer.

Just one-half point separated first and second places in final standings of the Old Orchard Scratch Golf League.

C. P. Floors was one-half point ahead of Silo Restaurant as they competed against each other last Friday night and remained that way when it was all over, as each team gained 3½ points.

Silo Restaurant missed it all by one stroke. They won two of the four matches played, forfeited a point as one member did not show. Even at that, just one stroke less by any of the three members' scores making up low ball total would have given the Silo team the low ball point and a first place finish. Just can't get much closer than that.

Silo's captain Bill Hugo, the winningest league member with 13 wins, one loss, three ties, (perfect attendance) really gave it the old college try as he carded his season's best score, a 35. Don Williams was the other winner for Silo as he carded his best effort of the season, good for his tenth win.

The first place C. P. Floors team members are Mike Spinello, Bob Altergott, Carl Litt, Howard Kamps and Herb Kramer. Of 69 matches played, these team members won 44 for a .637 average. Our hat is off to this group of fine competitors.

Bob Burrows Chevrolet remained in third place as George Johnson led the charge with his season's best score, a 35, which included a deuce on the 150-yard 14th. The Burrows boys took five points from L-Nor Cleaners, who dropped to fifth in the standings.

Among the also-rans, Robert Nelson Realty took six out of seven from Miles and Miles Insurance. And that wasn't too difficult as three Miles members didn't show. Bill Pautke scored a deuce on the 193-yard seventh to help the Nelson cause.

Bill Kleiner carded his season's best, par 36, to lead Arlington Realty to five points over Sauganash Corporation. Teammate Gordon Meling also tallied even par, 36, and Jack Drazba tried with a deuce on the 170-yard third hole, but couldn't overcome a 37 score by opponent Rich Kronn.

Baird and Warner, led by Frank Matyas' par 38 score, took four out of six from Peters and Co. Realty to move up to a fourth place finish.

Winners of golf balls for closest-to-the-pin shots on par three holes were Rich Kronn on three, Mike Melchiorre on seven, Mike Spinello on 11 and Mike Graft on 14. Melchiorre sank for a deuce on that 193-yard seventh.

Reminders: Playoff date is Sunday, Sept. 16, starting at 10 a.m.; banquet is Saturday, Oct. 27.

ABC tournament set to return to America's heartland in '74

The American Bowling Congress tournament, after traveling to Long Beach, Calif. in 1972 and then returning almost a continent away to Syracuse, N.Y. in 1973, comes home to America's heartland in 1974, setting up shop in Indianapolis.

The ABC, and rightfully so, likes to travel around the nation so bowlers in all areas have an opportunity to take part in the big show in their own backyard. The tournament has a special fondness for the middle of America and the Indianapolis visit will be the 47th staged in the center of the country.

It will be the third time the tournament has been hosted by Indianapolis.

The first was in 1903 when the third ABC attracted 78 teams. There was a long lull to 1936 when 2,853 teams came to the Hoosier capital. There was one other ABC visit to Indiana, to Ft. Wayne in 1955.

From advance interest the 1974 tournament could be gigantic. Entries manager Jerry Jurkowski reports nearly 5,000 advance reservations are on file, including special squads and groups. Captains holding advanced reservations must turn in entry forms and fees by Nov. 1 to hold their reserved space in the schedule.

For further information on entering, write Jurkowski at ABC Headquarters, 5301 S. 76th St., Greendale, Wis. 53129.

Tourists flocking to see The Louvre

by ALINE MOSBY

PARIS — A favorite fable among tourists in Paris concerns the American in a hurry who did "the four minute Louvre."

According to the tale told by tired travelers in sidewalk cafes, the tourist was clocked running the 0.62 mile from the front door of the Louvre, past the Venus de Milo and Winged Victory of Samothrace, upstairs for a glance at the Mona Lisa and back to the exit in 240 seconds flat.

This season "the four minute Louvre" is more like 40 minutes.

My recent sprint through the museum took more than a half hour past those three masterpieces. The track was crowded with coveys of American, Belgians and Spanish tourists plus a mob of French students.

THE LOUVRE has become one of the smash "in" places of Paris.

Even on a recent week day, the entry hall of the cavernous museum looked like the 6 p.m. rush hour.

A band of 70 or so Japanese teenagers wearing raincoats and cameras trooped down the steps to one of 13 tour buses clogging the street. In the other direction poured a busful of Dutch. Some Russians stood reading guide books in the doorway and a young American ate a sandwich on the steps.

Inside, Italian tourists lined up to buy the three-franc (73 U.S. cents) entry ticket. Sundays free. Over the din uniformed guides shouted "English tours here" or "Francais ici."

Louvre officials said 1,353,562 paying visitors entered the Louvre and its annex for Impressionist art, Le Jeu de Paume, in 1972. An increase is expected this year, especially if the Louvre manages to display before the end of 1973 the collection of modern art masterpieces by the great names of the century which it inherited from Picasso.

IN ADDITION to paying visitors, approximately the same number of free visitors tour the museum for an estimated grand total of more than 4 million art viewers annually.

The Louvre lovers stream in daily except Tuesday, when the museum is closed, to see what they can of the Louvre's 204,500 objects. Some are on tour or stored for later use, but most are displayed in the 138 rooms of what once was one of France's grandest palaces.

How to see even a percentage of these treasures is a staggering problem of logistics for the visitor.

First there's the "four minute Louvre."

Second, a visitor can take a conducted 1½ hour "capsule" tour that hits the highlights.

THE CAPSULE TOUR stops in only three of the Louvre's six departments. The tour whizzes by Oriental and Egyptian antiquities and modern sculpture without stopping.

In the Greco-Roman antiquities department, the guides explain the Venus de Milo, the Winged Victory of Samothrace, the Venus of Auxerre, Hera of Samos, the Ramplin Horseman, the frieze of the Panathenaia Procession and the Room of the Caryatides.

In the Art Objects department, the guides point out the crowns of Louis XV and Napoleon Bonaparte.

In the Painting department, the tours stop by the works of Rembrandt, LOUVRE MUSEUM — which has become one of the palace and the world's largest museum. "in" places for visitors to Paris. It is the world's largest Georges La Tour, Titian, Raphael, David, Leonardo da Vinci, Nicolas Poussin, Claude Lorrain, plus two paintings by unknown French artists, the Pieta of Avignon and Jean le Bon, plus the museum favorite, the Mona Lisa.

I tried an English-speaking tour with a half dozen Britons, three gum-chewing Americans and some English-speaking Germans.

THE BRITISH TOUR guide devoted four minutes to the draped sculpture of Hera. Then, she steered her gang toward Venus de Milo, swerving expertly to avoid a pack of French students speeding to the Winged Victory.

The third system for seeing the Louvre is for the visitor who wants to really know the place from the Roman tombs at the front door to Napoleon's crown at the very end.

Louvre art historian Catherine Belanger suggested such visitors should spend two hours a day for six days in each of the museum's six departments.

"Stick to one subject and do not mix departments," she said. "And two hours is the limit. After that everything begins to look the same."

Lisbon Coast appeals to your budget

Portugal's Lisbon Coast, which stretches westward from Lisbon for about 25 miles, attracts both European royalty and the American budget traveler.

Royalty flocked here before and after World War II when Lisbon offered a haven for so many. (Remember the movie "Casablanca"?) They chose it because of its fine sand beaches, its seafood restaurants, and because it was only 30 minutes from downtown Lisbon. They were also attracted by its low prices, the friendly courteous Portuguese people, and its mild year-round climate.

Now more and more Americans are using Estoril not only as a resort area to relax in, but as a center for touring central and northern Portugal. For only minutes away, to the north, are picturesque small towns and castles that make a photographer's heart pound faster.

So many hotels and restaurants have opened along the Lisbon coast, that the boundaries between the famous villages there, such as Estoril and Cascais, have almost disappeared.

THE HOTELS RANGE from excellent budget hotels that charge only about $5 per person, with private bath/shower even in high season, to the most deluxe hotels where twin rates per person, even with breakfast and dinner, during High Season (March 1-Nov. 1) are about $20 per person.

For those who don't wish to rent a car, a half hour ride on the electric train from Estoril to downtown Lisbon is only 35 cents each way, and the trains run constantly.

While food prices in Estoril and Lisbon are the highest in Portugal, they are very cheap by any other standard. And the vegetables and fish are fresh. Full course dinners, with wine, can be easily had for under $4 per person. Wine itself is priced in pennies.

Phoenix remembers —with a museum

PHOENIX, Ariz., — Phoenix may be one of the nation's fastest growing cities but it remembers the pioneer days from which it rose. And the latest tourist sight in the Valley of the Sun emphasizes those frontier times.

It's the Phoenix Museum of History, housed appropriately in the historic Ellis-Shackelford House, 1241 N. Central Ave., not far from the downtown area. Founded by the Phoenix Historical Society, the local chapter of the Arizona Historical Society, it features a large collection of early maps, photos, documents, costumes, furniture and other memorabilia going back to the founding of Phoenix over a century ago.

gian and Spanish tourists plus a mob of French students.

VEGAS "SPREE"

The Las Vegas Hilton is offering a three-day, two-night "spree" valid now through the end of the year.

The package is priced at $48 per person double, $71 single. Additional nights are $12.15 per person per night double and $24.30 per night single.

Price includes deluxe accommodations, choice of midnight shows in both the Hilton's main showroom and the Flamingo Hotel's main showroom or a dinner show in the Hilton's main showroom, choice of show and cocktail in either the Hilton casino theatre, San Francisco lunch buffet at the Hilton, free keno ticket, free tennis, tips and taxes.

See your Northwest suburban travel agent for further details.

A FRIEND IN SAN FRANCISCO

Specialized sightseeing in the Golden Gate city with emphasis on the personal requirements of the traveler is being offered by a new organization called A Friend in San Francisco.

The staff is composed of 30 young San Franciscans, among whom are writers, teachers, homemakers and others. They are matched up with visitors whose interests match theirs and escort them on full-day excursions by private car.

Tours are available for shoppers, children, antique collectors, art buyers or wine lovers.

Among excursions provided are Engineering & Science, History & Hysteria, Earthquakes & Faults, Outdoors & Nature, Literature & Literati, Exotica & Erotica and others.

Complete details and brochures are available from A Friend in San Francisco, 2632 Regent St., Berkeley, Calif.

KILTS IN ATLANTA

Stone Mountain Park in Georgia will be the site of the first annual Stone Mountain Scottish Festival and Highland Games Oct. 20. The all-day event, first of its kind in the Atlanta area, will feature authentic games and dances performed just as they are in Scotland.

GEORGE WASHINGTON COUNTRY

A brand new 24-page driving guide to scenes of George Washington's life and times has been published by Heriz Rent A Car.

The brochure contains detailed maps and itineraries for 10 motoring trips through a historical five-state area.

The guide is only available at the offices of travel agents who can also arrange for a discount book, valued at $200 for a variety of activities on the tours.

PACK-A-PARTNER PROGRAM TO PARADISE ISLE

The hotels of Nassau and adjacent Paradise Island believe they have just the ticket for fall vacationers seeking foreign flavor at bargain prices — two on their isles for the price of one.

Special eight-day packages, tagged "Pack-A-Partner," offer guests double rooms at single room rates in the period between Sept. 9 and Dec. 16. The program involves 25 hotels in the Bahamas capital. The package rates for the eight-day, seven-night plans begin at $58 per room for two.

Features of the Pack-A-Partner packages include free admission to sightseeing attractions and the late show at Peanut Taylor's Drumbeat Club, a hotel manager's cocktail party, a complimentary split of champagne, and other extras.

Local officials also point out that the dollar in the newly-independent Bahamas is at par with the U.S. dollar.

WET ROLLER COASTER

Tampa, Florida's Busch Gardens has opened a new log flume ride. It's the first phase of a planned $8.5 million expansion program. The log flume ride is a roller coaster on water.

SIP A LITTLE WINE IN PAW PAW

The sixth annual Grape and Wine Festival will be held Sept. 23-30 in Paw, Paw, Mich. — between Benton Harbor and Kalamazoo.

The festival will feature wine tasting, tours of five area wineries, and a grape stomping competition.

SHOPPER GUIDE

Air France has published a shopping guide to Guadalajara and Puerto Vallarta. The 28-page booklet lists dozens of establishments selling everything from abalone (shellcraft) to zapatos (shoes) in Mexico's second largest city and her popular Pacific coast resort center.

The guide offers valuable tips on the art of bargaining as well as up-to-date details on where to do it and for what items. There's a lexicon of common consumer phrases, maps of both cities and a section for listing comparative clothing sizes.

Today's TV highlights

NBC Reports: "The Energy Crisis — An American White Paper." Three-hour prime time documentary about the growing energy shortage and its potential consequences. 7 p.m. Channel 5.

Tuesday Movie of the Week. "The Six Million Dollar Man." This teleplay, forerunner of an occasional series to be seen on ABC in the new fall season, concerns a test pilot Lee Majors, all but killed in a crash, who is "remade" through the science of bionics into a sort of superman who is persuaded to take on a government mission. With Darren McGavin, Martin Balsam. Repeat. 7:30 p.m. Channel 7.

CBS Tuesday Movie. Teleplay in which a flamboyant criminal attorney Alex Dreier, disbarred after serving a prison term, calls on the skills of his staff of ex-convicts when he is hired by a wealthy man to find an embezzling bookkeeper. With Janet Leigh, Murray Hamilton. Repeat. 8:30 p.m. Channel 2.

Marcus Welby, M.D. Susan Clark as a young wife and mother who learns she has uterine cancer and attempts suicide after being depressed by the outspokenness of elderly woman patient in a hospital. Repeat. 9 p.m. Channel 7.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:

is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Their 'September Song' tells a tale of romance

Kathleen McGinn

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McGinn of Arlington Heights announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Ann, to Terry W. Lundquist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Lundquist, formerly of Wheeling, now residing in Berlin, Wis. No wedding date has been set.

Kathy, a 1970 graduate of Wheeling High School, will graduate in December from Western Illinois University. Terry, also a 1970 graduate of Wheeling High, attended Western for two years before beginning work with Wisconsin Screw Products.

Karen Teichen

At an engagement party Aug. 5 in their Arlington Heights home, Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Teichen, 3 N. Wilshire Lane, announced the engagement of their daughter, Karen Patricia, to James Patrick Sweeney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Sweeney Jr., 143 S. Dwyer Ave., Arlington Heights.

The couple has not yet set a wedding date. A graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School, Karen is now a junior at St. Mary's College of Notre Dame. James, a graduate of St. Vitor High, is a senior at the University of Notre Dame.

Margaret Dombrowski

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Dombrowski, 28 N. Warrington Road, Des Plaines, announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Mary, to Ross Clinton Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Anderson, 1023 Third Ave., Des Plaines.

Margaret, a graduate of Maine West High School and Oakton Community College School of Practical Nursing, works at Holy Family Hospital. Ross graduated from Maine West and is attending Harper College.

No wedding date has been set.

Patricia Willer

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Willer, 1965 Woodcliff Lane, Palatine, announce the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Linda, to Thomas A. Glassman, son of the Joel Glassmans of Nashville, Tenn. The wedding takes place Sept. 30 in Nashville.

Patricia graduated from Vanderbilt University at Nashville, where she was affiliated with Gamma Phi Beta Sorority. Her fiancé is also a Vanderbilt graduate and a Zeta Beta Tau fraternity member.

Marlene Turzer

Marlene Marie Turzer's engagement to Robin James Melzer, son of the Ted Melzers of Wheeling, is announced by her parents, the Edward Turzers of Norridge, Ill.

A fall wedding is planned.

Marlene is a fifth grade teacher at Grove Elementary School in Northbrook and her fiancé is with Northwest Airlines. Both are graduates of Northern Illinois University.

Melanie Rutherford

The engagement of Melanie Rutherford and David E. Sharpe, both '73 graduates of Fremd High School, is announced by Melanie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle C. Rutherford, 1630 Dunbar Road, Inverness. David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Sharpe, 452 Stuart Lane, Palatine.

The couple, who have not set a wedding date will both be attending Harper College this fall. Melanie will be studying nursing and David will be studying business administration. He now works for Countryside Aluminum, Palatine.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

Married on special day

Three years to the day of their first date, Elizabeth A. Gimbel of Arlington Heights and Lawrence J. Martin of Barrington were married. The ceremony took place Aug. 4 in the First Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights.

The bride, daughter of the Edward Gimbels of 204 S. Highland Ave., chose a white organza dress with scalloped trim at the high neck and edging the long sleeves and flounce of the long skirt. A fingertip veil held by a narrow crown and a bouquet of white daisies and yellow roses completed her attire.

Elizabeth chose Denise Sherman of Arlington Heights as maid of honor and Phyllis Clate, Romeoville, and Karl Johnson, Arlington Heights, as bridesmaids. The girls wore green dotted swiss dresses, and each carried two yellow roses.

FOR THE 11 a.m. double ring service, the groom was attended by Sears Hallett of Barrington as best man. The bride's brother, Edward Gimbel, and Vern Young, Barrington, were the ushers.

Lawrence is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Martin of 155 Kelsey Ct. He graduated in 1970 from Barrington High School and works in Barrington for Peter Bollbach.

His bride, a January '73 graduate of Arlington High, is employed at the K-Mart in Palatine.

The couple was feted at a reception at Old Orchard Country Club later in the day and then spent a few days at the Marriott Hotel, Chicago. They are living in Hoffman Estates.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Martin

All work, no play

It's all work and no play tonight for Gamma Gamma Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. Members will meet at Mrs. Jerry VerSteegh's home in Rolling Meadows to make favors for a luncheon during the association's national convention at Nordic Hills Country Club, Oct. 19-21.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Scheiderer

Jeanne Kunkel weds in candlelight rite

A honeymoon in Lake of the Ozarks, Mo., followed the double ring ceremony uniting Jeanne Kunkel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Kunkel, 1318 N. Highland Ave., Arlington Heights and Charles "Chas" Scheiderer, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Scheiderer, Chicago.

The couple was wed by candlelight Aug. 11 in Our Savior's Lutheran Church, Arlington.

Jeanne was attired in a gown of white embroidered organza over white satin which she made herself. Her veil, also hand-made, was floor-length and fell from a linen floral headpiece. She carried yellow roses and white daisies.

Judy Towery, the bride's sister from Princeton, N.J., was matron of honor. She wore a yellow and white checked seersucker dress accented with white grosgrain ribbon and carried an arrangement of white daisies.

BRIDESMAIDS were Celeste Antonelli, Arlington, and Joyce Robbins, Columbus, Ind. They were attired identically to the matron of honor.

Chas chose his brother Alan, of Wheaton, as his best man and ushers were Jim Weber, Manteno, Ill., and Don Mackey, Akron, Ohio.

A reception was held at The Lancer in Schaumburg.

Jeanne graduated from Arlington High School and then Purdue University in '73. Chas is a graduate of Purdue and the University of Pittsburgh.

The newlyweds are now at home in Palatine.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: We have just bought a lovely, fully carpeted home. But even though the carpet was cleaned professionally, it seems to have a stuffy, musty-like (almost animal) odor. I don't know what to do. Any counsel will be appreciated. — Ina Bunch

Well, animal odors in cleaned carpeting can come back, especially with humid weather. I can't guarantee that this will work, but the kitten granules may be useful. As I get it, what you do is raise the rug, dampen the pad slightly, then sprinkle on a layer of the granules. Then the rug is put back, slightly dampened, and a layer of the granules put atop it. This is left for a few days and then vacuumed. You have nothing to lose to try it in a small area or a room where the odor seems particularly strong. If it works, you're ahead. If not, you'll just have to call the professionals in to check all the pads to see what the basic trouble may be.

Dear Dorothy: Occasionally I get a box of chocolates I'd like to save. I'm confused as to where they keep better — refrigerator or freezer? — Alice Helman

In the freezer — sealed in its original container.

Dear Dorothy: Is there anything I can do with white plastic shower curtains that have yellowed? — Quincy Pittman

You can't make them white again, but you can dye them another color — and quite successfully.

Dear Dorothy: The secret of threading a needle with polyester thread is always to cut the end with a scissors. The smooth end will enter the needle with ease. — E.C.H.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

'How can this be?'

Three weeks in Mexico

by KAREN THOMPSON

"How can this be?" exclaimed Beth Olson when she first arrived in LaColonia and Tarajero, small villages nestled in the mountains of the state of Michoacan in southern Mexico.

Surrounded by adobe houses, with thatched roofs, dirt roads and donkey carts, she could hardly believe her eyes as she embarked on a three-week stay with two missionary nurses who have dedicated 20 years of their lives to helping make life more livable in the backward village of southern Mexico.

"At first it was a shock," said Beth, a part-time resident of Des Plaines. "It took a while to get used to the kind of life they live in Mexico."

Beth, a graduate of Maine West High School, met the two Engstrom sisters, who are missionaries, through her association with the Baptist General Conference in Evanston. She is presently assistant head nurse on the medical floor at Illinois Masonic Medical Center in Chicago.

MIXING WORK with pleasure, Beth traveled from village to village with the National Christian missionaries helping them teach Bible School, nurse and evangelize.

The nurses live outside the town of Zacapu, each in a house of her own, near the mission clinic which serves as home base. They travel by jeep or donkey wagon on their rounds of the villages.

"When the nurses were first sent to Mexico, their job was to tell people about the Lord. Since then the people have learned and have taken over most of the work at the mission. The villagers know that the missionaries are there to help in any way that they can," said the adventurous young lady.

Beth stressed that the missionaries not only cure physical troubles — many of the people are anemic — but spiritual woes as well. "For a person to be whole there must be a physical and spiritual union," she said.

WHEN ASKED if she speaks Spanish, Beth smiled and replied "poquito," which means "a little" in Mexico. "They talk so fast and run their words together," she said. "I could follow them for a few words then I would say to myself, that word means ah, ah, and miss the rest of the sentence."

"I enjoyed meeting the National Christians there. Even though we didn't speak the same language, there was bond between us," she added.

Visiting the homes of the Mexican families, Beth never quite developed a taste for Mexican food. "Spanish rice is OK because it wasn't too spicy, but those other sauces . . . We ate mostly American food at the mission," she said, wincing.

Teaching Bible School one day, Beth was surprised to find the family of a prospective groom, preparing for the wedding. "They had just slaughtered a sheep and were beheading and plucking a turkey right there at the church," she said.

AND YES, they still take siestas in Mexican villages. Stores close from 1-4 in the afternoon and the main meal of the day is served at 3 p.m. "They don't gear themselves to watching clocks," Beth said. "If a meeting is to begin at 7:30 you can figure everyone may arrive by 8:15."

Assisting in the delivery of a baby was the biggest thrill of Beth's trip. The most frightening experience was a trip into town in the "undependable jeep." The fourth day of her visit, Beth and the missionaries were traveling one of the winding dirt roads to town when the gas pedal on the jeep broke.

Upon arrival at a gas station, the trio was met, not by a mechanic, but by a "friendly-looking" dog which wasted no time in biting Beth's hand. As she says, "Dogs are not pets in Mexico."

To assuage her culture shock, before and after her journey into the wilds, Beth got a look at how the other half lives in Mexico City.

Not at all like the backward villages, Mexico City boasts the Mexican Folklore Ballet, Floating Gardens and bull fights as Chicago offers the Sears Tower and White Sox baseball. With all the attractions of a metropolis, the sleets and donkey cart are by-gones of another era seldom seen in Mexico City.

BETH IS AN experienced traveler. In fact, you might say she's a real ambassador. In 1970 she traveled throughout Israel, Rome, London, Greece and Switzerland on a Bibleland tour. In 1971 she decided to go it alone without the aid of a tour guide, so she and a friend crossed the seas to Scotland, Norway, Holland, Germany, Austria, Switzerland and France.

Twice was not enough so in 1972, Beth returned to Scotland for a three-week stay with a family of musicians known for their work with the Herkells, a religious singing, touring group.

The energetic nurse is director of the girl's club at an inner city church. "It's an opportunity to reach out to the young people in the neighborhood," Beth said.

She is also a member of the Apollo Music Club which gives three concerts a year at Orchestra Hall. And if there's any time left in her busy schedule, Beth likes to read and try her hand at craft projects.

SPOONS FROM FAR and near. Beth Olson takes a look at the spoons she has collected in her travels about the land. She recently returned from a three-week stay with two missionaries in the secluded villages of southern Mexico. Beth is a nurse at Illinois Masonic Medical Center in Chicago and a part-time resident of Des Plaines.

Summer of '73, class of '77

by WANDALYN RICE

They arrive on their bikes, walking in groups or in cars chauffeured by Mom or Dad; they are short and tall and in various stages of maturity; they are shy and nervous or they are loose, part of a no-sweat world where things come easy.

They were born 14 years ago in 1959 and today, as they start high school as freshmen, they become part of the class of '77 — the newest generation of adolescents to go to school and walk into young adulthood.

Today is the first day for them as some 27,000 high school students go back to school throughout the Northwest suburbs. And if you are a freshman, it is the same for you today as it always has been for every freshman who ever got lost or confused that first day.

High school is an imposing and frightening place. You can see it in a freshman's eyes.

ON ORIENTATION day when the class of '77 comes together for the first time to meet their principal and classmates, the kids go through the rituals of learning the facts of high school life.

Last week, Elk Grove High School gave its class of '77 a chance to take a look at the school during freshman orientation. The purpose was to ease the transition into high school, but it was also a chance for an observer to watch the unique combination of excitement and anxiety that belongs to a newcomer to secondary education.

As a small crowd gathered before the program started, boys gathered around a map of the school and girls hovered in a corner, shyly eyeing the senior boys who had come to represent student council.

The group became progressively louder with girls shouting and jumping up and down in their excitement. After a pause to hear speeches from principals and other dignitaries, the group broke up to tour their new school.

DO YOU REMEMBER how big a high school looks to a freshman? Do you remember the endless corridors, the confusing room numbers, the crowds of unfamiliar faces, the panic inside you when the size of the place struck you? It's still the same. Five girls stood helplessly in front of room 108 and told passers-by they were convinced there was no room 102, no matter what the schedule said.

The few parents on hand seemed more worried than the students about some details. "Do you know where your locker is?" a mother asked her son. "I think it's orange," the boy said and gestured toward rows and rows of orange lockers.

The few seniors present shook their heads at the freshmen.

"I can't believe I was ever like this," one said as four younger boys dashed past, playing tag.

FOR MOST OF the freshmen, though, the loud talk and laughter covered a feeling that if this was the beginning of something, it was also an end. Over in one corner a blonde girl stood with her friends, looking quiet and thoughtful.

Earlier the girl had arrived, clutching her class schedule and accompanied by her father. The father had quickly noted that few parents were present and turned to his daughter. "Do you want me to leave, honey?" he said. "I think you'd be more comfortable if I left."

The girl hesitated, her face showing

Phoenix request for rezoning land to be considered again by trustees

by JOE FRANZ

A request by the Phoenix Construction Co. for rezoning of four tracts, three fronting on the Buffalo Grove Golf Course, will be considered again tonight by the village board.

Phoenix has asked the village to rezone the property from single-family to multi-family to allow construction of townhouses, rental apartments and condominiums. The developer has an option to buy the land, but will do so only if the zoning is changed.

If the zoning change is granted, the owners of the golf course have agreed to sell it to the village. Some village officials have expressed a desire to obtain the course for the village and preserve it as open space.

Some officials fear if the village does not obtain the course it will be sold to a private developer. Some village board members have said they will consider changing the zoning if the village can purchase the golf course.

THE VILLAGE has been negotiating with Harold Friedman and the other owners of the golf course in an attempt to arrive at a price. At a recent village board meeting Village Pres. Gary Armstrong commented, "Frankly, the golf course is not for sale if we (the village) don't reach an agreement with Phoenix."

The property Phoenix proposes to buy and develop is in a secret land trust, making it impossible to find out the owner. Jack Siegel, an attorney for Phoenix, said recently, however, he thinks Harold Friedman is the beneficiary of the trust.

If this is the case, it explains why the sale of the golf course to the village by Friedman and his associates is contingent on the village granting a zoning change to Phoenix. If Friedman is the beneficiary of the trust, it could be that he will not sell the golf course to the village if the Phoenix land sale fails through.

A number of residents oppose changing the zoning of the property. They have said they would like to see it developed into single-family homes. Siegel, however, said the price Phoenix is being asked to pay for the land is much too high to make that feasible.

IT ALSO HAS been said by selling the land at a higher price for multi-family development, the owners of the golf course will then be able to sell the course to the village for a price below the market value. Last year the owners of the golf course offered to sell it to the village for $1.1 million. The village at that time could not get financing for it. The 120-acre, 18-hole course could be worth more than $3 million.

Some residents, however, oppose a "deal" between the village and the developer, saying it constitutes "bribery."

Although village zoning maps show the property as single-family, there is some question about the actual zoning. Village Atty. Richard Raysa said the village in the pre-annexation agreement which was approved in 1964 agreed to change the zoning of the three parcels around the golf course to multi-family. In 1968 the village board approved a plan to build 1,100 multi-family units. However, through an oversight, the ordinances changing the zoning and approving the plan were never passed.

Raysa said a recent court decision in another village held that even though ordinances were never passed, the village was obligated to give the developer the zoning that was promised in the pre-annexation agreement.

The fourth tract, which is north of Rt. 83 at Busch Road was annexed in 1967 with no plan for development.

IF THE VILLAGE board permits the zoning change, it will be given a 4.8 acre site across from the village hall. The site is being considered as a possible location for a public works garage. The land would be accepted in lieu of a $55,000 debt Friedman has owed the village for about two years. The land which is estimated to be worth $96,000, is also in trust.

Siegel said if the village for some reason does not purchase the golf course and accept the 4.8 acres, Phoenix will abide by its resolution which requires developers to make cash or land donations to the school and park districts.

Phoenix has already agreed to donate $36,000 to local school and park districts. However, under the resolution the developer would be required to donate about $216,000 to the school districts alone, officials said.

Siegel said if the village buys the golf course and is given the 4.8 acres, it would be unreasonable to expect other donations. Some officials have said it is wrong for Phoenix to present the situation as if it is donating the golf course and garage site to the village, when it is not.

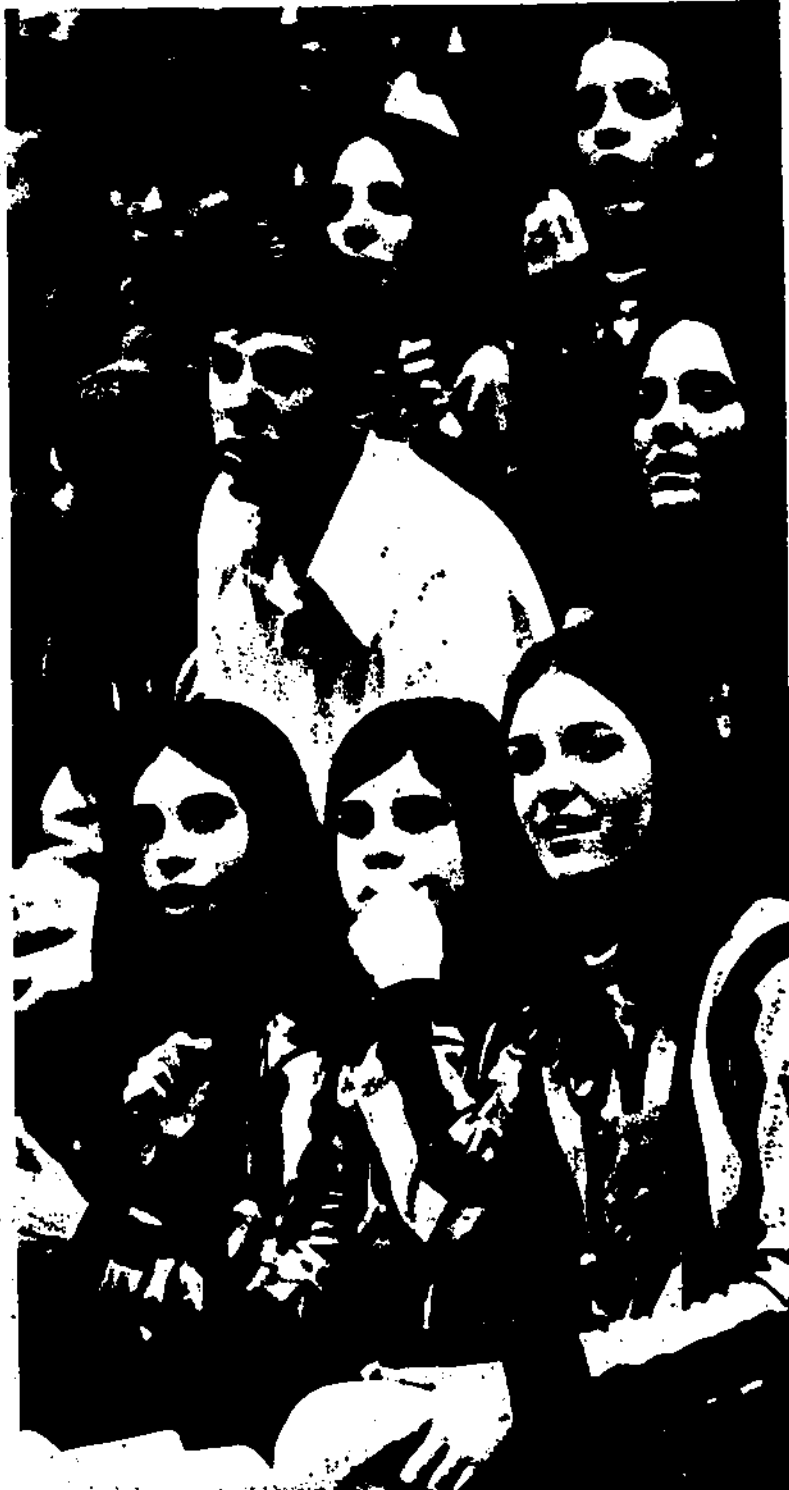

SIEGEL, HOWEVER, said Phoenix is planning the development on the assumption the village will purchase the golf course. He said without the development, the village probably would not be given the opportunity to purchase it or could not afford it.

In regard to further donations, Siegel said, "We (Phoenix) feel the tax benefits from the project are such that no hardship will be put on the school and park districts. In fact, the tax benefits will be to their advantage."

One official said if Phoenix does not live up to the resolution, other developers who have, could go to court to recover damages for donations they have made to schools and parks.

Most developers have abided by the

LOOKING AHEAD TO 1977 . . . the new class of freshmen has arrived.

Arlington Park station now open

Buffalo Grove commuters will now be able to catch Chicago and North Western trains at the new Arlington Park Race Track station that opened last weekend.

Virtually every Chicago and North Western commuter train that now stops in Palatine and Arlington Heights also will stop at Arlington Park.

Passengers boarding trains at Arlington Park will have to catch their train three to four minutes earlier than before, but all riders will arrive in Chicago at the usual time.

New timetables are available at all North Western stations.

The race track has provided parking for 800 cars next to the new depot. Two entrances to the parking area have been marked. One is off of Wilke Road and the other leads from Rohlwing Road. The all-day parking fee will be 30 cents.

Officials hope the new station stop eventually will relieve congestion around the downtown Arlington Heights depot.

THE VILLAGE OF Arlington Heights

spent $100,000 to build the depot. The railroad invested $120,000 in track and platform work and the race track spent $80,000 on the parking lot.

The Arlington Park depot was agreed upon in 1969 at the time the annexation agreement was signed between Arlington Heights and the race track.

Trains have been stopping at Arlington Park during the summer racing seasons and now for the Future of America Fair, but the station building and parking lot were opened for the first time Saturday.

New school pool dubbed 'Aqua Dome'

"Aqua Dome" is the name of the new indoor pool at Buffalo Grove High School. If you're not too fond of it, relax, it could have been a lot worse.

For example, imagine dipping your toes into Jellyfish Pool or taking a swan dive into the Bison Bog.

Can you picture yourself doing the backstroke in the Buffalo Wallow? Or inviting your friends to join you at the Buffalo Grove International Relief Hole?

These are just a few of the names that didn't make it among 76 entries submitted in the park district's contest to name the pool that is nearing completion.

The park board last week voted individually on all the names, picking Aqua Dome, which was submitted by two families.

The families of Dennis Dunrauf, 2 MacArthur Ct. and Helmut Replich, 144 Bernard Dr. will each receive annual passes to both local pools.

Retention lake construction to be delayed

Some legal questions between the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) and Buffalo Grove may delay construction of a retention lake on the Arlington Country Club golf course, according to Village Mgr. Daniel Larson.

He said recently that some problems with legal wording have come up and must be resolved before construction of the five-acre retention lake can begin. He said the MSD and the village have agreed on the points, but now have to agree on wording that is satisfactory to both.

The problems are minor and should not cause any serious delay, he said. "The project is still go," he added.

THREE WEEKS ago the MSD approved the plan for the $750,000 project and passed it on to its legal department which is now reviewing the agreement.

In addition to the retention reservoir, the project also includes installing storm sewers on Dundee and Buffalo Grove roads which lead to the reservoir. The project is being financed by the village, the MSD and the Illinois Division of Waterways.

Construction was originally set to begin Oct. 15, but now will probably not begin until Nov. 1, Larson said. Even with the late start it must be completed by April 15 because of an agreement signed with the country club owner.

The reservoir, which will have a capacity for 16 million gallons of water, will help alleviate flooding in the White Pine ditch, Buffalo Creek, Wheeling drainage ditch and Dundee Road areas.

THESE YOUNGSTERS were among many who enjoyed Sunday's annual Buffalo Grove Days parade. After the parade they were able to enjoy

Police seek motive for slaying of two women

Two young women were found shot to death early Monday in the Lincoln Park-Belmont Harbor section of Chicago. The fully-clothed bodies of Rosemary Brown, 23, and Sandra Jean Johnson, 20, were found about a block apart in a grassy area of Lincoln Park just north of the harbor. Police were attempting to establish a motive for the slayings. The women, who were close friends, apparently had not been raped and robbery also was ruled out as a motive for the slayings, since money was found on the bodies.

Canadian rail strikers back to work

Canada's 60,000 mile railway system, halted by a nationwide nine-day strike, sputtered back into service Monday despite defiance by angry rail workers in the central and western part of the country. The rate of return to full service rested on a group of some 18,000 rail workers who were to indicate later Monday whether they will comply with emergency government legislation ordering them to return to work or face up to two years in jail.

Italy's cholera epidemic spreads

Italy's cholera outbreak spread to north Naples and Bari Monday, with one case reported in Rome and another in a town a few miles from the Castel Gandolfo summer residence of Pope Paul VI and a worldwide conference of papal diplomats. Thirteen persons have died since the outbreak began a week ago, apparently from infected mussels smuggled into Naples from North Africa.

Prince Philip, Kremlin leader meet

In the first British royal visit to Moscow since the Russian Revolution, Prince Philip held "exceptionally warm" talks with President Nikolai V. Podgorny in the Kremlin Monday, then over vodka and caviar discussed improving Anglo-Soviet relations and a possible future visit by Queen Elizabeth II. Philip arrived in Moscow Sunday to join his daughter, Princess Anne, for the European equestrian championships in Kiev.

Lenin tomb explosion kills three

An "insane" Soviet man killed himself and two bystanders by exploding a homemade bomb inside the Lenin Mausoleum on Red Square, a Soviet source said Monday. There was no damage to the red granite tomb which houses the embalmed body of the founder of the Soviet state who died in 1924.

U.S. victims of Danish fire identified

Danish officials said Monday they had identified 20 American victims as well as a Canadian victim killed in the fire which gutted the Hotel Hafnia in downtown Copenhagen Saturday. Some of the 35 bodies remain to be positively matched with identification, police said. It was Denmark's worst fire tragedy since World War II.

Ship fire emergency evaporates

The U.S. Coast Guard Monday said they had learned a chemical which could eat away human flesh when burned had never been loaded aboard a ship which burst into flame on the Mississippi River, ending most of the urgency which had surrounded the fire for two days. The guardsman said the danger of an explosion from another chemical, calcium carbide, still existed but was becoming more remote as the fire continued to burn itself out. The burning freighter is lodged in river mud 50 miles south of New Orleans.

Agnew denies report of jury probe

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's office Monday described as "absolutely false" a published report his staff had been informed that a federal grand jury in Baltimore will hear evidence this week involving Agnew in an investigation of alleged kickbacks by Maryland contractors.

Trial lawyers named to Watergate team

Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox announced Monday appointment of four trial lawyers to his investigation of illegal contributions in the 1972 presidential campaign and the secret White House "plumbers" operation. Three Cox aides meanwhile have resigned to return to teaching at Harvard Law School. The personnel changes leaves Cox with 37 fulltime lawyers and three part-time consultants, in addition to a professional and clerical staff of 42 persons.

Forest fire threatens resort areas

Crews trained in close-range fire-fighting attacked "hot spots" along a 25-mile perimeter of a huge resort-area forest fire Monday. The blaze, biggest in the area in years, had blackened more than 22,000 acres since it whipped out of control Saturday near Bartlett Springs in California's Lake County resort area, crowded with vacationers on Labor Day weekend. Fire officials said they expected the big blaze to be surrounded by fire lines today.

UFO sightings reported in Georgia

Despite an unprecedented flurry of unidentified flying object reports by Georgia residents this weekend, military and civilian authorities indicated Monday they plan no investigation of the sightings made in several central and south Georgia towns. Most of the descriptions were similar — blinking, varied-colored lights, usually hovering in one position but occasionally showing great bursts of speed.

Labor Day: a snarl, more auto talks

AFL-CIO boss George Meany blasts Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — AFL-CIO President George Meany said in a Labor Day radio address Monday the administration's economic policies have "caused havoc in every area of American life" except bank and corporate profits.

"The nation's economic outlook is very bad indeed," Meany said, "not because there is any basic weakness in the economic structure, not because of any failure of America's ability to meet the needs of her people, but because of economic mismanagement by the administration."

Meany's barrage followed statements Sunday in which he said Nixon would not be welcome at the labor organization's annual convention in Miami Beach next month, and that he would oppose Spiro Agnew if he runs for president in 1976.

When President Nixon took office, unemployment was at a 15-year low, there was no shortage of food or consumer goods and "the dollar was strong and respected throughout the world," he said.

"Well, workers have now been subjected to wage controls for more than two years. But wages, and wages alone, have been rigidly controlled. Workers, and workers alone, have been forced to sacrifice in the administration's so-called fight against inflation. In the past two years, there has been no equity, no even-handedness, in the control program."

Since Nixon became President, Meany said, the inflation rate has almost doubled, "the greatest food-producing nation on earth is experiencing food shortages... America's housing shortage has grown to crisis proportions," and budget deficits have totaled $68.4 billion. "So in labor's view the administration's economic policies have been and are dangerously unbalanced and thoroughly bad," he said. "Except in the areas of bank profits and corporate profits, they have caused havoc in every area of American life."

In other Labor Day radio broadcasts: —I. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers of America, said "America has slipped backwards" in the past five years with regressive social and economic policies, runaway inflation and soaring corporate profits and interest rates.

—Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers International Union, urged Congress to require a portion of U.S. oil imports be carried on "American-flag, American-built and American-manned ships."

Chrysler told health, safety vital in pact

DETROIT (UPI) — Health and safety conditions in the nation's auto plants must be improved so they don't fester and explode, United Auto Workers Vice President Douglas A. Fraser said Monday.

Fraser met with newsmen following a Labor Day bargaining session with Chrysler Corp. just 12 days away from a possible strike. He said taking care of the health and safety issue in the new contract was as much a stumbling block to settlement as voluntary overtime.

While the session produced no movement by the company on voluntary overtime, both Fraser and UAW President Leonard Woodcock said "it was more constructive" than earlier meetings.

Unless the UAW and Chrysler can agree to a pattern-setting auto industry contract by 11:59 p.m. Sept. 14, the company's 127,500 U.S. and Canadian auto workers may strike. Ford and General Motors, which also must come to terms on new contracts, would be allowed to continue building new cars if Chrysler is closed.

Poor working conditions were blamed in part for three recent wildcat strikes at Detroit-area Chrysler plants. Two of the disputes were started by radical workers in the plants.

The union has proposed that representatives be placed in each plant to oversee working conditions. It has also suggested that workers be allowed to strike over working conditions.

Fraser said the union is not rigid on the specific ways the problems can be handled and is "willing to listen to a variety of approaches."

"But we have to get it taken care of in 1973," Fraser said. "It's very, very high on our priority list."

Vow to 'wait out' Indiana convicts

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UPI) — Some 200 convicts, believed members of organized inmate gangs, kept three guards hostage last night and held control of three of the five cellblocks at the Indiana State Prison for the second day.

Authorities vowed to wait out the prisoners rather than stage an assault that was certain to be bloody. The authorities said the uprising stemmed from a gang fight over a bottle of homebrewed alcohol.

Convict spokesmen disputed that, saying the root of the problem was the ignoring of demands for improvements within the prison.

Warden Russell Lash told newsmen there were two options. "One is to break the door down to the cellhouses and go in with state police and National Guard and have an Attica-type situation," he said, referring to the New York state prison riots Sept. 9-13, 1971, in which 43 persons died and 80 were injured.

Instead, Lash said, "I think the best solution to the problem is to wait."

He said there was a good supply of food and water inside the prison, which is a maximum security facility 60 miles east of Chicago across the southern tip of Lake Michigan.

Authorities said they would stick to Gov. Otis R. Bowen's position of no negotiations on 25 demands put forth by the prisoners until the guards are freed. Robert DeBard, administrative assistant to the governor, said he had been in contact Monday with the guards and they were in good health.

The 25 demands included a call for Lash's resignation, higher pay matching minimum wage standards for work in prison industries, ends to "blatant racism" and a "kangaroo court system" and the right to subscribe to politically oriented publications.

The warden said the trouble started when a member of the "Lake County Gang" sold a bottle of homemade alcohol to a member of the "St. Joseph's County Gang" and was "paid" with a fake carton of cigarettes "stuffed with toilet paper."

As a result, one member of the St. Joseph's gang was stabbed Saturday and four gang members placed in solitary confinement. Lash said the Sunday uprising came after the prisoners returned from chapel and began to demand the return of the four prisoners.

Delia takes aim

(From Herald news services)

The danger from Tropical Storm Delia lessened last night as the storm switched direction and headed toward the Texas Gulf Coast.

With winds just under hurricane force,

Delia turned a wide curve in the Gulf away from Louisiana and drew a bead on the Freeport-Galveston area.

Blowing at about 70 miles an hour and traveling at a forward speed of 15-18 miles an hour, Delia was expected to go ashore early this morning, without reaching hurricane velocity of 75 miles an hour.

Nevertheless, thousands of persons fled inland along the Texas and Louisiana coastlines, and gale warnings and a hurricane watch were posted from the upper Texas coast to Lake Charles, La. Tides of four to six feet were expected.

Delia, termed a "marginal storm," turned unexpectedly around a low pressure area, and presented the greatest threat to low-lying Louisiana areas and Texas coastal highways.

Meantime, Tropical Storm Christine weakened in the Atlantic as it moved across the Leeward Islands and into the Caribbean. Winds were at gale force of about 50 miles an hour and rain was heavy, with the greatest immediate threat to the 15,000 residents of Antigua.

Schools and churches were opened as refugee centers as coastal dwellers were warned to flee. The storm was expected to pass into the Caribbean during the night.

School blues: food and fuel tight...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Higher food prices will force some school districts to charge an average of a nickel more for a cafeteria lunch this fall, and fuel shortages could result in school closures when cold weather arrives, the National School Public Relations Association said Monday.

In a back-to-school report in its independent weekly newsletter, the association said Los Angeles school officials, unable to buy a large supply of American beef, bought 42,000 pounds of Australian beef and estimate it will last three weeks.

In Florida, the newsletter said, the state department of education has appealed for permission to pass along increased labor costs in the price of school lunches, even though Phase IV economic regulations allow only increased food costs to be added to the meal price. The total cost of a school lunch there has risen from 69 to 82 cents, officials reported.

Nationally, a 35-cent lunch probably will increase to 40 cents this year, the association reported. Some school districts are switching to meatless dishes, while others are dropping hot lunch programs altogether.

Many schools also report critical shortages of gasoline to run buses and fuel to heat buildings.

"If the winter is colder this year, schools may well have to lower classroom temperatures, shut off certain sections or close for part of the month," said Charles W. Foster, executive secretary of the Association of School Business Officials.

...tuition loans drying up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — College students from middle-income families are finding it tougher than ever this year to obtain government-subsidized tuition loans, another casualty of high interest rates and the tight money market, administration officials said Monday.

The U. S. Office of Education reported the size and volume of student loans were 40 per cent lower in the four months ended July 30 than the average of any similar period since the loan program began seven years ago.

One factor in the dropoff is the strict financial "need test" imposed by Congress last year, which effectively disqualified students from families with an annual after-tax income of $10,000 to $15,000.

Another major reason for the decline, officials said, is that banks and other lenders have found that government-guaranteed student loans at a 7 per cent interest rate are far less attractive than other investments with much higher rates, even with the government subsidizing the loan rate to 8 1/2 per cent.

Watergate, vetoes, work face returning Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress ends its month-long summer vacation tomorrow still under the shadow of Watergate and facing leftover business of presidential vetoes and power battles.

Leaders of the 93rd Congress say they hope to finish the first session by mid-October, but some members predict the session will stretch into December bogged down by the issues of impoundment, defense spending, tax reform and aid to education.

Anticipating the legislators' return, President Nixon announced last night he'll meet with his cabinet and the Republican leadership late this week to discuss what to lay before Congress and to make plans for "getting things moving."

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee will open hearings on Henry A. Kissinger's nomination, as secretary of state Friday.

The Senate Watergate committee, which has given itself until early December to wind up testimony, plans to meet Sept. 10 and resume hearings the week of Sept. 17.

The Senate will take up a House-passed treasury-postal appropriations bill designed to cut off a $1 million special projects budget for the White House and require congressional approval before tax revenues could be spent on privately owned presidential homes.

President Nixon vetoed five measures in the first seven months. Four of them were sustained and the House will vote on Sept. 12 on the fifth, an emergency medical services measure which the Senate has already voted to override.

Nixon is expected to veto the bill to raise the $1.66 an hour minimum wage to $2.20 this week.

Ten of the 13 regular money bills to keep the government operating still await final Congressional action.

• Making one of his rare appearances outside Cuba, Premier Fidel Castro met in Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, with the leaders of four Caribbean nations, then left for a summit meeting of non-aligned nations in Algiers. Castro's meeting with the prime ministers of Guyana, Trinidad and Tobago, Jamaica and Barbados was considered significant, because the four are showing increasing friendliness with Havana, despite the Organization of American States banning Cuba from the hemispheric community.

• The pressure against Soviet nuclear physicist Andrei Sakharov grows, with 12 Soviet composers — including Aram Khachaturian and Dmitry Shostakovich — joining in a denunciation of the dissident spokesman and so-called father of the Soviet hydrogen bomb. Sakharov has publicly warned against Western cooperation with the Soviet Union because of the country's lack of democratization.

• With Canada's rail service nearly back in order, one of the first stranded tourists ferried off Prince Edward Island was "Gentle Ben," TV's most famous bear. Currently on a circus tour, Ben was a bit the worse for the experience, with a lack of proper nutrition touching off a case of diarrhea and fur-shedding.

• The final verdict still isn't in on the cause of the July 20 death of Chinese movie star Bruce Lee, whose martial arts films are currently sweeping the U.S. But in Hong Kong, where a hearing is underway, the coroner reported it might have been drug intoxication or an "obscure natural illness," saying a doctor's report showed Lee was suffering from a brain swelling and possible cannabis poisoning — cannabis being the generic name for drugs including marijuana and hashish.

• Anthropologist Mary Lindsay Elmdorff compared the lives of American suburban women and those of women in the isolated Mexican village of Chan Kom, and found the Mexican women better off. Despite spending their days cooking and cleaning and caring for children while their husbands work in the fields, Miss Elmdorff concluded they were happier and felt more independent.

Parks' program was a success

A successful summer of Buffalo Grove Park District programs is now complete, according to Mike Ryko, recreation director.

Over the summer, village residents participated in a variety of programs ranging from guitar lessons to swimming lessons.

Tennis was one of the more popular summer activities, with 201 residents taking park district lessons. Beginning swimming lessons attracted 426 residents over the summer.

Park district instructors also certified 51 Buffalo Grove youngsters as Red Cross junior and senior lifesavers during the summer and the district issued 446 family pool passes, Ryko said.

District summer playgrounds attracted 215 first through sixth graders, Ryko said. The playgrounds featured organized play activities and a variety of field trips to places such as the Milwaukee Zoo, Hershey's Chocolate Factory and Wrigley Field.

Ryko said all programs are being considered a success.

"I'm sure all the programs will be continued next summer, plus we'll have more programs and facilities. There's nothing we can do but expand," he said.

Rodeo tickets still available

Tickets are still available for the Diamond "S" Rodeo in Wheeling Sept. 13.

The Wheeling Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the rodeo, which will include steer wrestling, trick riding and roping, bucking horse and bull riding, calf roping and bullwhip handling, and buffalo races. The Diamond "S" Rodeo, which also will include audience participation, is believed to be the only self-contained exhibition rodeo on tour in this county.

The two 90-minute performances will be at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. at the corner of Dundee Road and Twelfth Street.

Advance tickets are available at the Chamber of Commerce office, 170 E. Dundee Rd., and at Chandler's Book Store, 277 E. Dundee Rd. Prices are $2.00 for adults, $1.25 for children and $7 for family tickets which include four children and two adults.

Tickets at the gate will cost $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. No family tickets will be sold at the gate.

The young adult book "Dom and Va" by John Christopher, is about two kids from warring tribes growing up during the days of the cave men.

Some openings left in boys' football

There are still several openings for players in the Buffalo Grove Boys' Football Program.

There is space for three more players on the lightweight team, made up of boys ages 10 to 14 who weigh less than 118 pounds wearing their equipment.

The heavyweight team, for boys ages 10 to 14 who weigh over 118 pounds with equipment, has room for 13 more players.

Boys wanting to register should contact Jan Mastrandrea at 537-2529. The fee is $22 which includes equipment.

The Buffalo Grove Boys' Football Program is one of two local football organizations that are sponsoring teams this fall.

The other program, the Buffalo Grove Boys' Football Association, is reportedly full and no more registrations will be accepted.

DP shooting victim termed 'fair' condition

A Des Plaines shooting victim has been removed from intensive care and was listed in fair condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital.

Peter Klein, 29, 910 Beau Dr., spent a "comfortable weekend" and is improving, according to a hospital spokesman.

Klein was shot eight times by his roommate, Antal Schmidt, 29, Tuesday night, according to Des Plaines police. One of the bullets punctured Klein's right lung.

Schmidt was taken to Cook County Jail Wednesday on $25,000 bond to await a Sept. 6 court appearance in Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

According to police the shooting occurred about 6:30 p.m. when Klein returned from work. The roommates had argued earlier over the use of a Jaguar sports car which they shared.

RESIDENTS LINED THE streets Sunday to watch the annual Buffalo Grove Days parade. The parade included floats, bands and marching groups from local organizations. Following the parade residents viewed a number of activities, including a motorcycle demonstration, art fair and homemaking competition.

Summer of '73, class of '77

by WANDALYN RICE

They arrive on their bikes, walking in groups or in cars chauffeured by Mom or Dad; they are short and tall and in various stages of maturity; they are shy and nervous or they are loose, part of a no-sweat world where things come easy.

They were born 14 years ago in 1959 and today, as they start high school as freshmen, they become part of the class of '77 — the newest generation of adolescents to go to school and walk into young adulthood.

Today is the first day for them as some 27,000 high school students go back to school throughout the Northwest suburbs. And if you are a freshman, it is the same for you today as it always has been for every freshman who ever got lost or confused that first day.

High school is an imposing and frightening place. You can see it in a freshman's eyes.

ON ORIENTATION day when the class of '77 comes together for the first time to meet their principal and classmates, the kids go through the rituals of learning the facts of high school life.

Last week, Elk Grove High School gave its class of '77 a chance to take a look at the school during freshman orientation. The purpose was to ease the transition into high school, but it was also a chance for an observer to watch the unique combination of excitement and anxiety that belongs to a newcomer to secondary education.

As a small crowd gathered before the program started, boys gathered around a map of the school and girls hovered in a corner, shyly eyeing the senior boys who had come to represent student council.

The group became progressively louder with girls shouting and jumping up and down in their excitement. After a pause to hear speeches from principals and other dignitaries, the group broke up to tour their new school.

DO YOU REMEMBER how big a high school looks to a freshman? Do you remember the endless corridors, the confusing room numbers, the crowds of unfamiliar faces, the panic inside you when the size of the place struck you? It's still the same. Five girls stood helplessly in front of room 106 and told passers-by they were convinced there was no room 102, no matter what the schedule said.

The few parents on hand seemed more worried than the students about some details. "Do you know where your locker is?" a mother asked her son. "I think it's orange," the boy said and gestured toward rows and rows of orange lockers.

The few seniors present shook their heads at the freshmen.

"I can't believe I was ever like this," one said as four younger boys dashed past, playing tag.

FOR MOST OF the freshmen, though, the loud talk and laughter covered a feeling that if this was the beginning of something, it was also an end. Over in one corner a blonde girl stood with her friends, looking quiet and thoughtful.

Earlier the girl had arrived, clutching her class schedule and accompanied by her father. The father had quickly noted that few parents were present and turned to his daughter. "Do you want me to leave, honey?" he said. "I think you'd be more comfortable if I left."

Council expected to grant approval for $1.6 million city hall tonight

by STEVE BROWN

Dissension over the cost and size of the proposed Des Plaines city hall has been ironed out and action should be taken tonight to approve contracts for the $1.6 million facility.

The oft-delayed project overcame another obstacle Friday night after several aldermen were convinced that remodeling the present city hall building was not feasible. The topic was debated during a building and grounds committee meeting which most city aldermen attended.

The remodeling suggestion was presented by Ald. Gerald Meyer (7th) who asked Aug. 20 that final action on accepting bids for the building be delayed until the entire project could be more completely studied.

In a four page written statement, Meyer noted that the present city hall could be remodeled and that a four story, rather than two story, police station could be built to provide the necessary space for city officials. He contended that such a plan could save the city as much as $1 million.

Several aldermen and Mayor Herbert Behrel said the remodeling concept had been reviewed, but considered impractical.

Ald. Thomas Koplos (1st) said his experience indicated that remodeling costs could be as high as 75 per cent of the cost of building a new facility.

"I am concerned about things lasting and remodeling usually does not pay off in the long run," said Ald. John Seitz (7th), agreeing with Koplos.

Others noted that a variety of concepts had been considered while the building was being planned, but were dropped. City officials have discussed building a new city hall for more than five years and have altered plans a number of times.

"I am in agreement with Ald. Meyer on some points, but all of them were considered previously and rejected and I reject them now," said Ald. Alan Abrams (8th) adding, "We have to face the inevitable, this is what we need, and we really do not have much choice."

Much of discussion over the new city hall was prompted by bids opened earlier this month which exceeded the $1.3 to $1.4 million estimate for the structure. Some concern was voiced that if the planned police station, which will be built as the second phase of the total civic center package, also exceeded the estimate the city might not be able to sell enough bonds to pay for it. Both buildings will be built adjacent to the present city hall-police facility on Miner Street.

The city council voted last January to finance the project through the use of non-referendum bonds. Under the state's home rule provision, the city can sell bonds up to an amount equal with one per cent of its assessed valuation, or $3 million for Des Plaines.

Edward Benjamin, of the bond consulting firm of Benjamin and Long, assured councilmen that the constantly increasing assessed valuation of the city would ensure enough funds to pay for the project.

The city could also seek additional revenue through a referendum requiring voter approval.

Behrel also noted that if necessary the city could find funds to pay for a portion of the projects from the general operating expenses.

"We paid for a public works building and a fire station that way" he added.

Several aldermen and Behrel also disagreed over the immediate need for a new police station. Behrel said that the department has sufficient space at this time, but has become "pinched" because other city departments have their own buildings.

Meyer and Ald. Carmen Sarlo disagreed. Sarlo said some police officials seemed cramped in their present location.

"They have plenty of room, I can't help it if they won't move people around," Behrel said.

Behrel added that the present police facility should serve the city adequately until construction can be started on the police station.

Other aldermen said the police officials have requested that any new facility be separate from other city offices for security reasons.

Council to discuss $1,000 DAMP bill

Although Des Plaines has officially withdrawn from the DAMP water commission, city officials have received a request for $1,000 to meet expenses from the group.

The request for funds will be discussed by the city council Tuesday. Mayor Herbert Behrel said Friday that he favors making the payment.

"The $1,000 would pay for expenses that were incurred while the city was part of DAMP and I feel we are obligated to make the payment," Behrel said. He added that it would probably be the final payment made by the city to the commission.

THE DAMP commission was formed about 15 years ago by Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine. The towns intended to improve their water supply by obtaining water from Lake Michigan. However, the efforts have been continually snarled by numerous court battles.

Anticipating another expensive legal battle, Des Plaines officials voted to pull out.

All of the communities involved contributed $1,500 to DAMP last year to pay for legal expenses.

DAMP was allocated Lake Michigan water in 1972, but a lawsuit filed by the Metropolitan Sanitary District blocked the allocation and now the state will have to hold new hearings on the matter.

THE MAYOR has sent a letter to all aldermen indicating that he favored the payment, but stressing that it would be the last.

DAMP chairman Robert Teepe said the request for additional funds was made because the commission has run out of money.

He added the funds are needed for legal fees that have been incurred.

"I hope that Des Plaines makes the payment, but I cannot guess what the city council might do on Tuesday," he said.

Teepe explained the commission, even with just three communities, is a viable organization.

HE SAID THAT when the DAMP project was first planned there would be sufficient lake water available to meet the needs of all communities, but with recent large scale development there might only be enough water to serve the three remaining member towns.

Des Plaines already has a contract to purchase lake water from the City of Chicago. The system is supplemented by seven wells.

In other action, the city council is expected to approve the appointment of City Planner Michael Richardson to the position of Director of Zoning and Planning.

Elaine Caras, Miss Ill. Teenager returns home

Miss Illinois Teenager, Elaine Caras of Des Plaines, returned yesterday from a six-day, all expenses paid trip to Atlanta, Ga. where she competed for the title of Miss National Teenager.

The 17-year-old Illinois entry is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Louis Caras, 2118 Plainfield. She competed against 51 girls — one from each of the United States and the District of Columbia.

Winner of the national competition, held Saturday night at the Atlanta Civic Center, was Betty Nightengale, 17, Miss Maine Teenager from Fairfield, Me.

WINNERS WERE chosen on the basis of looks, personality, poise, civic and school contributions. Each girl submitted a 100-word essay on "What's Right About America," the pageant theme.

Miss National Teenager will receive a car, wardrobe, mink cape, trip to the Holy Land and will appear on television shows as well as civic functions around the country.

Elaine Caras

Miss Caras will receive a scholarship to Massey Junior College in Atlanta for taking the state title. She will also travel the state for a year representing teenagers of Illinois.

The pageant was taped and will be shown on local television stations later this month.

LOOKING AHEAD TO 1977 ... the new class of freshmen has arrived.

Officials attend IML conference

A number of Des Plaines officials are planning to attend the annual meeting of the Illinois Municipal League next month in Chicago.

At least three of the 19 city officials attending the four-day session at the Conrad Hilton Hotel will be leading discussions and workshops on governmental affairs.

Mayor Herbert Behrel will moderate a panel discussion on revenue sharing. He is also a member of audit, budget and nominating committees. The mayor is a past president of the organization. Behrel said he will also take part in a municipal problems commission that will be held in conjunction with the conference.

CITY CLERK Eleanor Rohrbach will deliver a speech entitled "The Image of Public Officials." She will also participate in a seminar on the state's municipal retirement fund.

She is the only city clerk in the state to participate in a panel discussion on the proposed changes to the Illinois election code.

City Comptroller Duane Biletz will head a discussion on revenue sharing aimed at municipal financial officers.

"Des Plaines officials are involved in a number of programs throughout the conference," Mrs. Rohrbach said. She explained that the sessions offer a good opportunity for city officials to find out how other communities are handling matters and to offer suggestions.

"Des Plaines is one of the few communities that is frequently contacted by the Illinois Municipal League to offer guidance to other officials in the state," she added.

MRS. ROHRBACH said all city officials are encouraged to participate in the conference.

The Illinois Municipal League is a lobbying organization and provides communities with information about the Illinois General Assembly.

In addition to Behrel, Biletz and Mrs. Rohrbach, ten of the city's 10 aldermen will attend the conference. They are Aldermen Thomas Koplos (1st), George Olsen (2nd), Charles Bolek (3rd), Spencer Chase (3rd), Daniel Kisslinger (4th), Carmen Sarlo (6th), Gerald Meyer (7th), John Seitz (7th), Alan Abrams (8th) and Richard Ward (8th).

Additional administrative personnel include, Robert Bowen, city engineer, Michael Richardson, city planner, Thomas Mahon, treasurer, Marilyn Trost, deputy city clerk, John Raycraft, assistant city comptroller and James Bouril, city attorney.

DP shooting victim termed 'fair' condition

A Des Plaines shooting victim has been removed from intensive care and was listed in fair condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital.

Peter Klein, 29, 910 Beau Dr., spent a "comfortable weekend" and is improving, according to a hospital spokesman.

Klein was shot eight times by his roommate, Antal Schmidt, 29, Tuesday night, according to Des Plaines police. One of the bullets punctured Klein's right lung.

According to police the shooting occurred about 6:30 p.m. when Klein returned from work. The roommates had argued earlier over the use of a Jaguar sports car which they shared.

City CAP chapter still not active

Formation of a proposed Northwest suburban chapter of Citizens' Action Program (CAP) has been temporarily delayed.

The Chicago-based "people power" group recruited 200 Des Plaines residents during a canvass in July. Pleased with the response CAP sent Tobey Mallicksen, an organizer, into the community to establish local leadership.

Miss Mallicksen had to return to Washington soon after she began organizing the chapter and no one has replaced her in Des Plaines.

"The people in Des Plaines who are active are not holding regular meetings at this time," said a CAP spokesman. "We do have an active Evanston group and they (local people) have been encouraged to work with them in our fight against utility rates."

CAP is opposing Commonwealth Edison's bid to increase electric bills by 12 per cent.

The organization signed up 70 Elk Grove Village residents in a summer canvass. They also canvassed the Buffalo Grove area but have not released figures on the number of people who joined from that suburb.

"We will be keeping in touch with the people (in the Northwest suburbs) and encourage them to get into the utilities fight," the spokesman said. "Of course they will continue to receive our newsletter."

"We have active members all over — members at large — even if we don't have active chapters in their areas. Meetings in the Northwest suburbs are not planned for the near future but they are a long-term goal."

DES PLAINES

Des Plaines man, 17, hurt in Chicago fire

A 17-year-old Des Plaines man and Salvation Army worker was overcome by smoke inhalation yesterday while 150 firemen battled to contain a fire which destroyed the first floor of a North Side Chicago school and church.

Marc Buslik was serving cold drinks to firemen from a Salvation Army canteen when he suffered smoke inhalation. He was treated and released from Ravenswood Hospital in Chicago.

He was the only reported victim of the fire which shot flames as high as 80 feet in the air and which destroyed much of the Queen of the Angels Guild House.

Preschool openings

The Des Plaines Park District has openings in two preschool classes: Monday and Wednesday 1-3:30 p.m. and Monday, Wednesday, Friday 9-11:30 a.m.

All registrations are being taken at the park district office from 8:30 to 5 p.m. The only eligibility requirement is that children be four years of age prior to Dec. 1. Proof of age is required at registration. The fee is $35 for the Monday-Wednesday class and $55 for the Monday, Wednesday, Friday class.

Hockey signup Sept. 8

The Des Plaines Park District's Amateur Hockey Association is holding its final registration Sept. 8 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at West Park Lodge (Wolf and Greenview). Or you can register at the Park District office, 748 Pearson St. Registration fee is $35.

This program will provide boys the opportunity to play competitive hockey at the Ballard Ice Complex in Niles.

Age divisions are: Squirts, 9-10; Pee Wees, 11-12; Bantams, 13-14; Midgets, 15-16; and Juveniles, 17-18.

In order for this to be a successful program at least 280 boys are needed to play for the ice time.

If you have any questions call 296-6106.

Schlickman praises new Maryville school site

by LINDA PUNCH

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, Friday commended River Trails Dist. 26 officials for their "responsible manner" in selecting a site for the new Maryville school.

Schlickman, sponsor of a bill providing for state funding of the special education facility, spoke at the Dist. 26 Teacher's Institute Day at River Trails Junior High School. He will attend the Sept. 5 meeting of the Dist. 26 Board to discuss Maryville.

Noting that the school district has a legal responsibility to educate the Maryville children, Schlickman said, "The board, administration and teachers of the district are to be complimented for the manner in which they complied."

"The Maryville children are human beings and their problems are the same as those faced by many children in the community, only magnified and more visible," he said.

SCHLICKMAN said the new school building will be a model special education facility "available to all students in the district, subject only to the school board's policy."

"As to the location of the building, educators have agreed that it should be removed from the Maryville Academy campus," he said. "I agree and heartily commend the district's officials for the responsible manner in which they've proceeded."

The goal of the district should be to help Maryville students "acquire the tools they need to succeed in society" according to Schlickman.

"It should not be our goal to make these children just like any other child in the community," he said. "We should help them develop confidence in their own abilities and demonstrate that different can be good."

Earlier in the meeting, Dist. 26 Acting Supt. James Retzlaff told teachers he recommended the River Trails Junior High School site for the Maryville school.

"I recommended the junior high site with the qualifier of park district cooperation. I would not stick a building on that site without adding something to it," Retzlaff said. "I'll be very honest with you — without park district cooperation, I'd be stopped dead in my recommendations."

TEACHERS SHOULD take Maryville students "as they come, and help them as best we can," the acting superintendent said.

"A school staff should never set itself as a screening body — we should never label a student as hopeful or not promising," he said. "A true democracy respects the worth of every pupil regardless of his origin."

In discussing collective bargaining for teachers, Schlickman said he would support any measure "which would provide a state-wide standard for collective bargaining, including compulsory arbitration and a no-strike provision."

"Like war, the strike is an admission of failure. I sympathize with teachers who are forced to break the law because they have no legal recourse," he said.

"But I am also grieved by unbridled militancy that's unsacrificing and insensitive."

Thieves sack store, owner's bedroom

Burglars broke into a local store and rifled a cash register for $50 before entering the store owners' upstairs home and stealing another $460 cash from a bedroom, Thursday, said Des Plaines police.

The victim, Conrado Carandang, owner of River-Rand Food and Liquors, 301 S. River Rd., told police he was returning home late Wednesday and noticed the rear door to the store had been broken and the open cash register on a floor.

According to reports, police received a call from Carandang a few hours later that he had discovered another $460 missing from a cigar box in his bedroom.

Vandals bash window

Vandals caused $150 damage to the home of a local resident after smashing a picture window, Thursday, said Des Plaines police.

Kenneth Olson, 1034 Algonquin Rd., told police a pellet gun or slingshot was probably used to break the window.

Finally, her father made his own decision. He smiled at his daughter, turned and walked out of the building without looking back.

Now, an hour and a half later, the girl was standing, talking to her friends and looking still a little uneasy. But this was high school. And she was on her own.

School superintendent has own 'shipyard'

by BOB GALLAS

A school superintendent by day and a shipbuilder by night, Erwin Stevenson shuns traditional forms of relaxation to pursue his favorite interest of building boats. He even has his own shipyard — his garage.

Stevenson's ships won't accommodate any passenger weighing more than a few ounces, but they're not the typical models built with kits from a local store. He builds his models virtually from scratch.

As assistant superintendent for Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59, Stevenson agrees wholeheartedly with the theory that a man should have a way to "unwind." Maybe that's why he can sometimes be found in his "shipyard" at 3 a.m.

He first became interested in his hobby about four years ago, while finishing up work on his doctorate degree at Indiana University. "I'd always worked on model planes," he said, "but this model of a ship caught my eye and I've been hooked ever since."

HE SOON LEARNED that he was in for a few problems. There was little interest in shipbuilding in the United States. Balsa wood and some materials were readily available, but plans and detailed parts were only available in England, where shipbuilding is as popular as model airplane building in the United States.

Stevenson's first attempt, which he refers to as "Disaster," sits unfinished on the mantel of his Elk Grove Village home. A rough model of a cabin cruiser, it's a far cry from the boat Stevenson is just finishing up — a four-foot fishing trawler with an electric engine operated by radio remote control.

Stevenson has invested a lot in time and money in his hobby during the last few years, although he says the hobby doesn't have to be expensive. Including plans, the cost for building a four-foot model is about $100. Radio control mechanisms, which can be interchanged from ship to ship, cost about $150.

"A lot of people don't go in for the radio controls," said Stevenson, "and are content to build a 'static' model just to look at. I get twice as much pleasure from building a boat that not only looks, but runs well too."

IT'S BEEN A long time since a car has been able to fit into the Stevenson garage which has been converted into a workshop. In the center of the garage, amid power saws, drills and various types of paints, sealers and glues, sits Stevenson's latest creation, majestically supported by two sawhorses.

The fishing trawler is detailed down to the fine trim on the trawler's lifeboats. "I plan to name it 'Pikku Kala,'" said

SCHOOL ADMINISTRATOR Erwin Stevenson of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 makes some adjustments on his latest work, a four-foot fishing trawler. An assistant superintendent for the district, he's helping to promote interest in building model boats from scratch, a fast-growing hobby.

Stevenson, "which is Finnish for 'Little Fish.'"

The garage has started to attract the attention of neighborhood children, some of whom want to try their hands at shipbuilding. Stevenson is delighted by their interest.

"Any hobby is more fun when you can share your interest with someone," said Stevenson, whose nine-year-old son has been working on a sailboat of his own. "It's an especially good pastime for fathers and sons who aren't that interested in sports, but like to spend time together."

Stevenson's interest in his hobby has grown greatly in the last year since he helped form the Northwest Commodore Club. The club, which has about 25 members, filled what Stevenson thought was a real need in the Northwest suburbs.

"I KNEW THERE had to be others in the area who had the same interest in shipbuilding," he said. "The trouble was in finding them. Now when a member of the club runs into a problem when building a boat, he can call on another club member who might have solved the problem before."

The club's summer meetings are usually on Sundays at local lakes. Members race their boats against one another and trade off bits of newly discovered information on their hobby.

Winter meetings feature demonstrations on how to solve particular building problems and reports on what materials work best or combine with others well.

Club members are at all stages of development in regard to skills, according to Stevenson. They range from builders of plastic "static" ships from model kits to the builder of an eight-foot long torpedo boat powered by a gasoline engine.

Is it possible that some future classes in Dist. 59 may reflect the superintendent of curriculum's thinking? "I'd like to see more craft type classes taught in school," said Stevenson.

Besides teaching practical things such as how to work with tools and paints, youngsters learn the satisfaction that comes from creating something yourself," he said.

IT'S NOT UNUSUAL for a school administrator to go to night school — except in Stevenson's case. Last year he attended automotive classes to help understand the mechanical aspects of his hobby. Future plans call for courses in electronics and spray painting.

When finished with work on his trawler, Stevenson wants to get started on at least two boats at once — a steam-powered paddle-wheeler and an electric-powered Coast Guard cutter. "With more than one boat in the works," said Stevenson, "you don't have to shut down operations when you run into a problem. You just work on the other boat for a while. The variety is nice, too."

Stevenson boosted boat building in the area by helping start the Commodore Club and may help the hobby again — by writing a book.

"There's been little written on the subject because there's a small market in the United States," he said. "Such a book would really be a help to newcomers because it would help them avoid the typical mistakes made by novice builders."

STEVENSON'S HOBBY might involve some travel in the future. "I'd really like to take a trip to England this January," he said, "and visit the International exhibition put on there every year by model builders of all kinds."

If Stevenson goes, he's not sure whether he'll take one of his works with him. One thing for sure, it won't be his first work, "Disaster."

"I'd get rid of it, but it reminds me how far I've come in four years," he said.

Warrants issued for 2 Chicago men

Bond forfeiture and arrest warrants were issued Thursday for two Chicago men charged by Des Plaines police with theft by deception. The men, Randolph Shelton, 21, of 1636 Spaulding Ave., and Ronald Osborne, 29, of 2109 Whipple Ave., failed to appear in court.

The two were arrested July 18, after police said they switched price tags on a pair of typewriters at the K-Mart store, 1155 Oakton St.

According to reports, Shelton left the store after paying $16 for a $175 typewriter and Osborne, his accomplice, tried to refund the machine a while later for the full $175.

The theft was discovered, according to reports, when a checkout clerk noticed the typewriter Osborne was trying to exchange was the same machine bought by Shelton for $16.

Summer of '73, class of '77

by WANDALYN RICE

They arrive on their bikes, walking in groups or in cars chauffeured by Mom or Dad; they are short and tall and in various stages of maturity; they are shy and nervous or they are loose, part of a no-sweat world where things come easy.

They were born 14 years ago in 1959 and today, as they start high school as freshmen, they become part of the class of '77 — the newest generation of adolescents to go to school and walk into young adulthood.

Today is the first day for them as some 27,000 high school students go back to school throughout the Northwest suburbs. And if you are a freshman, it is the same for you today as it always has been for every freshman who ever got lost or confused that first day.

High school is an imposing and frightening place. You can see it in a freshman's eyes.

ON ORIENTATION day when the class of '77 comes together for the first time to meet their principal and classmates, the kids go through the rituals of learning the facts of high school life.

Last week, Elk Grove High School gave its class of '77 a chance to take a look at the school during freshman orientation. The purpose was to ease the transition into high school, but it was also a chance for an observer to watch the unique combination of excitement and anxiety that belongs to a newcomer to secondary education.

As a small crowd gathered before the program started, boys gathered around a map of the school and girls hovered in a corner, shyly eyeing the senior boys who had come to represent student council.

The group became progressively louder with girls shouting and jumping up and down in their excitement. After a pause to hear speeches from principals and other dignitaries, the group broke up to tour their new school.

DO YOU REMEMBER how big a high school looks to a freshman? Do you remember the endless corridors, the confusing room numbers, the crowds of unfamiliar faces, the panic inside you when the size of the place struck you? It's still the same. Five girls stood helplessly in front of room 106 and told passers-by they were convinced there was no room 102, no matter what the schedule said.

The few parents on hand seemed more worried than the students about some details. "Do you know where your locker is?" a mother asked her son. "I think it's orange," the boy said and gestured toward rows and rows of orange lockers.

The few seniors present shook their heads at the freshmen.

"I can't believe I was ever like this," one said as four younger boys dashed past, playing tag.

FOR MOST OF the freshmen, though, the loud talk and laughter covered a feeling that if this was the beginning of something, it was also an end. Over in one corner a blonde girl stood with her friends, looking quiet and thoughtful.

Earlier the girl had arrived, clutching her class schedule and accompanied by her father. The father had quickly noted that few parents were present and turned to his daughter. "Do you want me to leave, honey?" he said. "I think you'd be more comfortable if I left."

The girl hesitated, her face showing

Stagnant water, mosquitos, debris to be covered in ditch program

A committee of the Elk Grove Village Association of Industry and Commerce executive board is developing a plan to

Fire Chief Hulett in teaching role

Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hulett is teaching a 3½-hour class on fighting major fires at the University of Maryland today.

The class is part of the university's annual "short course" for senior fire department officers. Hulett said about 80 officers from East Coast fire departments would be attending his class. As part of the class, Hulett will use about 350 color slides he has compiled.

He will return to Elk Grove Village tonight.

cover the drainage ditches in the industrial areas.

The ditches have been a source of problems, including stagnant water, mosquitos, weeds and debris.

Charles Riley, a member of the committee, said stagnant water is suspected as a cause of railroad spur lines sinking and building foundations shifting in the industrial park.

Riley said any project to cover the ditches could take several years to complete. He said the committee is going to ask the board to determine the cost of covering a single ditch as a test program.

Initially, the committee is going to attempt a cleaning of the ditches, said Riley. Later, some type of covering will be considered.

Once costs are determined, the sharing of the costs has to be decided, according to Riley. "The property owners have some responsibility, but I'm not sure that the village does not also have a responsibility. We are also looking at the railroad as having an obligation."

Riley said the problems with the ditches go back for years, perhaps to the day they were built. "I'm not sure they (the ditches) were originally constructed right," he said.

The committee members have been meeting with village officials to discuss the problems with the ditches.

Riley said he and Trustee Michael Tos- to have walked the ditches, looking for problem areas. He said the village has photographs showing ditches filled with debris thrown in by firms in the industrial park. "However, I've also seen ditches where the residents have thrown in refrigerators," he said.

His way to unwind after work

School superintendent has own 'shipyard' in garage

by BOB GALLAS

A school superintendent by day and a shipbuilder by night, Erwin Stevenson shuns traditional forms of relaxation to pursue his favorite interest of building boats. He even has his own shipyard — his garage.

Stevenson's ships won't accommodate any passenger weighing more than a few ounces, but they're not the typical models built with kits from a local store. He builds his models virtually from scratch.

As assistant superintendent for Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59, Stevenson agrees wholeheartedly with the theory that a man should have a way to "unwind." Maybe that's why he can sometimes be found in his "shipyard" at 3 a.m.

He first became interested in his hobby about four years ago, while finishing up work on his doctorate degree at Indiana University. "I'd always worked on model planes," he said, "but this model of a ship caught my eye and I've been hooked ever since."

HE SOON LEARNED that he was in for a few problems. There was little interest in shipbuilding in the United States. Balsa wood and some materials were readily available, but plans and detailed parts were only available in England, where shipbuilding is as popular as model airplane building in the United States.

Stevenson's first attempt, which he refers to as "Disaster," sits unfinished on the mantel of his Elk Grove Village home. A rough model of a cabin cruiser, it's a far cry from the boat Stevenson is just finishing up — a four-foot fishing trawler with an electric engine operated by radio remote control.

Stevenson has invested a lot in time and money in his hobby during the last few years, although he says the hobby doesn't have to be expensive. Including plans, the cost for building a four-foot model is about $100. Radio control mechanisms, which can be interchanged from ship to ship, cost about $150.

"A lot of people don't go in for the radio controls," said Stevenson, "and are content to build a 'static' model just to look at. I get twice as much pleasure from building a boat that not only looks, but runs well too."

IT'S BEEN A long time since a car has been able to fit into the Stevenson garage which has been converted into a workshop.

SCHOOL ADMINISTRATOR Erwin Stevenson of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 makes some adjustments on his latest work, a four-foot fishing trawler. An assistant superintendent for the district, he's helping to promote interest in building model boats from scratch, a fast-growing hobby.

LOOKING AHEAD TO 1977 . . . the new class of freshmen has arrived.

In the center of the garage, amid power saws, drills and various types of paints, sealers and glues, sits Stevenson's latest creation, majestically supported by two sawhorses.

The fishing trawler is detailed down to the fine trim on the trawler's lifeboats. "I plan to name it 'Pikku Kala,'" said Stevenson, "which is Finnish for 'Little Fish.'"

The garage has started to attract the attention of neighborhood children, some of whom want to try their hands at shipbuilding. Stevenson is delighted by their interest.

"Any hobby is more fun when you can share your interest with someone," said Stevenson, whose nine-year-old son has been working on a sailboat of his own. "It's an especially good pastime for fathers and sons who aren't that interested in sports, but like to spend time together."

Stevenson's interest in his hobby has grown greatly in the last year since he helped form the Northwest Commodores Club. The club, which has about 25 members, filled what Stevenson thought was a real need in the Northwest suburbs.

"I KNEW THERE had to be others in the area who had the same interest in shipbuilding," he said. "The trouble was in finding them. Now when a member of the club runs into a problem when building a boat, he can call on another club member who might have solved the problem before."

The club's summer meetings are usually on Sundays at local lakes. Members race their boats against one another and trade off bits of newly discovered information on their hobby.

Winter meetings feature demonstrations on how to solve particular building problems and reports on what materials work best or combine with others well.

Club members are at all stages of development in regard to skills, according to Stevenson. They range from builders of plastic "static" ships from model kits to the builder of an eight-foot long torpedo boat powered by a gasoline engine. Is it possible that some future classes in Dist. 59 may reflect the superintendent of curriculum's thinking? "I'd like to see more craft type classes taught in school," said Stevenson.

"Besides teaching practical things such as how to work with tools and paints, youngsters learn the satisfaction that comes from creating something yourself," he said.

IT'S NOT UNUSUAL for a school administrator to go to night school — except in Stevenson's case. Last year he attended automotive classes to help understand the mechanical aspects of his hobby. Future plans call for courses in electronics and spray painting.

When finished with work on his trawler, Stevenson wants to get started on at least two boats at once — a steam-powered paddle-wheeler and an electric powered Coast Guard cutter. "With more than one boat in the works," said Stevenson, "you don't have to shut down operations when you run into a problem. You just work on the other boat for a while. The variety is nice, too."

Stevenson boosted boat building in the area by helping start the Commodores Club and may help the hobby again — by writing a book.

"There's been little written on the subject because there's a small market in the United States," he said. "Such a book would really be a help to newcomers because it would help them avoid the typical mistakes made by novice builders."

STEVENSON'S HOBBY might involve some travel in the future. "I'd really like to take a trip to England this January," he said, "and visit the international exhibition put on there every year by model builders of all kinds."

If Stevenson goes, he's not sure whether he'll take one of his works with him. One thing for sure, it won't be his first work, "Disaster."

"I'd get rid of it, but it reminds me how far I've come in four years," he said.

7th fall season unveiled

Sporting a variety of new programs, The Elk Grove Park District opens registration for its seventh fall season Monday.

According to Rich Ludovissy, superintendent of recreation, the park district is undertaking its most extensive season yet, offering more than 100 programs for preschool age children to senior citizens.

The format for registration this year has changed, according to Ludovissy. Registration will be at the Lion's Park Community Center, 180 Kennedy Blvd., and not at the park district administrative office.

Registration will run from Sept. 10 to Sept. 17th at the community center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the week, and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday. Evening registration will be offered from 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday Sept. 10 and Wednesday, Sept. 12.

"FEES HAVE not been changed," said Ludovissy, "and will again average about $3 for each program."

Several new programs will debut this season. For those with a green thumb, evening and afternoon workshops on houseplants will be offered. Other adult programs range from classes in arts and crafts and fencing to ski lessons.

The park district ski program this year has doubled from two to four different programs. Again offered will be an adult Sunday evening ski package which begins Jan. 13. Included in the package price of $35 will be five ski lessons, five ski equipment rentals and five tow tickets.

Also offered again is a Saturday children's package that will start Jan. 12. For $45 a child receives five ski lessons, five ski equipment rentals and five tow tickets, plus transportation.

New this year is a special Ladies Day that will be offered on Wednesdays. Included in the cost of $45 will be five ski lessons, rentals and tickets along with transportation.

ALSO NEW is an Early Season Family package that will start on Dec. 15 and run for three weeks. Included for $35 are six lessons (two per day), three rentals and three tickets.

Two other new features of the park district will be a dog obedience class and "Movie Days." Movies will be shown for school-age children on school holidays and institute days.

Senior citizens 60 or over can join the Senior Citizens Club, sponsored by the park district. There is no charge, except for nominal yearly club dues. The club meets at 7 p.m. on the third Thursday of the month at the community center.

Club members get free pool passes and a free arts and crafts class along with other club activities such as special trips.

NEW LEAGUES in basketball and volleyball will be offered for residents or teams from the industrial park. The basketball league plays on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday nights, two times per week starting Oct. 15 to Nov. 27. Games will be played at the two junior high gyms in Elk Grove Village. Team entry fee is $20.

A volleyball league starts Jan. 7 and runs to Feb. 20. Teams play one or two matches a week. Entry fee is $150 per team.

Plans are still set for programs to be at Link School in Elk Grove Village. Because of a delay in construction of the new school, which was to be ready this month, no programs will be at the building west of Rte. 63 until it opens later this year or early next year.

TENNIS ANYONE?

Tennis club will open Sept. 10

A $1.2-million, eight-court indoor tennis facility will open next week in Elk Grove Village.

The Elk Grove Tennis Club will open Sept. 10, according to Lou Handler, managing partner of the club. A grand opening is planned for Sept. 22 and 23.

The club will offer several membership plans at different rates. Complete tennis services will be offered, such as lessons, a pro shop, four air-conditioned courts and four non-air-conditioned courts.

Located at the corner of Busse Road and Howard Street, club occupies 58,000 square feet. Special facilities include saunas, whirlpools and sunrooms, as well as a supervised nursery.

HANDLER, who is also a partner in the Elk Grove Bowl, said he hopes to have a membership of 1,200 persons.

Head teaching pro at the club will be Jim Kemper. Kemper played on the Junior Davis Cup team and captained the Loyola Academy tennis team. He also played tennis four years at Northwestern.

Kemper's son, Mike, and daughter, Mary, along with Mary Valiquet will serve as staff professionals.

Reservations for memberships and court time are now available, according to Handler, by calling the club at 593-6360.

Three principals named in Schaumburg Township

New principals have been appointed for Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 schools.

Maynard Thomas, principal of Fairview School, Hoffman Estates for the past three years, has been named principal of Adolph Link School in Elk Grove Village. Prior to joining Dist. 54 in 1970, Thomas was a principal in Madison, Wis. and Algonquin.

Robert L. Hanlon has been named to succeed Thomas as principal of Fairview. Hanlon has worked for Dist. 54 for eight years, initially as a science teacher at Robert Frost Junior High School, Schaumburg. He was appointed assistant principal at Frost in 1970 and served in that position until his assignment to Fairview.

A graduate of Northeastern Illinois State College, Hanlon received his master's degree from Northern Illinois University.

Twinbrook School's new principal is Eugene Halterman. He has been employed in the district since 1971 as a teacher and assistant to the principal at the Addams Junior High School and Hale Schools.

Halterman was principal of the St.

John Lutheran School, Schaumburg for five years prior to coming to Dist. 54. Other teaching and administrative experience has been in Lutheran schools in New York and Chicago. He is a graduate of Concordia Teachers College where he received his bachelor's and master's degrees.

James Oberg will be the first principal to head the new Dwight D. Eisenhower Junior High School, Hoffman Estates.

Prior to his appointment, Oberg was a teacher and assistant principal at the Helen Keller Junior High School, Schaumburg.

Kenneth Cull, a mathematics teacher at Keller and math department chairman at Addams the past two years, will be assistant principal at Eisenhower.

Kenneth Sirotzki, has been appointed assistant principal at the Robert Frost Junior High School. Sirotzki has for the past four years taught fifth grade and social studies at Frost.

Elks Lodge open house

The Elk Grove Elks, Lodge No. 2423, will sponsor an open house Friday at 8 p.m.

The second annual event will be at the Elks' lodge at 115 Gordon St., Elk Grove Village, and will be for couples only.

The open house is part of the Elks' membership drive. Activities will include bingo and cards. Refreshments will be served.

Bicyclist, 10, ticketed after auto accident

Richard Stephan, 10, of 111 Arlington Heights Rd., Elk Grove Village, was ticketed for failing to stop at a stop sign after he was injured when his bicycle collided with an auto last week.

According to Elk Grove Village police, Stephan admitted he did not stop at the sign in the Grove Shopping Center Parking lot and rode in front of a car driven by Charles Steinko, 33, of 325 Kingsbridge Rd., Elk Grove Village.

Stephan was admitted in good condition to the pediatrics ward of Alexian Brothers Medical Center with head and leg abrasions.

A SURPRISE VISIT from Winnie-the-Pooh brightens the day for Kim Goscinski of Wood Dale. The portly storybook character made the rounds of the pediatrics ward at Alexian Brothers Medical Center recently, much to the delight of those who had to spend the holiday week-end in the hospital.

that she wanted to answer both yes and no. "Yes, Dad," she wanted to say. "Leave so I can tackle this adventure on my own." "No, Dad," she wanted to say at the same time. "I'm scared and I want you here just like you were when I was a little girl."

Finally, her father made his own decision. He smiled at his daughter, turned and walked out of the building without looking back.

Now, an hour and a half later, the girl was standing, talking to her friends and looking still a little uneasy. But this was high school. And she was on her own.

Class of '77—what's ahead?

What's ahead for the class of '77?

According to most experts, the freshmen who enter high school today will emerge at the end of the 70s with greater prospects for a job — but that the job market will be dramatically different and oriented towards service rather than production industries.

And above all, the freshmen of today should be prepared to join an increasing band of Americans who are basically rootless as they wander across the country.

The most prominent occupation today is clerical work — not production line factory work — and 67 per cent of our work force is either buying, selling or performing some service.

The trend toward a mobile society is increasing rapidly. Over the past three years 100 million persons have changed addresses and most of the moving has been confined to three areas of the country where the jobs are: California, Florida and Texas.

OTHER TRENDS:

—There will be a greatly increased demand for people with annual skills compared to academic skills.

—A high school education will not be enough to compete on tomorrow's job market, although manual skills compared to academic subjects may not be as valuable as advanced training in some vocational skill.

—The job market will open up dramatically for women. By 1980 half of all the employees will be women, compared to 40 per cent today. In fact, the average girl in high school now will spend more than 25 years of her remaining lifetime as a worker.

Dredging legal or illegal?

U.S. to inspect Salt Creek work

A U.S. Soil Conservation Service engineer will inspect the work being done on the west branch of Salt Creek in Palatine this week in the continuing dispute over legality of the work.

An engineer from the Champaign bureau of the conservation service is due in Palatine Thursday or Friday to judge whether the widening and dredging work by the village is in violation of the Upper Salt Creek Watershed Plan, a $26 million project to minimize flooding in the area.

Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones said he does not believe the work is illegal, but said that if it is, it would be stopped.

"We don't want to do anything to jeopardize the Salt Creek Watershed program," he said.

A WORK STOPPAGE would also put a halt to plans to install a controversial $12,000 storm sewer at Hellen Road and Cedar Street, because village trustees had agreed to dredge and widen the creek before installing the sewer.

The question to be resolved is just how much creek work the village can do and still remain within the permissible bounds set by the watershed plan.

Salt Creek watershed officials do not consider the removal of debris or clearing away of underbrush in violation of the watershed plan, but may draw the line at widening and dredging the creek.

The village contends that it is merely widening and deepening the creek to its original banks, before sedimentation took place.

DON PAUKEN, a soil conservationist with the North Cook County Soil and Water Conservation District, had stated at last week's village board meeting that he does not regard the work as illegal, but simply as maintenance.

Pauken said later in the week, however, he may have misunderstood village officials who described the creek work to him, and indicated that he now believes the work may be illegal.

"The way the project was described to me I would think it was maintenance," he said. But widening and dredging operations, he said, "go beyond maintenance."

Summer's over for kids at least

The summer vacation came to an end today and it was back to school for the more than 12,000 students in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

District officials have been busy this summer getting the district's 20 schools ready for the opening, ordering supplies, hiring teachers to fill the staff of more than 600 and planning curriculum all in the hopes things will go smoothly today.

Lawn sprinkling ban ordered by village

A lawn sprinkling ban was ordered in Palatine yesterday by Village Mgr. James Bennett because of low water pressure throughout town.

Police said the water pressure was lowest in the eastern section of the village where some residents could not flush their toilets. According to police, a water pump malfunctioned contributing to the water shortage. The pump was repaired yesterday. The sprinkling ban likely will continue for several days, police said.

Police patrolled Palatine subdivisions yesterday using loud speakers on squad cars to order residents to stop sprinkling their lawns.

Sanborn windows fire-tested, temporary coverings ordered

Fireproof materials will be used temporarily to cover window openings at Gray M. Sanborn School in Palatine while Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 officials await the results of tests on new windows for the school.

Dist. Supt. Frank Whiteley said Friday officials have not yet been able to get conclusive proof that the material in the new windows will pass life safety codes, which are the building standards which must be met by all Illinois public schools.

Whiteley said the temporary coverings will be replaced later this week with "suitable material" until test results on the proposed translucent, fiberglass windows are reviewed.

THE COOK COUNTY Superintendent of School's office last week completed tests on the new windows. The county office was called to inspect the windows and their installation in June after a parent objected to the installation of the new windows.

Robert Hayes, assistant superintendent of Cook County schools, had said a public statement would be issued following completion of the window tests. The windows were tested for a flame spread rating, combustibility, and toxicity of gas and smoke emissions.

When the county school office first inspected the windows in June, Hayes said he saw nothing wrong with the installation but ordered the tests to insure the windows met life safety codes.

Installation of the new windows is part of renovation work being done at Sanborn School to bring the school into compliance with life safety codes. Installation of the new windows and new frames is expected to cost $40,000.

Financing for the project will come from the life safety code levy, which is 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

New library extension plan

A new Palatine Library extension service starting this week will feature books available in local doctors' offices, beauty parlors, and the Salt Creek Rural Park District office.

Called "Take This Book," the program allows browsers to take books home without the usual checkout and due date process. No fines are charged for the books, which will be marked with special orange tags explaining the borrowing procedure.

"Some of the books are left over from the booksale and some are duplicate copies of bestsellers," said Donna Grove, administrative librarian in Palatine.

The program is aimed at bringing more people into the library when they return the books. A similar system in Deerfield "has been quite successful," Mrs. Grove said.

"This program gives us more room and gets the books out to the public," Mrs. Grove said. The sixty books will be made available at locations and may be expanded if the program is effective. Palatine's library is located at 149 N. Brockway St.

Overcrowded schools mean some pupils will be bused

Nearly 100 elementary students from northeast Palatine Township will be bused to schools in Rolling Meadows this year because of overcrowded conditions at schools in their area.

Kindergarten, first, fourth and sixth grade students will be bused to Cardinal Drive School and second, third and fifth grade students will go to Kimball Hill School.

The boundary of the area to be bused to Rolling Meadows is very jagged but includes the Shenandoah subdivision and several new apartment and condominium projects.

Paul Jung, director of personnel, said by the end of the school year there might be as many as 400 students from the area bused into Rolling Meadows. He said it was necessary to bus the students because of overcrowded conditions at both Virginia Lake and Lincoln Schools in Palatine.

If Cardinal Drive and Kimball Hill Schools become overcrowded, the additional students will be bused to Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows.

The plan to bus the students into Rolling Meadows was approved by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board in May as part of the student assignment plan. The information was forwarded to the Shenandoah Development Corp. in writing at that time, according to Jung.

A MODEST PROPOSAL to beat the high cost of automobiles, insurance and gasoline: Get a horse. Marie Jesionowski, 17, of 277 N. Clyde Ave., Palatine Township, gives "Sweets," a 7-year-old part Arab, part quarter-horse, a workout.

Sweets, who belongs to Marie's neighbors, Bob and Andrea Hanna, can go up to 35 miles an hour. Unlike some cars, though, she's not equipped with pollution control devices as yet.

For students from low-income group

Federal free lunch program? Next year

The federal free lunch program will be offered next year to students of low-income families through High School Dist. 211.

Applications for the program may be made anytime during the school year to Bruce Altergott, associate superintendent. Application forms will be sent to parents and are available at the district administration center, 1750 S. Roselle Rd., Palatine.

Information on the application form will be kept confidential by school officials and applications will be approved according to family income guidelines established by the federal government.

Those eligible for the program are students from a family of one with an annual income of $2,740 or less, a family of two and an income of $3,600, three and $4,460, four and $5,310, five and $6,100, six and $6,890, seven and $7,600, eight and $8,310, nine and $8,960, 10 and $9,600, 11 and $10,240, 12 and $10,880, then $840 for each additional family member.

Any unusual circumstances or hardships in the family may also qualify a student for the program. All applications will be reviewed within 10 days after they are received and families will be notified in writing. If a family is not satisfied with the decision on their eligibility, they may appeal their application to Supt. Richard Kolze.

Church to replace windows with plastic

Parishioners at the Palatine Bible Church are tackling the problem of rock-throwing vandals by removing the temptation.

In a series of work days, members of the church are installing colored plastic panes to replace the original colored glass, which has been the target of school children passing by the church.

Members have just started the project, according to Rev. Robert E. Murphey. They'll start again sometime later this month until all the windows have the tougher, rock-and-snowball-resistant plastic.

The church turned to the plastic glass when "We couldn't match the glass that we had in," Rev. Murphey explained. The plastic is slightly cheaper than the colored glass, too.

The church is located at 312 E. Wood St., Palatine.

Preschool program planned at church

Registration starts Wednesday for a Thursday morning preschool program beginning in October at First United Methodist Church, 123 N. Plum Grove Rd. in Palatine.

A new educational approach will involve three- and four-year-olds and their mothers in the weekly session at the church. More details about the program are available by calling the church office at 359-1345 or Mrs. Jan Wurl at 394-1835.

Registration for church members only will be from 9 a.m. to noon today. Other members of the community may register their children tomorrow, 9 a.m. to noon.

Palatine Junior High annexation considered

The annexation of Palatine Hills Junior High School to the Village of Palatine is being investigated by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education.

The board has asked the administrative staff to set up a joint meeting between representatives of the school board and village board to explore the possibility of annexing the school at 1100 N. Smith in unincorporated Palatine Township.

time, where 18 of the 25 precincts contained more than the prescribed total of 600 voters per precinct. One precinct, No. 38 in the northeast corner of the township, was the voting home of about 1,200 residents before it was divided.

Registered voters whose precincts have been changed need not register again. New registration cards indicating the precinct number will be sent to the voter by the county.

TEACHERS GOT TO try their hand at playing a few tunes when they attended a workshop on the Orff music program at Willow Bend School in Rolling Meadows. The Orff music was introduced in Germany and stresses rhythmic development. The workshop was one of 26 voluntary workshops in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 last week. Approximately 325 teachers signed up for one or more of the workshops.

Township picks up 11 voting precincts

Eleven voting precincts have been added to Palatine Township as a result of redistricting.

The 11 new precincts bring to 57 the number of precincts in the township, which includes Palatine, Rolling Meadows and Inverness. The new precinct boundaries will not affect election results.

The precincts were redrawn by the Cook County Clerk's office to more accurately reflect the population spread in the township.

MOST OF THE changes occurred in voting precincts in the Village of Palatine.

that she wanted to answer both yes and no. "Yes, Dad," she wanted to say. "Leave so I can tackle this adventure on my own." "No, Dad," she wanted to say at the same time. "I'm scared and I want you here just like you were when I was a little girl."

Finally, her father made his own decision. He smiled at his daughter, turned and walked out of the building without looking back.

Now, an hour and a half later, the girl was standing, talking to her friends and looking still a little uneasy. But this was high school. And she was on her own.

Class of '77—what's ahead?

What's ahead for the class of '77?

According to most experts, the freshmen who enter high school today will emerge at the end of the 70s with greater prospects for a job — but that the job market will be dramatically different and oriented towards service rather than production industries.

And above all, the freshmen of today should be prepared to join an increasing band of Americans who are basically rootless as they wander across the country.

The most prominent occupation today is clerical work — not production line factory work — and 67 per cent of our work force is either buying, selling or performing some service.

The trend toward a mobile society is increasing rapidly. Over the past three years 100 million persons have changed addresses and most of the moving has been confined to three areas of the country where the jobs are: California, Florida and Texas.

OTHER TRENDS: —There will be a greatly increased demand for people with annual skills compared to academic skills.

—A high school education will not be enough to compete on tomorrow's job market, although manual skills compared to academic subjects may not be as valuable as advanced training in some vocational skill.

—The job market will open up dramatically for women. By 1980 half of all the employees will be women, compared to 40 per cent today. In fact, the average girl in high school now will spend more than 25 years of her remaining lifetime as a worker.

Armed robber plucks $3,000

A man armed with a rifle took $3,000 from the Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant in Arlington Heights yesterday morning.

Willie DeJournette, an employee of the restaurant, said he was held up by the gunman at about 9 a.m. and forced to turn over money from the cash register and the safe at the carry out franchise, 132 W. Northwest Hwy.

DeJournette said the robber entered the building through the back door and after taking the money locked DeJournette in a bathroom. DeJournette was discovered an hour later by another employee. The restaurant does not open for business until 11 a.m.

VIPs to sponsor intrasquad game

The Very Interested Parents (VIP's) at Palatine High School will sponsor a red-white intra-squad football game Friday at Ost Field to kick off the school's fall football season.

Each squad will be split into two teams to play in a controlled scrimmage. Freshmen will play at 6 p.m., sophomores at 6:45 and the varsity at 7:45 p.m.

Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children and will be available at the gate. Proceeds will go to the Parents Organization for Lights on Ost Field and activities at Palatine High School.

The first VIP meeting of the school year will be held Sept. 27 at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria and will feature the football and cross country coaches. The organization is scheduling a paper drive Oct. 13.

Officers for the new year are Robert T. DeWyz, president; Harold St. John, vice-president; Rita Cullen, secretary; and Higley Countryman, treasurer.

Summer of '73, class of '77

by WANDALYN RICE

They arrive on their bikes, walking in groups or in cars chauffeured by Mom or Dad; they are short and tall and in various stages of maturity; they are shy and nervous or they are loose, part of a no-sweat world where things come easy.

They were born 14 years ago in 1959 and today, as they start high school as freshmen, they become part of the class of '77 — the newest generation of adolescents to go to school and walk into young adulthood.

Today is the first day for them as some 27,000 high school students go back to school throughout the Northwest suburbs. And if you are a freshman, it is the same for you today as it always has been for every freshman who ever got lost or confused that first day.

High school is an imposing and frightening place. You can see it in a freshman's eyes.

ON ORIENTATION day when the class of '77 comes together for the first time to meet their principal and classmates, the kids go through the rituals of learning the facts of high school life.

Last week, Elk Grove High School gave its class of '77 a chance to take a look at the school during freshman orientation. The purpose was to ease the transition into high school, but it was also a chance for an observer to watch the unique combination of excitement and anxiety that belongs to a newcomer to secondary education.

As a small crowd gathered before the program started, boys gathered around a map of the school and girls hovered in a corner, shyly eyeing the senior boys who had come to represent student council.

The group became progressively louder with girls shouting and jumping up and down in their excitement. After a pause to hear speeches from principals and other dignitaries, the group broke up to tour their new school.

DO YOU REMEMBER how big a high school looks to a freshman? Do you remember the endless corridors, the confusing room numbers, the crowds of unfamiliar faces, the panic inside you when the size of the place struck you? It's still the same. Five girls stood helplessly in front of room 106 and told passers-by they were convinced there was no room 102, no matter what the schedule said.

The few parents on hand seemed more worried than the students about some details. "Do you know where your locker is?" a mother asked her son. "I think it's orange," the boy said and gestured toward rows and rows of orange lockers.

The few seniors present shook their heads at the freshmen.

"I can't believe I was ever like this," one said as four younger boys dashed past, playing tag.

FOR MOST OF the freshmen, though, the loud talk and laughter covered a feeling that if this was the beginning of something, it was also an end. Over in one corner a blonde girl stood with her friends, looking quiet and thoughtful.

Earlier the girl had arrived, clutching her class schedule and accompanied by her father. The father had quickly noted that few parents were present and turned to his daughter. "Do you want me to leave, honey?" he said. "I think you'd be more comfortable if I left."

The girl hesitated, her face showing

Magnetic triggering device to be installed

Last-minute requirement by state won't hold up work on traffic light

A last minute requirement by the Illinois Division of Highways that a magnetic triggering device be included in temporary traffic control plans for the intersection of Algonquin and New Wilke Roads is not expected to delay work in that project.

Rolling Meadows City Engineer Edward Fletcher said he does not anticipate problems in starting work within two weeks on the temporary lights, although the state's requirement is expected to hike the cost of the project between $300 and $1,000.

Fletcher said Friday the state notified the engineer's office Thursday of the additional requirement after reviewing a joint plan by the City of Rolling Meadows and the Village of Arlington Heights to install the traffic lights. The plan calls for joint funding of the project between the two municipalities. The temporary lights have been sought by the two towns to reduce the number of traffic accidents at the intersection.

The roads come under the jurisdiction of the state, which allows the state the right to review and revise any improvement plans.

A BID OF $9,200 from the Commercial Light Company of Chicago was the only one received for the project, Rolling Meadows City Mgr. James Watson said. Watson said three other bids had been solicited but the companies declined to offer bids. Newspaper notices also failed to produce more than the one bidder, he said.

The bid was accepted because it was under the maximum $10,000 cost the two communities agreed to share, Watson said. However, the additional state requirement for a magnetic signal-triggering device to be installed underground on Wilke Road will increase the project cost.

Fletcher said he planned to contact the bidding company to determine the additional cost and verify when work could begin on the project. The company had said work could begin two weeks after confirmation of a contract is made, Fletcher said.

Engineers have estimated the entire project would take about 10 working days to complete.

The lights are expected to be in operation for about 12 months until the extension of New Wilke south to Golf Road is completed. Permanent traffic lights are then expected to be installed, with the cost of permanent lights to be shared by the state, Arlington Heights, and Rolling Meadows.

Watson said a formal agreement between Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights to share the cost of the temporary lights on a 50-50 basis probably will be signed this week. Both communities have passed resolutions saying they will take part in such a funding arrangement.

Summer's over for kids at least

The summer vacation came to an end today and it was back to school for the more than 12,000 students in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

District officials have been busy this summer getting the district's 20 schools ready for the opening, ordering supplies, hiring teachers to fill the staff of more than 600 and planning curriculum all in the hopes things will go smoothly today.

Overcrowded schools mean some pupils will be bused

Nearly 100 elementary students from northeast Palatine Township will be bused to schools in Rolling Meadows this year because of overcrowded conditions at schools in their area.

Kindergarten, first, fourth and sixth grade students will be bused to Cardinal Drive School and second, third and fifth grade students will go to Kimball Hill School.

The boundary of the area to be bused to Rolling Meadows is very jagged but includes the Shenandoah subdivision and several new apartment and condominium projects.

Paul Jung, director of personnel, said by the end of the school year there might be as many as 400 students from the area bused into Rolling Meadows. He said it was necessary to bus the students because of overcrowded conditions at both Virginia Lake and Lincoln Schools in Palatine.

If Cardinal Drive and Kimball Hill Schools become overcrowded, the additional students will be bused to Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows.

The plan to bus the students into Rolling Meadows was approved by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board in May as part of the student assignment plan. The information was forwarded to the Shenandoah Development Corp. in writing at that time, according to Jung.

Pilot test program at Sandburg School

Students at Carl Sandburg School in Rolling Meadows will participate in a pilot test program being conducted this fall by the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education approved the school's participation in the "Illinois Inventory of Educational Progress" on Wednesday.

Twenty eighth grade students at Sandburg School will be selected to take the 2 1/2-hour test between Oct. 8 and Nov. 30. The test is being administered to 2,000 students randomly selected from 100 attendance areas in the state. The test is designed to assess the students' learning skills and attitudes.

LOOKING AHEAD TO 1977 . . . the new class of freshmen has arrived.

Fire Dept. gets 31 new 'volunteers' this month

The Rolling Meadows Fire Department will soon increase its numbers with 31 volunteers scheduled to begin training this month.

The new personnel will come from the city's public works department as part of a plan to assist the fire department in emergency situations, according to Supt. of Public Works John Hennessy.

Hennessy said all but three of the department's men and women employees will train to become volunteer firemen. Three employees cannot take part in the program for health reasons.

The employees will be trained by the fire department in four hour sessions twice a week, Hennessy said. He said it is not yet known how long the training will last, since employees will first be taught what Hennessy called "primary concerns" such as exposure to smoke and how to handle fire equipment. Training will later intensify, Hennessy said.

WOMEN FROM THE public works department will also take part in the program to assist in first aid and radio operations.

Hennessy said the idea for the program originated some time ago when several new city firemen spent time at the public works department learning about that department. "Things generated from there," he said. Public works employees volunteered for the program to assist the city in case of fire emergencies, he said.

The fire department has 18 full-time men.

Correction

Contract negotiations in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 will not resume on Thursday as previously reported by The Herald.

The professional negotiations committee of the board of education will meet on Thursday at 8 p.m. but the Classroom Teachers Council (CTC) negotiating team will not be present.

No date has been set for the resumption of negotiations which have been suspended since May 30.

Elaine Caras, Miss Ill. Teenager returns home

Miss Illinois Teenager, Elaine Caras of Des Plaines, returned yesterday from a six-day, all expenses paid trip to Atlanta, Ga. where she competed for the title of Miss National Teenager.

The 17-year-old Illinois entry is the daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Louis Caras, 2116 Plainfield. She competed against 51 girls — one from each of the United States and the District of Columbia.

Winner of the national competition, held Saturday night at the Atlanta Civic Center, was Betty Nightengale, 17, Miss Maine Teenager from Fairfield, Me.

WINNERS WERE chosen on the basis of looks, personality, poise, civic and school contributions. Each girl submitted a 100-word essay on "What's Right About America," the pageant theme.

Miss National Teenager will receive a car, wardrobe, mink cape, trip to the Holy Land and will appear on television shows as well as civic functions around the country.

Miss Caras will receive a scholarship to Massey Junior College in Atlanta for taking the state title. She will also travel the state for a year representing teenagers of Illinois.

DP shooting victim termed 'fair' condition

A Des Plaines shooting victim has been removed from intensive care and was listed in fair condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital.

Peter Klein, 29, 910 Beau Dr., spent a "comfortable weekend" and is improving, according to a hospital spokesman.

Klein was shot eight times by his roommate, Antal Schmidt, 29, Tuesday night, according to Des Plaines police. One of the bullets punctured Klein's right lung.

Schmidt was taken to Cook County Jail Wednesday on $25,000 bond to await a Sept. 6 court appearance in Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

According to police the shooting occurred about 6:30 p.m. when Klein returned from work. The roommates had argued earlier over the use of a Jaguar sports car which they shared.

Schlickman praises new Maryville school site

by LINDA PUNCH

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, Friday commended River Trails Dist. 26 officials for their "responsible manner" in selecting a site for the new Maryville school.

Schlickman, sponsor of a bill providing for state funding of the special education facility, spoke at the Dist. 26 Teacher's Institute Day at River Trails Junior High School. He will attend the Sept. 5 meeting of the Dist. 26 Board to discuss Maryville.

Noting that the school district has a legal responsibility to educate the Maryville children, Schlickman said, "The board, administration and teachers of the district are to be complimented for the manner in which they complied."

"The Maryville children are human beings and their problems are the same as those faced by many children in the community, only magnified and more visible," he said.

SCHLICKMAN said the new school building will be a model special education facility "available to all students in the district, subject only to the school board's policy."

"As to the location of the building, educators have agreed that it should be removed from the Maryville Academy campus," he said. "I agree and heartily commend the district's officials for the responsible manner in which they've proceeded."

The goal of the district should be to help Maryville students "acquire the tools they need to succeed in society" according to Schlickman.

"It should not be our goal to make these children just like any other child in the community," he said. "We should help them develop confidence in their own abilities and demonstrate that different can be good."

Earlier in the meeting, Dist. 26 Acting Supt. James Retzlaff told teachers he recommended the River Trails Junior High School site for the Maryville school.

"I recommended the junior high site with the qualifier of park district cooperation. I would not stick a building on that site without adding something to it," Retzlaff said. "I'll be very honest with you — without park district cooperation, I'd be stopped dead in my recommendations."

TEACHERS SHOULD take Maryville students "as they come, and help them as best we can," the acting superintendent said.

"A school staff should never set itself as a screening body — we should never label a student as hopeful or not promising," he said. "A true democracy respects the worth of every pupil regardless of his origin."

In discussing collective bargaining for teachers, Schlickman said he would support any measure "which would provide a state-wide standard for collective bargaining, including compulsory arbitration and a no-strike provision."

"Like war, the strike is an admission of failure. I sympathize with teachers who are forced to break the law because they have no legal recourse," he said. "But I am also grieved by unbridled militancy that's unsatisfying and insensitive."

that she wanted to answer both yes and no. "Yes, Dad," she wanted to say, "Leave so I can tackle this adventure on my own." "No, Dad," she wanted to say at the same time. "I'm scared and I want you here just like you were when I was a little girl."

Finally, her father made his own decision. He smiled at his daughter, turned and walked out of the building without looking back.

Now, an hour and a half later, the girl was standing, talking to her friends and looking still a little uneasy. But this was high school. And she was on her own.

What's ahead for the class of '77?

According to most experts, the freshmen who enter high school today will emerge at the end of the 70s with greater prospects for a job — but that the job market will be dramatically different and oriented towards service rather than production industries.

And above all, the freshmen of today should be prepared to join an increasing band of Americans who are basically rootless as they wander across the country.

The most prominent occupation today is clerical work — not production line factory work — and 67 per cent of our work force is either buying, selling or performing some service.

The trend toward a mobile society is increasing rapidly. Over the past three years 100 million persons have changed addresses and most of the moving has been confined to three areas of the country where the jobs are: California, Florida and Texas.

OTHER TRENDS: —There will be a greatly increased demand for people with annual skills compared to academic skills.

—A high school education will not be enough to compete on tomorrow's job market, although manual skills compared to academic subjects may not be as valuable as advanced training in some vocational skill.

—The job market will open up dramatically for women. By 1980 half of all the employees will be women, compared to 40 per cent today. In fact, the average girl in high school now will spend more than 25 years of her remaining lifetime as a worker.

Summer of '73, class of '77

by WANDALYN RICE

They arrive on their bikes, walking in groups or in cars chauffeured by Mom or Dad; they are short and tall and in various stages of maturity; they are shy and nervous or they are loose, part of a no-sweat world where things come easy.

They were born 14 years ago in 1959 and today, as they start high school as freshmen, they become part of the class of '77 — the newest generation of adolescents to go to school and walk into young adulthood.

Today is the first day for them as some 27,000 high school students go back to school throughout the Northwest suburbs. And if you are a freshman, it is the same for you today as it always has been for every freshman who ever got lost or confused that first day.

High school is an imposing and frightening place. You can see it in a freshman's eyes.

ON ORIENTATION day when the class of '77 comes together for the first time to meet their principal and classmates, the kids go through the rituals of learning the facts of high school life.

Last week, Elk Grove High School gave its class of '77 a chance to take a look at the school during freshman orientation. The purpose was to ease the transition into high school, but it was also a chance for an observer to watch the unique combination of excitement and anxiety that belongs to a newcomer to secondary education.

As a small crowd gathered before the program started, boys gathered around a map of the school and girls hovered in a corner, shyly eyeing the senior boys who had come to represent student council.

The group became progressively louder with girls shouting and jumping up and down in their excitement. After a pause to hear speeches from principals and other dignitaries, the group broke up to tour their new school.

DO YOU REMEMBER how big a high school looks to a freshman? Do you remember the endless corridors, the confusing room numbers, the crowds of unfamiliar faces, the panic inside you when the size of the place struck you? It's still the same. Five girls stood helplessly in front of room 106 and told passers-by they were convinced there was no room 102, no matter what the schedule said.

The few parents on hand seemed more worried than the students about some details. "Do you know where your locker is?" a mother asked her son. "I think it's orange," the boy said and gestured toward rows and rows of orange lockers.

The few seniors present shook their heads at the freshmen.

"I can't believe I was ever like this," one said as four younger boys dashed past, playing tag.

FOR MOST OF the freshmen, though, the loud talk and laughter covered a feeling that if this was the beginning of something, it was also an end. Over in one corner a blonde girl stood with her friends, looking quiet and thoughtful.

Earlier the girl had arrived, clutching her class schedule and accompanied by her father. The father had quickly noted that few parents were present and turned to his daughter. "Do you want me to leave, honey?" he said. "I think you'd be more comfortable if I left."

Boy, 7, drowns in quarry, crash kills man in Labor Day tragedies

The drowning of a 7-year-old Chicago boy in Schaumburg yesterday morning and the death of a 19-year-old Schaumburg man near Hanover Park Sunday were among Labor Day weekend tragedies reported.

James Gregory Goodlow of 1317 S. Christiana, Chicago slipped from the side of a quarry into 8-foot-deep water southwest of Meacham and Schaumburg roads about 7 a.m. yesterday, Schaumburg police said.

He was on a family fishing trip and his drowning was witnessed by a cousin, Dennis Dixon, 8. Other youths with him included his twin brother, George, and two other cousins, police added.

The boy's father was nearby and waded into the water in an attempt to find his son. But James' body was not found until 7:25 a.m. when it was discovered by Schaumburg Fire Department personnel who used a canoe provided by a passing motorist.

NONE OF THE eight other persons with the victim knew how to swim, police added.

James was playing with his brother and cousins along a 15-foot slope. He had slid down toward the water and was climbing up the incline when he fell into the water, police said.

His cousin Dennis, who witnessed the drowning, told police James went underwater and never resurfaced again.

A Schaumburg man, Wayne A. Jessen,

19, died when his car collided with a semi trailer-truck on U. S. 20 near Hanover Park, according to reports.

Jessen's car was said to have skipped over a median and crashed head-on into a truck driven by Donald Toroyke, 39, of Hanover Park. He was uninjured.

SCHAUMBURG POLICE also told of $700 damage done Sunday to three cars by vandals using black spray paint at the home of Kenneth Kettner, a radio operator with the village's police department.

Other cars damaged belonged to Kettner's mother and father, police said. A similar incident was reported by the Kettners on Aug. 27, police added.

Fishing equipment worth $475 and business machines worth $650 were reported stolen to Schaumburg police over the weekend.

Richard Constan, 46, of 7 E. Monterey, said his fishing equipment was taken sometime between 11 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday.

The business machines were reported stolen Saturday from the apartment of Willard Dillow, 1224 E. Algonquin Rd.

There were no signs of forcible entry in either burglary, police said.

Olde Towne, Romano plans studied tonight

Preliminary plans for the proposed Olde Towne district and Lee Romano's controversial Outer Planets development will occupy Schaumburg officials this week.

A progress report on development of Olde Towne guidelines is expected when the plan commission meets at 7:30 tonight in the Great Hall.

The three-member subcommittee charged with developing Olde Towne plans is expected to outline progress, though their work has not yet been completed, said Richard Nomellini, commission chairman.

An area one-quarter mile in each direction of the Schaumburg-Roselle roads intersection has been earmarked for the proposed district although Nomellini indicated that boundaries may be altered.

NOMELLINI SAID once preliminary committee work is completed a public hearing on Olde Towne can be scheduled.

Plans for Romano's 200-acre futuristic city at Higgins Road and I-90 will be again reviewed when the zoning board of appeals meets tomorrow.

The development proposed by Romano, an Arlington Heights developer, would be completed over a 15-year period.

In June Romano was sent back to the drawing board to refine his plan and bring specifics back for zoning board examination.

He is asking the village to annex 74 acres south of Old Schaumburg Road and west of I-90 as well as an additional 66-acre parcel north of Old Schaumburg Road. He is petitioning for planned unit development (PUD) zoning on the entire tract.

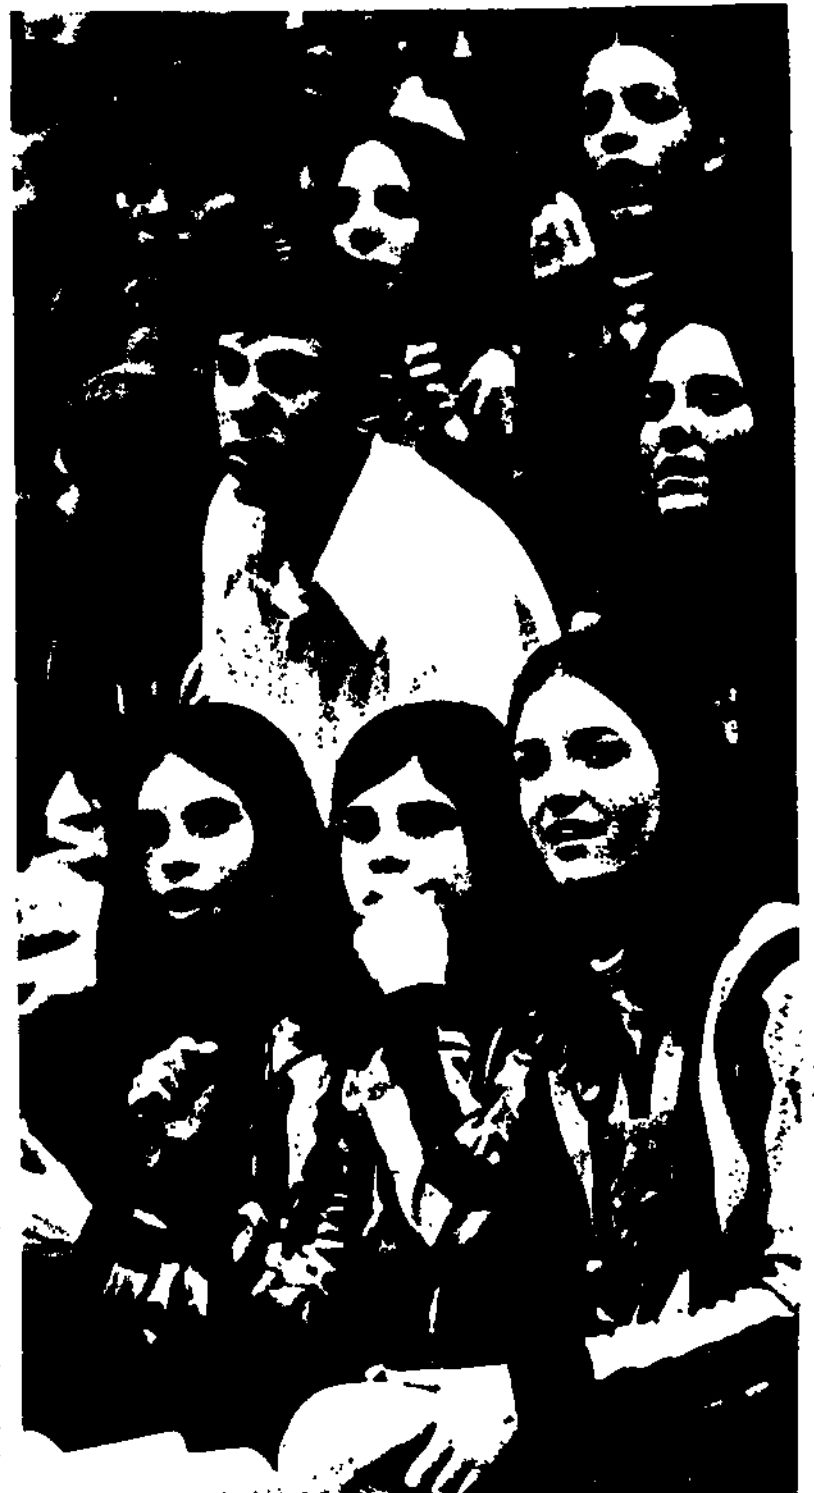

Phase one of his plan includes four 32-story buildings; two of the structures would contain condominiums and the others consist of rental units.

THE CONDOMINIUMS, each consisting of 232 units, would be built on 22 of the 74 acres as soon as possible after zoning is granted.

The original Outer Planets development involved 86 acres on the southwest corner of Higgins and I-90. The village granted PUD zoning and annexation for that project in 1968 but later rescinded the action since Romano failed to begin construction within time specified by the zoning ordinance.

The developer claims he never began the project because the state purchased 20 acres of the land for use as right-of-way connecting I-90 with Rte. 53 and Higgins Road.

The zoning board expects updated information on sewer and water plans and a complete traffic study and detailed plans of phase one at the meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Great Hall.

LOOKING AHEAD TO 1977 . . . the new class of freshmen has arrived.

School taxes will drop by about $5

The final draft of a $15 million Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54 budget shows taxpayers can look forward to an approximate $5 tax decrease.

Dist. 54 board members hold an 8 p.m. hearing Thursday on the budget for the 1973-74 school year at the administrative offices at 804 W. Bode Road, Schaumburg.

Copies of the budget are open for public inspection at the office.

The budget shows a $3 million increase in spending above last year's budget and the final draft of the budget that will be proposed is $1 million more than the first proposed $14 million budget.

MARVIN LAPICOLA, assistant superintendent of finance, said preliminaries of the budget did not reflect raises in teachers salaries. A recently approved contract between teachers and the district raised the teachers salary fund from $9.4 million to $10.1 million. The salaries are in the $13,356,850 educational fund, the largest portion of the budget.

A $1 million increase in state aid for the district will bring the revenue up to $15 million said Lapicola, but expenses have also increased.

Dist. 54 expects to spend $479,700 to bus children this school year and will receive $431,000 in revenue for the transportation fund with a $48,700 deficit in that fund.

Lapicola said the district does not intend to charge students for field trip transportation.

HE SAID THE district expects to spend $1,211,500 on buildings and maintenance and $210,000 for the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund. The budget shows a $25,000 surplus.

The districts assessed valuation is estimated at $282 million. Last year's assessed valuation was $208 million.

Lapicola said taxes will be lower but not because of a drop in the $2.77 per $100 assessed valuation levied last year. "It's because the district's total assessed valuation has jumped substantially in the last year," he said.

He explained that tax reductions are usually the result of a rate drop for every $100 of equalized assessed valuation. "This has not happened but with the great increase in the total assessed valuation taxpayers pay less because there are more people paying," he said.

Controversial Highpoint to be discussed tonight

Residents in the Highpoint Park area are scheduled to discuss plans for recreation fields in the park with the Hoffman Estates Park Board of Commissioners at 8:30 p.m. today.

The residents are disgruntled with plans for the park in western Hoffman Estates. They have asked the board to consider eliminating a baseball diamond and moving a planned 40-car parking lot to insure the residents' privacy.

The meeting will be held at the park district office at 650 W. Higgins Rd.

A spokesman for the group of residents, Bob Kosrow, 503 Glen Lake Rd., has said they did not know about the plans for the park until recently.

INFORMATION ABOUT the park was publicized at least a month before a $675,000 referendum was approved by the voters, Al Binder, superintendent of the park district, said.

Binder added that an informational meeting had been held at nearby MacArthur School before the referendum, but that only one person had attended.

Kosrow has said the park will not be a "community" park, but rather a sports complex. Residents are worried that the planned placement of the parking lot will cause persons to park on the streets resulting in parking congestion, Kosrow has said.

Tennis courts will also be installed at the park, but the board has not decided if construction will be done in one or two stages.

There have been some unexpected problems with development at Highpoint Park. The board spent about $90,000 more than the referendum — approved figure of $122,000 for development at the park. The additional cost came for landfill to prevent flooding and standing water problems. Also, trucks hauling dirt to the park had torn up nearby streets. The park district has agreed to split up to $5,000 in street repairs with contractors.

PRECISION MARCHING WAS one of the features yesterday during the Septemberfest Parade in Schaumburg. There were 75 units in the event, followed by a day of unique foods, games and entertainment. A 45-minute fireworks display was planned to culminate the Labor Day celebration. See story on page 5.

Pat Gerlach

An Illinois Labor Department hearing on the Hoffman Estates public works dispute could have, if conducted differently, created a "landmark" for public employees throughout the state.

Last week's labor department hearing was the first of its kind in the state and with no collective bargaining law now in effect for public employees, union lobbying efforts continue to grow.

But had the labor department invoked its right to subpoena village officials to testify at the hearing, the matter would, with little doubt, have ended up in court.

If this happened and the court decided to uphold the department's subpoena power, less need for a bargaining law would have resulted.

GUIDELINES for the department might then have been easily accomplished by amending the laws which now govern the labor department.

As it is, the findings of the hearing may be considered rather meaningless and one-sided since the village did not present testimony.

But whether the village participated in the hearing is in question at this point because Village Clerk Helen Wozniak spoke concerning the validity of signatures on a union petition sent to Gov. Dan Walker. However, Mayor Virginia Hoyter reportedly does not consider Mrs. Wozniak's action in violation of the official village government position on the hearings stating it would not testify. Giger-hon-honor believes the testimony was offered by Mrs. Wozniak as a "free agent" and not as village clerk.

SCHAUMBURG UNITED Party is carrying through on an important campaign promise.

Each village trustee has been assigned one area of the village, on a rotating basis, in which he will go out as an apostle to preach the SUP gospel.

In this way, trustees will be available to their people other than just during an election campaign.

LATE BUT LOVING birthday wishes are in order for Schaumburg's Peg (Mrs. Trustee) Ledgerwood who celebrated Aug. 28.

"RICH OR POOR — It's good to have money," says a grandmother philosopher.

SUP women to meet

Schaumburg United Party Women's Auxiliary will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Great Hall, 231 S. Civic Dr.

A representative of Mark III, a fund raising consulting group, will outline suggested money-making projects, said Nancy Larson, SUPWA president.

Also planned is a discussion of suggested centerpieces SUPWA members are considering making for Schaumburg United Party's Nov. 17 Presidential Ball.

$27 from MD Carnival

Schaumburg youngsters earned $27 to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association during a backyard carnival at 1713 Winthrop Lane recently.

Lynda Britton and her friend Sandi Arnold went to local businessmen for contributions for the association. Besides cash donations from several merchants, they received games to auction off. Contributions came from Buggywhip Liquors, Regency Gallery, Sportsman's Liquors, True Value Hardware, the Ben Franklin and K-Mart.

Neighborhood youngsters who helped in the game booths and refreshment stands are: Lynda, Sandi, Debbie and Doug Allen; Les Arnold; and Karen and Marty Aigner.

We don't want band: Atcher

Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher has denied report that his village is interested in sponsoring the Palatine band and said recent rumor to that effect is "completely false."

"I've called Wendell (Jones, Palatine's mayor) and told him we're not trying to steal the Palatine band," Atcher said.

His statement was in response to comments by Glenn Stephenson, treasurer of the 35-member band, which said Schaumburg's mayor informally approached the band. Stephenson described Atcher's overtures as a "sounding out."

Atcher said he's never spoken to Stephenson, but the talk is reported to have taken place between Atcher and other band members.

Atcher said the only musical group Schaumburg has ever expressed interest in is the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps, now sponsored by the village's association of commerce and industry.

Cowboys top Septemberfest; 10,000 attend

The Schaumburg Cowboys won first place in the general category for their float depicting a jail from "The Day of The Old West" theme for yesterday's Septemberfest in Schaumburg.

More than 10,000 persons attended the event.

Best theme float award was given to the Schaumburg Jaycees in the 75-unit parade which kicked off the day-long activities centering around Campanelli Park yesterday.

Other awards in the general float category were given to the Algonquin Jaycees, second place; and Our Redeemer's United Methodist Church, third place.

In special awards categories, presentations were made to the Schaumburg Athletic Association and the Schaumburg Campfire Girls for their parade presentations.

Awards to marching units went to the Avonettes Baton Corps, first place; the Viscounts Drum and Bugle Corps, second place; and the Vaqueros Drum and Bugle Corps, third place.

NUMEROUS GAME, carnival rides and food concessions filled the park at Weathersfield Way and Braintree Drive where crowds gathered after the parade.

The 'old west' theme was given to the event to help draw attention to the Schaumburg Cowboys Rodeo, Sept. 21-23. It is to be a fund-raising event for Rush-Presbyterian St. Lukes Hospital — North, to be constructed in the village on Schaumburg Road.

The parade was led off by bike-riding youngsters followed by Mayor Robert O. Atcher on horseback.

Entertainment planned for the event included performances by the Hoffman Hallmark Chorus and Leviathan, a rock group.

A $1,000 fireworks display was planned for 9 p.m. as grand finale for the day long celebration.

Ecology commission set

A seven-member environmental commission was created by the village of Schaumburg last week.

The commission replaces the Clean Environment Committee, a voluntary group which operated under the auspices of the board of health for the past two years.

Named to the commission were former CEC members Al Larson, 608 Andrew Ct., Norman Dotti, 1809 Fenwick Ct., and Garry Crawford, 928 Hartford Ln.

Larson is public relations director for the village and Schaumburg United Party. Dotti, a registered professional engineer, is employed by National Loss Control Service as a noise and vibration control manager. Crawford, a chemist, also works for National Loss Control Service specializing in incinerator testing and air pollution control.

Others appointed to the commission include John O'Hara, 1099 Springinguth Rd., a Ph.D. in ecology, Christine Timmons, 1836 Woodshire, and Lorraine Olson, 314 E. Weathersfield Way.

MAYOR ROBERT O. Atcher said the committee will first be asked to recommend performance standards for revising the village zoning ordinance governing industrial parks.

Members will also be asked to develop standards for educating developers in maintaining natural retention basins and peat bogs in designing their building programs, Atcher said.

Other environmental projects will include developing a new code for roads leading into natural areas and special architecture to fit into those areas.

Atcher said he also plans to ask the commission to concern itself with creating ecological areas for use of local school children.

A September organizational meeting of the commission will be called by the mayor.

Today is the first day for them as some 27,000 high school students go back to school throughout the Northwest suburbs. And if you are a freshman, it is the same for you today as it always has been for every freshman who ever got lost or confused that first day.

High school is an imposing and frightening place. You can see it in a freshman's eyes.

ON ORIENTATION day when the class of '77 comes together for the first time to meet their principal and classmates, the kids go through the rituals of learning the facts of high school life.

Last week, Elk Grove High School gave its class of '77 a chance to take a look at the school during freshman orientation. The purpose was to ease the transition into high school, but it was also a chance for an observer to watch the unique combination of excitement and anxiety that belongs to a newcomer to secondary education.

As a small crowd gathered before the program started, boys gathered around a map of the school and girls hovered in a corner, shyly eyeing the senior boys who had come to represent student council.

The group became progressively louder with girls shouting and jumping up and down in their excitement. After a pause to hear speeches from principals and other dignitaries, the group broke up to tour their new school.

DO YOU REMEMBER how big a high school looks to a freshman? Do you remember the endless corridors, the confusing room numbers, the crowds of unfamiliar faces, the panic inside you when the size of the place struck you? It's still the same. Five girls stood helplessly in front of room 106 and told passers-by they were convinced there was no room 102, no matter what the schedule said.

The few parents on hand seemed more worried than the students about some details. "Do you know where your locker is?" a mother asked her son. "I think it's orange," the boy said and gestured toward rows and rows of orange lockers.

The few seniors present shook their heads at the freshmen.

"I can't believe I was ever like this," one said as four younger boys dashed past, playing tag.

FOR MOST OF the freshmen, though, the loud talk and laughter covered a feeling that if this was the beginning of something, it was also an end. Over in one corner a blonde girl stood with her friends, looking quiet and thoughtful.

Earlier the girl had arrived, clutching her class schedule and accompanied by her father. The father had quickly noted that few parents were present and turned to his daughter. "Do you want me to leave, honey?" he said. "I think you'd be more comfortable if I left."

The girl hesitated, her face showing

Rep. Schlickman commends schools on Maryville school site selection

by LINDA PUNCH

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, Friday commended River Trails Dist. 26 officials for their "responsible manner" in selecting a site for the new Maryville school.

Schlickman, sponsor of a bill providing for state funding of the special education facility, spoke at the Dist. 26 Teacher's Institute Day at River Trails Junior High School. He will attend the Sept. 5 meeting of the Dist. 26 Board to discuss Maryville.

Noting that the school district has a legal responsibility to educate the Maryville children, Schlickman said, "The board, administration and teachers of the district are to be complimented for the manner in which they complied."

"The Maryville children are human beings and their problems are the same as those faced by many children in the community, only magnified and more visible," he said.

SCHLICKMAN said the new school building will be a model special education facility "available to all students in the district, subject only to the school board's policy."

"As to the location of the building, educators have agreed that it should be removed from the Maryville Academy campus," he said. "I agree and heartily commend the district's officials for the responsible manner in which they've proceeded."

The goal of the district should be to help Maryville students "acquire the tools they need to succeed in society," according to Schlickman.

"It should not be our goal to make these children just like any other child in the community," he said. "We should help them develop confidence in their own abilities and demonstrate that different can be good."

Earlier in the meeting, Dist. 26 Acting Supt. James Retzlaff told teachers he recommended the River Trails Junior High School site for the Maryville school.

"I recommended the junior high site with the qualifier of park district cooperation. I would not stick a building on that site without adding something to it," Retzlaff said. "I'll be very honest with you — without park district cooperation, I'd be stopped dead in my recommendations."

STATE REP. EUGENE Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, spoke Friday at River Trails Dist. 26 Teacher's Institute. Schlickman, sponsor of a bill funding the Maryville special education facility, praised school officials for their decision on the Maryville school site.

School superintendent has own 'shipyard' in garage

by BOB GALLAS

A school superintendent by day and a shipbuilder by night, Erwin Stevenson shows traditional forms of relaxation to pursue his favorite interest of building boats. He even has his own shipyard — his garage.

Stevenson's ships won't accommodate any passenger weighing more than a few ounces, but they're not the typical models built with kits from a local store. He builds his models virtually from scratch.

As assistant superintendent for Elk Grove Township School Dist. 59, Stevenson agrees wholeheartedly with the theory that a man should have a way to "unwind." Maybe that's why he can sometimes be found in his "shipyard" at 3 a.m.

He first became interested in his hobby about four years ago, while finishing up work on his doctorate degree at Indiana University. "I'd always worked on model planes," he said, "but this model of a ship caught my eye and I've been hooked ever since."

HE SOON LEARNED that he was in for a few problems. There was little interest in shipbuilding in the United States. Balsa wood and some materials were readily available, but plans and detailed parts were only available in England, where shipbuilding is as popular as model airplane building in the United States.

Stevenson's first attempt, which he refers to as "Disaster," sits unfinished on the mantel of his Elk Grove Village home. A rough model of a cabin cruiser, it's a far cry from the boat Stevenson is just finishing up — a four-foot fishing trawler with an electric engine operated by radio remote control.

Stevenson has invested a lot in time and money in his hobby during the last few years, although he says the hobby doesn't have to be expensive. Including plans, the cost for building a four-foot model is about $100. Radio control mechanisms, which can be interchanged from ship to ship, cost about $150.

"A lot of people don't go in for the radio controls," said Stevenson, "and are content to build a 'static' model just to look at. I get twice as much pleasure from building a boat that not only looks, but runs well too."

IT'S BEEN A long time since a car has been able to fit into the Stevenson garage which has been converted into a workshop.

In the center of the garage, amid power saws, drills and various types of paints, sealers and glues, sits Stevenson's latest creation, majestically supported by two sawhorses.

The fishing trawler is detailed down to

Resolution set for meeting tonight

Buy Rob Roy, says plan commission

The Mount Prospect Planning Commission has adopted a resolution recommending the village buy Rob Roy Golf Course.

The resolution will be presented at an executive session meeting between the village board and the River Trails Park Board. The meeting is scheduled for 7:30 tonight at the Mount Prospect Village Hall.

The resolution suggests the village purchase the 180-acre golf course "as long as it is preserved as open space for public use." Commission members said Thursday that parts of the course could be developed with recreational facilities such as bike trails, tennis courts and picnic areas.

A water retention basin, which could be used for water sports, was a "high priority" use cited by the commission. Portions of the land could also be developed with low-density housing integrated with the golf course if it is "financially necessary to sell off any part," according to the recommendation.

The golf course, north of Euclid Avenue between Wheeling and Wolf roads, has an estimated price tag of $10 million. Also to be purchased, if possible, would be the north 19 acres of the adjacent Rob Roy Driving Range.

MAYOR ROBERT D. Telchert announced the village's intentions to investigate purchase of the course last month. He asked for the meeting with the park board because the park district is in the process of condemning the south 19 acres of the driving range.

Telchert estimates it will be at least six months before a decision on such a purchase will be made. He said all possible means of funding such a project will be explored, including a joint venture by the two public bodies.

A report prepared by village planner

Jack Seto recommends the village work with the River Trails Park District and possibly other villages and park districts to help preserve Rob Roy.

The report notes that funds for local open space acquisition are limited.

Early last month, Kenroy Inc. of contracted to purchase the golf course, subject to Kenroy's obtaining residential planned-unit zoning. Roy Gottlieb, a partner in Kenroy, said current plans call for some condominium apartments and a lake.

Jaycees ready for block party

Details are being completed rapidly as the Mount Prospect Jaycees are preparing for the festivities at the village-wide block party Saturday night.

Food, soft drinks and beer will be available at the party, which will begin at 6 p.m. and last until midnight. Emerson Street will be blocked off between Busse Avenue and Northwest Highway for the event.

Two bands will be set up, one at each end of the street. The Ron Bauer Quartet will provide dance music, and the Jaycees are negotiating for a sing-along band. Games and contests are planned, including volleyball matches. Jaycee representatives say there will be plenty of parking in nearby lots.

All proceeds from the event will be used by Jaycees for community events.

The block party is a new idea to replace the traditional Oktoberfest, which became too large for the local group to handle. The Oktoberfest had been staged at the end of summers for four years, but Jaycees said it became crowded with out-of-town visitors. The idea of the block party is to get back to the community, according to Jaycee President Warren Hamilton.

Opponents to speak on street widening

Residents objecting to the path of the planned widening of Lincoln Street from Sha-Bonee Trail to Weller Creek are scheduled to speak at tonight's meeting of the Mount Prospect Village Board.

The meeting will be at 8:30 in the Mount Prospect Village Hall council room. An executive session on land acquisition will be at 7:30 p.m.

Residents on the north side of Lincoln Street are opposing a modification in the plan to widen the street that would widen the roadway more to the north than planned.

Waszak hospitalized

Paul W. Waszak, 20, of Chicago, was hospitalized for a week at Northwest Community Hospital following a motorcycle accident Aug. 26 in a vacant field just north of Ill. Rte. 72.

Waszak had leg injuries when a motorcycle he was riding hit a pile of dirt and asphalt and flipped over.

DP shooting victim termed 'fair' condition

A Des Plaines shooting victim has been removed from intensive care and was listed in fair condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital.

Peter Klein, 29, 910 Beau Dr., spent a "comfortable weekend" and is improving, according to a hospital spokesman.

Klein was shot eight times by his roommate, Antal Schmidt, 29, Tuesday night, according to Des Plaines police. One of the bullets punctured Klein's right lung.

Schmidt was taken to Cook County Jail Wednesday on $25,000 bond to await a Sept. 6 court appearance in Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

According to police the shooting occurred about 8:30 p.m. when Klein returned from work. The roommates had argued earlier over the use of a Jaguar sports car which they shared.

Schools raise milk price to 7 cents

The Prospect Heights School Dist. 23 Board of Education voted recently to raise milk prices from 3 cents to 7 cents a pint.

Dist. 23 Supt. Edward Grodsky said the board had "no choice" but to raise milk prices because of the federal cutback in milk subsidies.

The board also voted to raise the price of hot lunches from 45 cents to 50 cents to meet the increased cost of milk.

PTA notes

The Park View PTA will have its first general meeting of the school year at 8 p.m. Sept. 11. The meeting will be in the school, 805 Burning Bush Ln., Mount Prospect.

The "welcome home" program will include introductions of new teachers and the new principal, Tomkins Barnhart. Parents will be invited to visit the classrooms and talk with their children's teachers after the meeting.

Two youths caught in theft attempt

Mount Prospect police apprehended two youths early Thursday in a burglary attempt at the Mount Prospect Park District Pool Office at Lions Park Pool, 411 S. Maple St.

The boys, both Mount Prospect residents, were discovered by police responding to a park district employee's report of a burglary in progress. They had gained entry to the building by climbing a fence at the rear of the building and forcing the door open.

Police said the youths, 16 and 14-year-old, told them they had previously stolen a park district truck. Both were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Earlier this week, a park district employee told police the Lions Park Pool had been the subject of a series of "malicious and criminal acts." A resuscitator valued at $250 was taken from the pool office Wednesday night.

Man, 26, arrested following fight

A 26-year-old Wheeling man was arrested Thursday night and charged with disorderly conduct following a fight in the Forest City parking lot, 201 W. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect.

According to police reports, Robert L. Flynn, of 1517 Quaker Ln., Wheeling, approached a group of young people in the parking lot and began bothering a girl with the group. When Gregory Heckenback, 1110 N. Meadow Ln., Mount Prospect, objected, Flynn allegedly struck him. Heckenback is engaged to the girl.

Heckenback told police that Flynn called him names and made threats. He said Flynn appeared to be intoxicated.

Flynn is scheduled to appear in Mount Prospect branch of circuit court Sept. 26. He was released on $25 bond.

Queries on flood control distributed

Distribution of flood control questionnaires should be completed by today, according to Mount Prospect Village Mgr. Robert Eppley.

Eppley said two-thirds of the village homes had received their questionnaires on Friday and the rest should have been delivered over the weekend.

Because of the late delivery of some of the questionnaires, Eppley said residents should ignore the Sept. 5 deadline for returning the sheets.

"We'll take them when we can get them," he said.

As of Friday, only 65 questionnaires had been returned to the village. No tally of responses has been made.

Anyone who did not receive a flood control report and questionnaire may pick one up at the Mount Prospect Police Department.

that she wanted to answer both yes and no. "Yes, Dad," she wanted to say. "Leave so I can tackle this adventure on my own." "No, Dad," she wanted to say at the same time. "I'm scared and I want you here just like you were when I was a little girl."

Finally, her father made his own decision. He smiled at his daughter, turned and walked out of the building without looking back.

Now, an hour and a half later, the girl was standing, talking to her friends and looking still a little uneasy. But this was high school. And she was on her own.

Class of '77—what's ahead?

What's ahead for the class of '77?

According to most experts, the freshmen who enter high school today will emerge at the end of the 70s with greater prospects for a job — but that the job market will be dramatically different and oriented towards service rather than production industries.

And above all, the freshmen of today should be prepared to join an increasing band of Americans who are basically rootless as they wander across the country.

The most prominent occupation today is clerical work — not production line factory work — and 67 per cent of our work force is either buying, selling or performing some service.

The trend toward a mobile society is increasing rapidly. Over the past three years 100 million persons have changed addresses and most of the moving has been confined to three areas of the country where the jobs are: California, Florida and Texas.

OTHER TRENDS:

—There will be a greatly increased demand for people with annual skills compared to academic skills.

—A high school education will not be enough to compete on tomorrow's job market, although manual skills compared to academic subjects may not be as valuable as advanced training in some vocational skill.

—The job market will open up dramatically for women. By 1980 half of all the employees will be women, compared to 40 per cent today. In fact, the average girl in high school now will spend more than 25 years of her remaining lifetime as a worker.

School superintendent has own 'shipyard' in garage

the fine trim on the trawler's lifeboats. "I plan to name it 'Pikku Kala,'" said Stevenson, "which is Finnish for 'Little Fish.'"

The garage has started to attract the attention of neighborhood children, some of whom want to try their hands at shipbuilding. Stevenson is delighted by their interest.

"Any hobby is more fun when you can share your interest with someone," said Stevenson, whose nine-year-old son has been working on a sailboat of his own. "It's an especially good pastime for fathers and sons who aren't that interested in sports, but like to spend time together."

Stevenson's interest in his hobby has grown greatly in the last year since he helped form the Northwest Commodore Club. The club, which has about 25 members, filled what Stevenson thought was a real need in the Northwest suburbs.

"I KNEW THERE had to be others in the area who had the same interest in shipbuilding," he said. "The trouble was in finding them. Now when a member of the club runs into a problem when building a boat, he can call on another club member who might have solved the problem before."

The club's summer meetings are usually on Sundays at local lakes. Members race their boats against one another and trade off bits of newly discovered information on their hobby.

tions on how to solve particular building problems and reports on what materials work best or combine with others well.

Club members are at all stages of development in regard to skills, according to Stevenson. They range from builders of plastic "static" ships from model kits to the builder of an eight-foot long torpedo boat powered by a gasoline engine.

Is it possible that some future classes in Dist. 59 may reflect the superintendent of curriculum's thinking? "I'd like to see more craft type classes taught in school," said Stevenson.

"Besides teaching practical things such as how to work with tools and paints, youngsters learn the satisfaction that comes from creating something yourself," he said.

IT'S NOT UNUSUAL for a school administrator to go to night school — except in Stevenson's case. Last year he attended automotive classes to help understand the mechanical aspects of his hobby. Future plans call for courses in electronics and spray painting.

When finished with work on his trawler, Stevenson wants to get started on at least two boats at once — a steam-powered paddle-wheeler and an electric powered Coast Guard cutter. "With more than one boat in the works," said Stevenson, "you don't have to shut down operations when you run into a problem. You just work on the other boat for a while. The variety is nice, too."

Stevenson boosted boat building in the area by helping start the Commodore

Club and may help the hobby again — by writing a book.

STEVENSON'S HOBBY might involve some travel in the future. "I'd really like to take a trip to England this January," he said, "and visit the international exhibition put on there every year by model builders of all kinds."

If Stevenson goes, he's not sure whether he'll take one of his works with him. One thing for sure, it won't be his first work, "Disaster."

"I'd get rid of it, but it reminds me how far I've come in four years," he said. It was necessary to bus the students said.

Summer of '73, class of '77

by WANDALYN RICE

They arrive on their bikes, walking in groups or in cars chauffeured by Mom or Dad; they are short and tall and in various stages of maturity; they are shy and nervous or they are loose, part of a no-sweat world where things come easy.

They were born 14 years ago in 1959 and today, as they start high school as freshmen, they become part of the class of '77—the newest generation of adolescents to go to school and walk into young adulthood.

Today is the first day for them as some 27,000 high school students go back to school throughout the Northwest suburbs. And if you are a freshman, it is the same for you today as it always has been for every freshman who ever got lost or confused that first day.

High school is an imposing and fright-

LOOKING AHEAD TO 1977... the new class of freshmen has arrived.

At Northgate, Windsor Woods

Commuter bus service begins today

Commuter bus service is scheduled to begin this morning in parts of the Northgate subdivision and the Windsor Woods apartments.

Claude Luisada, the president of Metron Systems Corp., the company which plans to operate buses in Arlington Heights, said only one bus would be put into service initially.

The company is currently renting three buses and has plans to expand the commuter service into the Berkeley Square and Surrey Ridge areas.

The buses will take rush-hour riders to and from the Arlington Heights train station for a monthly fee of $15.

THIS MORNING the Northgate bus was scheduled to meet the 6:42, 7:19 and 8:01 trains.

Longer-range plans call for the institution of village commuter service, designed for people who live and also work in Arlington Heights, and dial-a-bus, door-to-door bus rides.

Metron's one-year contract with the village allows the company 90 days from the time it begins railroad commuter service to start dial-a-bus.

An unlimited monthly pass for dial-a-bus will cost $20; monthly youth pass is $15 and monthly senior pass is $13. Single rides will cost 60 cents one-way and 75 cents round trip.

There are no pre-set routes and stops for Metron's commuter buses. Rather, the routes and stops are selected on the basis of where the company finds its riders.

SURVEY QUESTIONNAIRES were mailed to residents in the Berkeley Square, Windsor Woods and Surrey Ridge neighborhoods. Results of the surveys were used in setting up the north side routes.

The Village of Arlington Heights has ordered two new buses at a total cost of $37,000 and plans to lease them to Metron for the duration of the company's contract.

The two new buses will be virtually identical to the three GMC vehicles that are ready for use now.

The start of Metron's bus service was delayed about a month. Painting and overhauling the vehicles, the return of questionnaires and the hiring of drivers all took more time than originally planned, Luisada said.

Metron has similar bus service proposals pending in Buffalo Grove, Mount Prospect and Elk Grove Village.

Armed robber plucks $3,000

A man armed with a rifle took $3,000 from the Kentucky Fried Chicken restaurant in Arlington Heights yesterday morning.

Willie DeJournette, an employee of the restaurant, said he was held up by the gunman at about 9 a.m. and forced to turn over money from the cash register and the safe at the carry out franchise, 132 W. Northwest Hwy.

DeJournette said the robber entered the building through the back door and after taking the money locked DeJournette in a bathroom. DeJournette was discovered an hour later by another employee. The restaurant does not open for business until 11 a.m.

Water pressure low

Residents of Arlington Heights were ordered to stop sprinkling their lawns yesterday by police because of low water pressure.

Police said the north side of town had extremely low water pressure. There were some reports from residents of discolored water.

Arlington Heights allows residents to sprinkle only on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and persons sprinkling yesterday were in violation of village ordinances. Police had no reports of tickets issued.

Requirement won't hold up traffic light

Rolling Meadows City Engineer Edward Fletcher said he does not anticipate problems in starting work within two weeks on the temporary lights, although the state's requirement is expected to hike the cost of the project between $600 and $1,000.

Fletcher said Friday the state notified the engineer's office Thursday of the additional requirement after reviewing a joint plan by the City of Rolling Meadows and the Village of Arlington Heights to install the traffic lights. The plan calls for joint funding of the project between the two municipalities. The temporary lights have been sought by the two towns to reduce the number of traffic accidents at the intersection.

The roads come under the jurisdiction of the state, which allows the state the right to review and revise any improvement plans.

A BID OF $9,200 from the Commercial Light Company of Chicago was the only one received for the project, Rolling Meadows City Mgr. James Watson said. Watson said three other bids had been solicited but the companies declined to offer bids. Newspaper notices also failed to produce more than the one bidder, he said.

The bid was accepted because it was under the maximum $10,000 cost the two communities agreed to share, Watson said. However, the additional state requirement for a magnetic signal-triggering device to be installed underground on Wilke Road will increase the project cost.

Fletcher said he planned to contact the bidding company to determine the additional cost and verify when work could begin on the project. The company had said work could begin two weeks after confirmation of a contract is made, Fletcher said.

Engineers have estimated the entire project would take about 10 working days to complete.

The lights are expected to be in operation for about 12 months until the extension of New Wilke south to Golf Road is completed. Permanent traffic lights are then expected to be installed, with the cost of permanent lights to be shared by the state, Arlington Heights, and Rolling Meadows.

Watson said a formal agreement between Rolling Meadows and Arlington Heights to share the cost of the temporary lights on a 50-50 basis probably will be signed this week. Both communities have passed resolutions saying they will take part in such a funding arrangement.

Flood committee names consultant

The Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding has recommended that Stanley Consultants be hired to review and, if necessary, modify the flood control program outlined last winter by R. J. Peterson & Associates.

Stanley Consultants, a national engineering firm, has quoted a price of $16,000 and a completion time of 90 days for the second study.

Committee Chairman Frank Palmatier said the recommendation to retain the firm would be considered by the village board at its next meeting Sept. 10.

The village paid nearly $16,000 for the Peterson report which basically recommends the construction of retention basins and new storm sewers in critical flood-prone areas throughout the village.

INVITATIONS TO review Peterson's $14 million flood control program were sent to 11 different engineering firms after the committee decided to postpone a referendum on funding the projects until a second study could be made.

Five different firms were interviewed by the committee which last week agreed that Stanley Consultants was best qualified to do the work.

Palmatier said the second study would be "a detailed review of the Peterson report with attention to possibilities of alternative construction."

If there are substantial differences between Peterson's findings and those of the second engineer, the two will work together on a mutually agreed on program, he said.

If the village board accepts the recommendation to hire Stanley Consultants, the final report would be ready sometime in the middle of December. Officials then presumably will be ready to set a date for a referendum on the sale of general obligation bonds to pay for the flood control program.

SEVERAL DIFFERENT dates were set and ultimately postponed last spring and winter when the committee was unable to resolve certain problems, including disagreement with the Arlington Heights Park District over the construction of a retention basin at Pioneer Park.

Trustee Graeme George, a member of the citizens action committee, said Stanley Consultants appeared to be more aware of Arlington Heights flooding problems than the other firms interviewed.

"The committee learned a lot from the interviews. We found out there are several different views on the same problem," he said.

A Canadian jaunt—via bicycle...

Three students from Prospect High School wanted to do something different this summer. So they dug up some county road maps and prepared for a trip to Canada—on bicycles.

"We wanted to do something impressive," said Chris Prinslow of 11 N. Gibbons, Arlington Heights.

Chris and his two friends, Bill Lyon and Kevin Gray, both of Arlington Heights then mapped out their itinerary of county roads in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"Traffic was mostly from the farms," said Chris. "A lot of people think Wisconsin."

Rep. Schlickman praises Maryville site selection

by LINDA PUNCH

State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, Friday commended River Trails Dist. 26 officials for their "responsible manner" in selecting a site for the new Maryville school.

Schlickman, sponsor of a bill providing for state funding of the special education facility, spoke at the Dist. 26 Teacher's Institute Day at River Trails Junior High School. He will attend the Sept. 5 meeting of the Dist. 26 Board to discuss Maryville.

Noting that the school district has a legal responsibility to educate the Maryville children, Schlickman said, "The board, administration and teachers of the district are to be complimented for the manner in which they complied."

"The Maryville children are human beings and their problems are the same as those faced by many children in the community, only magnified and more visible," he said.

SCHLICKMAN said the new school building will be a model special education facility "available to all students in the district, subject only to the school board's policy."

"As to the location of the building, educators have agreed that it should be removed from the Maryville Academy campus," he said. "I agree and heartily commend the district's officials for the responsible manner in which they've proceeded."

The goal of the district should be to help Maryville students "acquire the tools they need to succeed in society" according to Schlickman.

"It should not be our goal to make these children just like any other child in the community," he said. "We should help them develop confidence in their own abilities and demonstrate that different can be good."

Earlier in the meeting, Dist. 26 Acting Supt. James Retzlaff told teachers he recommended the River Trails Junior High School site for the Maryville school.

"I recommended the junior high site with the qualifier of park district cooperation. I would not stick a building on that site without adding something to it," Retzlaff said. "I'll be very honest with you — without park district cooperation, I'd be stopped dead in my recommendations."

TEACHERS SHOULD take Maryville students "as they come, and help them as best we can," the acting superintendent said.

"A school staff should never set itself as a screening body — we should never label a student as hopeful or not promising," he said. "A true democracy respects the worth of every pupil regardless of his origin."

In discussing collective bargaining for teachers, Schlickman said he would support any measure "which would provide a state-wide standard for collective bargaining, including compulsory arbitration and a no-strike provision."

"Like war, the strike is an admission of failure. I sympathize with teachers who are forced to break the law because they have no legal recourse," he said. "But I am also grieved by unbridled militancy that's unsacrificing and insensitive."

Summer's over for kids at least

The summer vacation came to an end today and it was back to school for the more than 12,000 students in Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

District officials have been busy this summer getting the district's 20 schools ready for the opening, ordering supplies, hiring teachers to fill the staff of more than 600 and planning curriculum all in the hopes things will go smoothly today.

Public hearing on garbage pact

A public hearing on the proposed extension of Arlington Heights' contract with the Laseke Disposal Co. has been scheduled for Sept. 11 before the village board finance committee.

The hearing will begin at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

In July the village board voted to accept a residential garbage rate increase to $5.53 monthly, effective Jan. 1, 1974. But the proposed five-year contract between Laseke and the village has not yet been signed by either party.

Finance committee chairman Frank

Palmatier said the public hearing is to give residents the opportunity to ask questions and comment on the pending continuation of Laseke's exclusive contract with the village.

The committee is also expected to continue negotiations on details of the proposed contract.

The $5.53-cent rate accepted by the trustees for continuation of the present twice-a-week backdoor pick up is a 14.7 per cent increase over the current charge of $4.82 a month.

17 named to dean's list

Seventeen students from Arlington Heights recently were named to the dean's list at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb.

They include: Robert A. Anderson, Susan C. Byers, John J. Durso, Janet L. Grossnickle, Dawnmarie A. McGuire, Barbara A. Pouk, Susan G. Schneider and Janis L. Balfour.

Also, Gail F. Conway, Eugene E. Dougherty, Maryann Dudzinski and Steven C. Fisher, Terry F. Mainiero, Karen L. Potter, Mary K. Stearns, M. Elleen Stevens and Mary K. Rogers.

that she wanted to answer both yes and no. "Yes, Dad," she wanted to say, "Leave so I can tackle this adventure on my own." "No, Dad," she wanted to say at the same time. "I'm scared and I want you here just like you were when I was a little girl."

Finally, her father made his own decision. He smiled at his daughter, turned and walked out of the building without looking back.

Now, an hour and a half later, the girl was standing, talking to her friends and looking still a little uneasy. But this was high school. And she was on her own.

Class of '77—what's ahead?

What's ahead for the class of '77?

According to most experts, the freshmen who enter high school today will emerge at the end of the 70s with greater prospects for a job — but that the job market will be dramatically different and oriented towards service rather than production industries.

And above all, the freshmen of today should be prepared to join an increasing band of Americans who are basically rootless as they wander across the country.

The most prominent occupation today is clerical work — not production line factory work — and 67 per cent of our work force is either buying, selling or performing some service.

The trend toward a mobile society is increasing rapidly. Over the past three years 100 million persons have changed addresses and most of the moving has been confined to three areas of the country where the jobs are: California, Florida and Texas.

OTHER TRENDS:

—There will be a greatly increased demand for people with annual skills compared to academic skills.

—A high school education will not be enough to compete on tomorrow's job market, although manual skills compared to academic subjects may not be as valuable as advanced training in some vocational field.

—The job market will open up dramatically for women. By 1980 half of all the employees will be women, compared to 40 per cent today. In fact, the average girl in high school now will spend more than 25 years of her remaining lifetime as a worker.

DP shooting victim termed 'fair' condition

A Des Plaines shooting victim has been removed from intensive care and was listed in fair condition yesterday at Holy Family Hospital.

Peter Klein, 29, 910 Beau Dr., spent a "comfortable weekend" and is improving, according to a hospital spokesman.

Klein was shot eight times by his roommate, Antal Schmidt, 29, Tuesday night, according to Des Plaines police. One of the bullets punctured Klein's right lung.

Schmidt was taken to Cook County Jail Wednesday on $25,000 bond to await a Sept. 6 court appearance in Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

According to police the shooting occurred about 6:30 p.m. when Klein returned from work. The roommates had argued earlier over the use of a Jaguar sports car which they shared.

sin is flat, but it's hills. Those county roads were fooling. We had three flat tires."

SOMETIMES THE roads they had planned to take were under construction or torn up. "We had to change the itinerary but we had some good luck," said Bill.

"People were pretty friendly and helpful," he added. "We saw other bike riders. We would see a group almost every day."

Averaging about 65 miles a day, the boys followed an easy-going schedule. "Some days we'll do 90 (miles) and on some 35," said Chris. "We wanted to enjoy ourselves."

At night, the boys stayed with relatives who live in Wisconsin and Minnesota. "In the morning we bought sweet rolls and had peanut butter and jelly sandwiches for lunches and then we stopped at relatives' for dinners," said Chris.

In nine days, the group (minus Kevin who had gotten ill on the trip and had to board a bus back to Arlington Heights) arrived at the Canadian border.

However, the pedaling stopped there and the two got a bus for home. "I'm already planning something for next summer," said Chris.
